It’s my pleasure to welcome you to the 4th Joint AESOP/ACSP Congress, which is also the 49th Annual ACSP Conference. It promises to be a very stimulating conference in one of America’s most exciting cities.

The conference theme, Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City, speaks to us in a variety of ways. Most directly, of course, it suggests the various divides — racial, ethnic, religious, and so on — that characterize many cities around the world, as well as the possibilities for planning as a source of knowledge and action to help bridge those divides. The empirical, theoretical, methodological, and pedagogical sessions that form the heart of our conference will challenge us to think deeply and creatively about the ways planning can make a difference.

The theme also captures the spirit of the ongoing relationship between ACSP and our AESOP colleagues. Our two organizations have been celebrating the city and working to create bridges among our members since our first joint congress at Oxford in 1991. The institutional and individual relationships that have developed over the past seventeen years are too numerous to mention. They cross the full range of our scholarly, teaching, and public service activities, from joint research projects to collaborative studios and consultations. This Joint Congress is an opportunity to affirm existing relationships and forge new ones.

Ten years after Oxford, with the first World Planning Schools Congress (WPSC) at Shanghai in 2001, our bridging took the leap to the global. The Global Planning Education Network (GPEAN), a network of nine associations of university-level urban and regional planning programs from around the world, emerged from WPSC. The GPEAN leadership is holding its annual meetings at the Joint Congress. This includes the WPSC Steering Committee which, following the success of WPSC2 in Mexico City in 2006, is planning for WPSC3. Please join me in welcoming them to Chicago.

In another exciting bridging opportunity, our Joint Congress is overlapping with the 13th International Planning History Society Conference (IPHS). IPHS will meet at the same hotel as the Joint Congress, from July 10-13. For those interested in urban history and the history of planning this is a wonderful chance to link with colleagues from around the world.

Bringing the theme of Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City down to the reality of the local context, an impressive number of walking, biking, bus, and train mobile workshops are on offer, including several with historical emphases organized by IPHS. Chicago embodies many of the divides implied by the theme; it also exemplifies many important, successful planning solutions. I urge you to get to know our host city.

Finally, I want to acknowledge the organizers of this wonderful event. Curt Winkle of the University of Illinois at Chicago chairs ACSP’s Conference Committee. Donna Dodd is our Association Manager and Conference Director. They have had the major responsibility for everything from planning to scheduling to logistics. Every participant in the Joint Congress owes them a debt of gratitude.

Curt and Donna have been ably supported by the Joint Congress Steering Committee, which is co-chaired by Curt and Simin Davoudi, Newcastle University; other members are Peter Ache, Helsinki University of Technology, Robin Boyle, Wayne State University, and Karel Meier, Czech Technical University of Prague. Curt is also Chair of the Local Host Committee from the University of Illinois at Chicago; other members are Karen Berthiaume, John Betancur, Charles Hoch, Martin Jaffe, and Jodi White.

Enjoy the conference!

Michael Hibbard
University of Oregon, Eugene
The current congress is the fourth Joint Congress of ACSP and AESoP. For our association, the great interest from planning scholars from America, Europe and beyond demonstrates also that AESoP has developed a lot during its already twenty years of existence. The number of papers from both associations show, how rich and wide our planning knowledge is and we will for sure enjoy a good range of stimulating discussions and exchanges of ideas between planning scholars, educators and practitioners.

Behind the scenes, people worked for this success. I would therefore like to thank the two chairs of the Joint Congress Committee, Simin Davoudi and Curt Winkle for establishing an excellent cooperation. My particular thanks then go again to the local chair Curt Winkle and his colleagues from the Local Host Committee at the University of Illinois at Chicago for all their efforts in preparing an outstanding event in a wonderful location. They were supported by Donna Dodd who has done an excellent job as Congress Director.

I wish you all a stimulating conference and a pleasant time in Chicago.

