Lincoln Announces Case Study Award Winners

ACSP and the Lincoln Institute of Land Policy would like to thank everyone who submitted entries for the 2023 Case Study Awards.

The selection committee has reviewed all case study proposals and was very impressed by the breadth of responses which covered a wide-range of issues and municipalities across the globe. The task of selecting 10 awards (for $2,000 each) from the large pool of quality proposals was difficult.

Congratulations to all the recipients of the 2023 Case Study Award!

1. Wayne Feiden, University of Massachusetts
   Low-Carbon, Climate Resilience Opportunities in Small Limited Resource Cities

2. Ariadna Reyes-Sanchez, University of Texas at Arlington

TODAY is the "Intent to Submit" Deadline for the 2023 Best Paper Award

Join the list of those honored as Best Paper Award winners! A total of $3,000 USD is available for promising research studying the connections between planning and entrepreneurship.

"Every planning and entrepreneurship scholar agrees that inclusion is an utmost issue, and there has been an emerging body of studies indicating the disparities between mainstream and marginalized entrepreneurs. However, there is a lack of understanding about how we can include marginalized entrepreneurs, and we are grateful that the award committee valued our contribution on this subject, as well as our experimental research method," Yasuyuki Motoyama (2022 First Place Winner)

Student Award Highlight - Karen Polenske Award

Do you have what it takes to win the ACSP/IACP Karen R. Polenske Best Student Paper Award for Outstanding Paper on a China Planning Related Topic? This annual award honors the late, great Massachusetts Institute of Technology Professor Karen R. Polenske, a prominent regional economist and leading scholar of China's sustainable development. Through generous donations made by Professor Polenske's former students, this award is granted annually to International Association for China Planning (IACP) student members who deliver excellent research at the ACSP Annual Conference.

Apply before June 1 to be considered!
