ACEC Indiana has made great strides at achieving strategic objectives set forth in the Strategic Plan. The first momentous action was hiring a third staff member, Shelby Courtney, as Membership and Communications Coordinator.

Shelby is a graduate of IUPUI with a bachelor’s degree in journalism and a minor in event management. Shelby has experience in marketing and communications through her internship with Ronald McDonald House of Central Indiana. With her social media background, Shelby plans to help ACEC IN establish a greater social media presence and help develop fresh ideas to increase membership participation and engagement.

Shelby will assist with development and coordination of marketing/communications of ACEC IN events, conferences, workshops, industry initiatives and agendas via the website, newsletters, and other online platforms. Shelby will also assist with event coordination as well as collaboration with members on membership retention and recruitment efforts and resources.

Other significant Strategic Plan objective milestones include the creation of the Membership Engagement Committee, which hosted its first meeting in August 2017. The Committee set forth its goals for its first year to:

- Increase Participation of Young Professionals
- Member Firm Engagement through Mentoring
- Additional Networking Opportunities with Value
- Establishing a Social Media Presence

The Strategic Plan also called for ACEC Indiana to serve as engineering companies’ primary resource on business practices. To that end, ACEC Indiana has established Forums to connect member firm employees with specific functional responsibilities network with peers at other member firms. Current Forums include: Finance, Human Resources, Information Technology, Legal Counsel and Project Management.

ACEC Indiana hosted its first Forum Roundtable for Human Resources professionals. The meeting had strong attendance with 30 individuals registered. Registrants contributed to the agenda prior to the meeting. Facilitators Scott Tant and Terry Lainhart from Professional Staff Management steered the idea sharing and best practices discussion.

ACEC Indiana Leadership is excited for the new direction the Strategic Plan is guiding the association. To learn more about the Strategic Plan, click here.