Dear Participants of the joint ACSP/AESOP 2008 Conference ‘Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City’

On behalf of AESOP, I warmly welcome you to a new Joint Conference with our partner association ACSP in Chicago. With about 1000 participants coming from many countries around the world we are facing a very exciting and stimulating six days of scholarly exchange and debate. The topic ‘Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City’ is well chosen for that purpose, allowing for multi-faceted interpretations and views: The city and the urban are the epitome of our current third millennium (UN Habitat).

In Europe the strategic dimension in particular of the large metropolitan spaces has received a new impulse, pointing out the motoric qualities of those units, driving societies ahead in economic terms. We also witness the increasing divides between those steaming ships and the seas of deserts around them, to use a figure for characterisation. On board, not every passenger travels happily – increasingly our urban societies are divided societies. The dividing lines go along with many dimensions, the cities find themselves in a position of multiple ‘frontier spaces’, as our colleague Saskia Sassen phrased it. Obviously, the core object of our profession still manages to escape our efforts to understand, conceptualize, manage, develop, and improve and instead surprises us, time and again.

Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City

The conference theme “Bridging the Divide: Celebrating the City” focuses on the mediating role of cities. Many cities are, to some degree, divided or contested. And cities themselves may play roles in reproducing identities that promote conflict between racial, ethnic, religious or national groups. A key question arises: How can innovative approaches to planning and governance help to bridge these divides?

We encouraged papers and debate on the nature of these divides and the role that cities play in spanning them, through, for example, place-shaping, infrastructure development, governance, fostering of bridging social capital, capacity building, promoting environmental justice, reducing health disparities, and creating mechanisms for conflict resolution.

We hope to learn by building bridges in scholarship—sharing international perspectives and experiences on the role of cities in mediating conflict.
From the Chairs of the Joint Congress Steering Committee

In the last 17 years since ACSP and AESOP held their first joint congress in Oxford we have developed closer ties academically, professionally, institutionally and on an individual basis. Our joint congresses have gone from strength to strength in terms of their scale, scope and quality of engagement. With more than 1000 participants from more than 40 countries, the Chicago Congress has broken all records to become the largest gathering ever of planning scholars in the United States and Europe. It is also set to raise the bar with regard to the quality of debate and scholarship. Our joint congresses which happen about every five years provide not only a forum for intellectual exchanges in the field of spatial planning, but also a site for social learning and for deeper understanding of the working practices and institutional traditions of our two associations. Our joint congresses have proved to be an effective way of bridging the divides and celebrating diversity.

For us, the co-chairs of the Joint Congress Steering Committee, the last two years of working together has been a rich and challenging experience; one which will undoubtedly remain a major story and privilege of our academic life. We have been supported generously by members of the Joint Steering Committee: Peter Ache, Helsinki University of Technology; Robin Boyle, Wayne State University; Michael Hibbard, University of Oregon; and Karel Meier, Czech Technical University of Prague. Furthermore, we wouldn’t have had a congress if not for the Local Host Committee at the University of Illinois at Chicago. We would like to express our sincere gratitude to you for your participation, and particularly to those who acted as track chairs, moderators and discussants.

With best wishes for a stimulating and enjoyable congress!

Simin Davoudi, Newcastle University, UK
Curt Winkle, University of Illinois, Chicago

From the Co-Chairs of the Local Host Committee

Welcome! We are delighted to share our city and hope that you find this to be an engaging place to bridge the divide between scholarship in the U.S. and Europe.

While exploring the city, you will see racial, ethnic and other divides among neighborhoods as well as the many ways in which the structure of neighborhoods, the lakefront and citywide festivals bring people together.

We have planned mobile workshops to guide your explorations, but we also encourage you to strike out on your own and become part of this city of neighborhoods with the help of scores of practicing planners, faculty and students who share their advice on what to see and where to eat in the booklet included in your congress packet. Planners report the Wicker Park neighborhood to be the place where they have the most fun outside of their homes, for example. If you can only see one suburb, consider Oak Park for its architecture and accessibility. Both are easily accessible by CTA. Planners think the best tour of the city may be the Architecture River Cruise provided by the Chicago Architecture Foundation. You will find this and other advice on restaurants and music venues and plus a list of the worst-planned places in Chicago!

Our thanks to Ernest Mahaffey, the UIC Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy, the UIC Great Cities Institute, Robin Hambleton, the Chicago Council on Global Affairs and TimeOut Chicago for their support of this conference. Thank you to Andrew Greenley who coordinated the mobile workshops; Ratoola Kundu who organized the student reception; and Ann Barnds who prepared the survey of planners.

Have a fun and productive stay in Chicago!

Highlights
Globalization presents grave challenges to the manufacturing towns and cities of the American Midwest, Chicago’s hinterland, and most of these cities are failing this challenge. The Midwest pioneered the Industrial Era in America. It was the Silicon Valley of the early 20th century and thrived for a century on the ideas and innovations of that era. Now that era is gone, replaced by the Global Era. Some cities, like Chicago, have made the transformation. Others, from Cleveland to St. Louis, haven’t. The result is a deep divide between global cities and post-industrial slums, between thriving metro areas and declining hinterlands, between races in a traditionally segregated region and between classes in a region that has always seen itself as classless. Richard C. Longworth, author of the new book “Caught in the Middle: America’s Heartland in the Age of Globalism,” discusses these new challenges to Midwestern cities and to their civilizations.

Richard Longworth is a senior fellow at the Chicago Council on Global Affairs and author of the new book, Caught in the Middle: America’s Heartland in the Age of Globalism, published in January by Bloomsbury. Longworth joined the Council in 2003 as executive director of its Global Chicago Center after a career in journalism, most recently as senior correspondent for the Chicago Tribune. For 20 years, Longworth was a foreign correspondent for the Tribune and United Press International and was the Tribune’s Chief European Correspondent. He has reported from 75 countries on five continents.

Economic change, driven as always by technology, is creating a new urban geography across the developed world. The old industrial heartland regions are declining; regions around great trading cities - London, Paris, Amsterdam, New York, San Francisco - are booming and expanding into vast polycentric mega-city regions in which different cities play different roles in a highly synergistic urban network. But there are two interesting complications.

First, in the old Rustbelt regions, some major cities - Chicago, Liverpool, Manchester, Lille - are making a spectacular comeback. But second, these successful cities increasingly exhibit sharp contrasts between vibrant downtowns and increasingly isolated ghettos of deep deprivation.

Sometimes there is a racial component here. But more fundamental is the fact that here - as in the old one-industry towns in these same regions, which lack the means to develop a new economic base - successive generations of blue-collar families are failing to make a successful transition through the educational system into the new economy. As the Democratic primaries so clearly showed, the outcome is a fundamentally new class divide in advanced western economies.

Peter Hall is Professor of Planning and Regeneration at the Bartlett School of Architecture and Planning, University College London and President of the Town and Country Planning Association. From 1991-1994 he was Special Adviser on Strategic Planning to the Secretary of State for the Environment, with special reference to issues of London and South East regional planning including Thames Gateway and the Channel Tunnel Rail Link. In 1998-99 he was a member of the Deputy Prime Minister’s Urban Task Force. From 2004-2008 he was Chair of ReBlackpool, the Blackpool Urban Regeneration Company. He is author, co-author or editor of more than 35 books on urban and regional planning and related topics - most recently, London Voices London Lives, published in 2007. He received the Gold Medal of the Royal Town Planning Institute in 2003, the Balzan International Prize in 2005 and the Sir Patrick Abercrombie Prize of the International Union of Architects in 2008.
Welcome Reception Cruise Aboard the Odyssey

Monday, July 7, Boarding at 6:00 pm

Do not miss the opening reception cruise of the ACSP-AESOP 4th Joint Congress. Board the Odyssey or the Spirit of Chicago which both disembark from Navy Pier on Lake Michigan. Both ships offer signature elegance and total entertainment experiences only true luxury cruising vessels can provide. Creative appetizers, entrees and desserts prepared fresh onboard daily. Award-winning wines. Dancing to live music. And unmatched skyline views of Chicago drifting past your table.

Round trip motor coach transportation will be provided from the Marriott Hotel beginning at 5:30pm, but Navy Pier is also walking distance from the hotel. Written directions can be provided. Please ask for them at the registration desk.

Arrive at 6:00pm to pick up your tickets and board the ship. Check in at the Congress registration desk just in front of either ship. Given the size of attendance at this year’s Joint Congress, we advise you to pre-arrange to travel to Navy Pier with friends as you might end up on separate ships. Enjoy!
Inter-continental Planning Student Reception

Tuesday, July 8, Fadó Irish Pub, 6:00 – 8:00 pm

Fadó, pronounced f’doe, is the Irish expression meaning “long ago”. The term was commonly used as the preface of old Irish stories told by the Seanchaí (Shan-kee) or storyteller. At Fadó they tell the story of Ireland’s rich and celebrated pub culture. It is a culture of hospitable surroundings, good food and good drink, and friendly conversation - what they call “craic”. Fadó blends the best of the old with the best of the new. The decor and friendly staff evoke images of the great old pubs of Ireland whereas the style of operating - music, food, beverages - connects more so with the contemporary pubs and bars of modern Ireland.

Fadó is located at 100 W. Grand in the heart of downtown Chicago on the corner of Clark and Grand, across the street from Maggiano’s 312-836-0066. See our ad on page 30 for more details.

Tuesday, July 8, 9:45am – 11:15am
ACSP Special Tribute Session - Martin Meyerson: Practitioner, Educator, Researcher
Room: 6th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Great America II

Martin Meyerson (1922-2007) had important impacts on the planning profession as a practitioner, educator, researcher, theoretician and university president. This panel will focus on Meyerson’s early career as a planning practitioner and scholar, from the late 1940s to the 1960s. While it will review Meyerson’s contributions to planning theory, education and research, its intent is to illuminate a relatively unstudied period of planning history. Papers will explore key ideas including the evolution of the public interest, track the persistence of these ideas through generations of students as well as in publications and research stimulated by Meyerson at critical points of his career.

Tuesday, July 8, 4:45pm – 6:15pm
ACSP General Assembly and Awards Ceremony
Room: 7th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Salon I

Tuesday, July 9, 9:45am – 11:15am

Wednesday, July 9, 9:45am – 11:15am
ACSP-AESOP Joint Presidential Session: Planning, Imagination and Transnational Scholarship: A Tribute to Peter H. Marris
Room: 10th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Huron Room

The purpose of the panel is to review the lifetime research contribution of Professor Peter H. Marris who conducted sociological and planning related research on three continents—namely Europe, Africa and the United States—to understand the disruptive impact of social changes on the human condition.

Thursday, July 10, 9:45am – 11:15am
Student Award Paper Session
Room: 10th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Huron Room

Students of both organizations, ACSP and AESOP, will present their award winning papers during this special session. Come hear the best of the best.
Wednesday, July 9, 9:45am – 11:15am

Young Academics (AESOP YA) Roundtable: Getting the most out of the “Paper Presenting Experience”

Room: 6th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Michigan Room

All are invited. The AESOP Young Academics have recognized that young planning scholars often find it difficult to position themselves at big scientific conferences. One of the reasons for this includes fear of presenting to an experienced audience, which may be exacerbated by a lack of the know-how of good presenting. Therefore, for their 2008 Roundtable, the AESOP Young Academics are organizing a Session at the ACSP/AESO Chicago Conference to help young planning scholars overcoming their personal uncertainties and to encourage them to become more active at scientific conferences. The focus of the roundtable is to look at the different benefits that academics can derive from presenting at conferences. This provides a mean to look at the different approaches that can be taken to giving a paper, and to highlight the practicalities involved in ensuring that young academics really do benefit from conference participation.

• presentations as a road map to academic publishing;
• presentations as a ‘dry run’ for the oral examination or viva voce exam; presentations as a transferable skill for the academic career;
• presentations to catch the eye of a potential partner, external examiner or collaborator.

Friday, July 11, 8:00am – 9:00am

PhD Matriculation Roundtable
Hosted by the ACSP Student Board Representatives

Room: 6th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Illinois Room

All are invited. This informal roundtable discussion will include topics such as: timeline for comprehensive exams; dissertation preparation; publication; relationship with advisors; the balance between family, job hunting and offer negotiation; and more.

Thursday, July 10, 4:30 – 6:00pm

IPHS Opening Plenary - The Plan of Chicago: New Perspectives (everyone invited)

Room: 7th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Salon II

From the day it was issued in 1909, The Plan of Chicago by Daniel Burnham and Edward Bennett took its place as a landmark in urban planning. In this panel we will hear from Carl Smith; Franklyn Bliss Snyder, Professor of English and American Studies at Northwestern University, author of the highly regarded book, The Plan of Chicago: Daniel Burnham and the Remaking of the American City (2006), which won the Lewis Mumford Prize for Best Book in Planning History given by the Society of American City, Regional, and Planning History, and leading author of an interpretive digital website on the plan for the Encyclopedia of Chicago; and Kristen Schaffer, Associate Professor of Architecture at North Carolina State University, and author of a ground breaking analysis of the Burnham Plan in the reprint of the Burnham plan published by Princeton Architectural Press in 1993. Commentary will be provided by Neil Harris, professor emeritus at the University of Chicago and one of the nation’s foremost scholars of American culture.

Panel Discussion: What Does Diversity Amount to in Chicago?

Moderator: BETANCUR, John J. [University of Illinois at Chicago] betancur@uic.edu

Room: 6th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Great America I

Presenters offer a comparative analysis of the Washington and Daley administrations from the Black and Latino perspectives. They address how municipal government has contributed to the conditions of blacks and Latinos by contrasting both administrations in light of their support or undermining of under represented groups; they examine the opportunities they had in accessing jobs, contracts, and basic services.

Moderator: WINKLE, Curt [University of Illinois at Chicago] cwinkle@uic.edu

Room: 6th Floor, Marriott Hotel, Great America I

Closed to the press.

Skidmore, Owings & Merrill LLP (SOM), under the direction of the City of Chicago and Chicago 2016, has been working to develop a plan for Chicago’s bid to host the 2016 Olympic Games. Coordinating with dozens of architects, planners, engineers, and construction firms, SOM has been a key contributor to the planning effort that resulted in Chicago being selected to represent the United States in the international phase of the bid. The plan carefully balances compactness with integration into our city by placing most venues within an easy walk of transit and close to both downtown and the lakefront. Tom Kerwin and Phil Enquist from SOM will discuss the Olympic planning process and will share their thoughts about the potential legacy of a successful bid.

Tom Kerwin is a Managing Partner in the Chicago office of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill LLP and oversees the firm’s involvement with Chicago 2016.

Phil Enquist is Partner in charge of planning and urban design in the Chicago office of Skidmore, Owings & Merrill LLP.
Planning Ideas and Planning Practices

Track 16 – Sponsored by the Journal, Planning Theory & Practice, published by Routledge

This track takes a critical look at the international diffusion of planning ideas and practices, their impacts on planning practices in different contexts, on the challenge of ‘situating’ planning practices, and on the ethical issues of international exchange in the planning field. The track is linked to a book project, in production to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the journal, Planning Theory & Practice, in 2009. Published in conjunction with the Royal Town Planning Institute, London, the Journal offers an arena for international debate and more effective communication and sharing of ideas between practitioners and academics.

Down To Earth: Recognizing The Inevitably Situated Nature Of Planning Practice [991]
WATSON, Vanessa J. [University of Cape Town] vanessa.watson@uct.ac.za
Lincoln Institute of Land Policy Sponsored Sessions

The Lincoln Institute of Land Policy is a leading resource for key issues concerning the use, regulation and taxation of land. Providing high-quality education and research, the Institute strives to improve public dialogue and decisions about land policy. Founded in 1974 and located in Cambridge, Mass., the Lincoln Institute organizes its work in planning and urban form; economic and community development; valuation and taxation; and international land policy, with a special emphasis on Latin America and China. Publications, online information, and a range of interactive resources and tools are available at the website, www.lincolninst.edu.

What is the purpose of local development planning and how is it best carried out? Should strategies aimed at low-wage labor markets, or low-income residential neighborhoods, or fiscally strained service districts focus their efforts on place-conditioned assistance and incentives, targeting those areas? Or should they instead respond to the loud criticisms of many economists that place-based aid is distortionary and badly targeted by promoting pure-people assistance, regardless of their location?

Put another way, is the debate between place-based and people-based strategies at all, or do other questions of means or goals better describe the important tradeoffs for practice?

Roundtable participants will react to a Lincoln research project on this issue and then offer their perspectives on the larger debate and its usefulness for current community development research and action.
Since the 1970’s, inclusionary zoning, through which provision of social housing has been linked to the marketplace and developers provided incentives to produce social housing, has been part of the housing policy framework in the United States. Similar transformations of economic and social policy, and a breakdown of the traditional barriers between the social housing sector and the market have been a more recent phenomenon in Europe. As that transformation has taken place, largely during the past decade, inclusionary housing has emerged as a major, continuing part of the housing policy framework in the United States. Since the 1970's, inclusionary zoning, through which provision of social housing has been linked to the marketplace and developers provided incentives to produce social housing, has been part of the housing policy framework in the United States. Similar transformations of economic and social policy, and a breakdown of the traditional barriers between the social housing sector and the market have been a more recent phenomenon in Europe. As that transformation has taken place, largely during the past decade, inclusionary housing has emerged as a major, continuing part of the policy landscape in a number of different European countries, including France, Ireland, Italy, Spain and the United Kingdom. The form it has taken in each country reflects the distinctive features of that country's land use regime and social policy framework, including sharply different approaches to critical questions such as land value recapture, social inclusion and the continued role of public financing and subsidies in the provision of social housing.

The three presentations will explore these issues in the European countries listed above as well as in the United States, focusing on a number of common themes and the manner in which each country has arrived at different ways of both framing and resolving these issues. Key themes will include the relationship between inclusionary requirements and land value, and the use of inclusionary housing as a land value recapture mechanism; the relationship between developers, social housing entities and the public sector, and the changing role of social housing entities (both public and private) as methods of social housing production change; the role of inclusionary housing as a vehicle for social inclusion at both the micro-scale (the individual building) and the larger community scale; and the ways in which inclusionary development strategies are (or are not) integrated into the larger community and regional planning frameworks. These presentations will not only illuminate the issues surrounding inclusionary housing in these countries, but provide a perspective on the future of social housing generally in Western Europe and the United States.
Wednesday Mobile Tours

Please meet in the hotel lobby and gather near your tour sign. Tickets are required.

1 – Bus Tour
Public Housing: Transforming What Into What?
Tour Leader: Janet Smith
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

The City of Chicago is implementing a multi-billion dollar effort to demolish and rebuild 25,000 units of public housing for the poor. The end result is to be a collection of mixed-income communities with both owner and renter occupied housing. This plan is not without controversy or concern. Chicago is short on affordable rental housing for low-income families and is now experiencing a serious crisis with mortgage foreclosures and a stalled for-sale market. Many planners and elected officials from Europe and the U.S. have come to see the new development. Few, however, have had the opportunity to talk to residents and activists about what is being experienced on the ground. This tour will take people to see redeveloped sites, speak with planners and others involved in the redevelopment, and to meet with residents from Cabrini Green - one of the last standing developments.

2 – Bus Tour
Green Chicago
Tour Leaders: Marty Jaffe and Moira Zellner
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

Discover why Chicago is becoming known worldwide as a leader in environmental innovation. Begin with a brief discussion on greening issues with representatives of Chicago's city government while touring City Hall's green roof, observing the greening of the city's streets and infrastructure, ending up at the Center for Green Technology, to visit a showcase of green strategies and technologies. Green Chicago

3 – Bus Tour
Urban Agriculture in Chicago
Tour Leader: Lynn Peemoeller
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

Visit three of Chicago's most interesting urban agriculture projects and see different working models. Learn how urban agriculture effects economic and community development throughout the city and how city policy can support these projects.

4 – Bus Tour
Cultural Heritage Tourism
Tour Leader: Doug Gills
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

Visit several Chicago neighborhoods and the potential for the use of cultural heritage tourism to work as a source of community building and intergovernmental linkage around community heritage sites and histories. We will visit neighborhoods such as Bronzeville, North Lawndale, Pilsen, and Chinatown to understand how neighborhood cultural histories can be used as tools for both economic and community development.

5 – Bike Tour
of Chicago’s Lakefront
Tour Leader: Curt Winkle
Schedule: 12:00pm-4:00pm

Come explore part of the city's 18 mile long lakefront bike path and the communities that surround it. Points of interest may include the McDonalds Cycle Center at Millennium Park, rolling past Navy Pier and Oak Street Beach, touring through Lincoln Park, and a visit to a local bike shop. The tour fee includes bike and helmet rental.

6 – Bike Tour
of Industrial Chicago
Tour Leader: Rachel Weber
Schedule: 12:00pm-4:00pm

We will explore several of Chicago's inner-city manufacturing districts by bike to experience up-close the dramatic changes in the architecture, urban design, and planning for industrial production that have occurred within the last century. Along the way, we will speak with city planners about Chicago's Planned Manufacturing District and environmental remediation programs, local industrial councils about the threat of residential encroachment, and business owners and labor representatives about the challenges of operating in high-cost urban locations in an increasingly globalized economy. The tour fee includes bike and helmet rental.

7 – Walking Tour
Millennium Park: A Cultural Venue with an Economic Impact
Tour Leader: Ed Uhlir
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

Preliminary Presentation: Illinois Room

The creation of Chicago's 25 acre Millennium Park was a complex and unusual undertaking. Through an unprecedented public/private partnership an extraordinary outdoor cultural experience was designed by some of the best architects, landscape designers and artists in the world including Frank Gehry, Anish Kapoor, Jaume Plensa and Kathryn Gustafson. The tour will provide a behind the scenes look at its award winning designs and commentary on the complexities and difficulties of managing a large scale project by Millennium Park’s Design Director, Ed Uhlir. The discussion will also explain that major economic benefits can result from the creation of a signature park. The park was designed to be universally accessible.

8 – Train Tour
CTA History by Train
Tour Leader: Mike Shiffer
Schedule: 11:30pm-4:00pm

Join us for an unusual opportunity to tour Chicago via its elevated transit system (known locally as the “L”) aboard our own chartered train! Since 1892, Chicago’s “L” has been a cornerstone of the region’s transportation system. Its development (and the subsequent reconstruction and extension of several lines) closely matches Chicago’s urban dynamic. The narrated tour will cover several lines throughout the city (traveling above, below and at street level). It will include commentary by noted historians on nearby land uses, the history and technology of the “L” itself, and plans for the future of Chicago’s mass transit system. Don’t miss this unusual event!

9 – Bus Tour
Legacy of the Plan of Chicago
Tour Leader: Dennis McClendon
Schedule: 12:30pm-4:00pm

Daniel Burnham and Edward Bennett’s 1909 vision for the city is still revered but the plan’s actual results are often misunderstood or forgotten. This bus tour of the central city will look at the Plan’s physical legacies: Navy Pier, North Michigan Avenue, Northerly Island, a straightened river, Ogden Avenue, Congress Parkway, Union Station, Wacker Drive. We’ll look at projects that greatly benefitted the city, at proposals that later generations reconsidered, and at heroic accomplishments that in the end meant little.

10 – Walking Tour
Chicago Neighborhoods through Food
Tour Leader: Piyushimita (Vonu) Thakuriah
Schedule: 11:45am-2:15pm

Chicago is known as the “City of Big Shoulders” but is also unofficially known as the “City of Big Eaters.” Come explore several of the city’s unique ethnic neighborhoods the way many Chicagoans do - through traditions of food. We will have the opportunity to visit several ethnic communities throughout the city, and will taste our way across them. Tour cost includes tasting portions at several locations. Participants are welcome to purchase additional items on their own.

11 – Walking Tour
Chicago’s Moveable Bridges
Tour Leader: Thomas Powers
Schedule: 12:30pm-2:15pm

This walking tour, led by Thomas Powers, Deputy Commissioner for the city of Chicago Department of Transportation will provide an overview of the history and operations of one of Chicago’s most recognizable pieces of infrastructure - the moveable bridges that span the Chicago River. In addition to describing the history, operations and staffing requirements for the bridge system, tour participants will have the opportunity to observe a bridge in lift as part of the tour.

12 – Public Transit Tour
Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning (CMAP) and the Sears Tower Skydeck
Tour Organizer: Jieun Kim
Schedule: 12:00pm-4:30pm

Guests attending this tour will travel together via public transit to the Sears Tower. What roles can a regional planning agency, as an advisory body, play when most planning decisions are independently made by each municipality? The essential role of CMAP is to coordinate and integrate land-use and transportation planning in northeastern Illinois. To this end, CMAP is in the process of creating its first comprehensive plan for the seven county regions. This long-term visionary plan calls for participatory planning to facilitate regional decision making and consensus building on regional priorities. This tour will be a great opportunity to hear from CMAP staff about the ongoing regional planning process as well as to tour their offices at the Sears Tower. The tour includes an admission ticket to the Skydeck which offers the best views of the city of Chicago. Please bring your photo id (driver's license, state id, or passport) for Sears Tower security.

Tours Led by the International Planning History Society

HIGHLIGHTS – BOOK FAIR AND JOB BANK

Book Fair and Book Fair Café

The ACSP-AESOP Joint Congress has attracted 1000 scholars representing roughly half the planning faculty in the U.S. and Canada including sizeable clusters of faculty from the AESOP planning programs across the globe not to mention a substantial group of doctoral students.

The Book Fair represents an excellent opportunity for individual authors and publishers to display their wares and to speak with potential authors, readers and adopters.

Daily continental breakfast and continuous coffee and refreshments are served in the Book Fair Café area. The Job Posting Boards, Job Bank, Conference Message Center and a Research Poster Display will also be housed in the center of the Fair. Café tables draw attendees to rest, meet friends, and work on laptops during the long days of sessions (sorry internet access is not provided). Please visit the Fair, relax, peruse and finally share your appreciation of the exhibitors this year:

The Job Bank is an opportunity for schools/programs to advertise (at no cost) job openings as well as an opportunity for students and faculty in planning who are in the market to include their resumes (at no cost). The Job Bank is located in the Book Fair. Announcement Postings and Message Center boards are available to aid in communications with prospective employers and employees.

Interview Suite Reservations

Universities may conduct interviews for new faculty in private suites at the hotel during Congress hours. To make reservations for an interview suite come to the Congress Registration Desk to check for availability. Two hour time slots can be reserved for suites 8:00am through 5pm on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the Congress.

Housing Policy Debate

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Housing Policy Debate provides a venue for original housing and urban affairs research on a broad range of domestic and international topics. Subjects include the analysis of real estate market trends, land use regulations, and metropolitan development patterns as they impact directly or indirectly on housing.

We invite you to submit manuscripts for publication consideration. Currently, Housing Policy Debate is especially interested in papers on international metropolitan issues, market-rate housing, the role of changing demographics on housing preferences and choice, and the influence of planning policy on housing dynamics. Manuscripts must be original, unpublished works not under consideration for publication elsewhere.

To submit manuscripts, please contact:

Please come visit with us at the Local Host Session organized by the IRRPP

On Wednesday, July 9, 8:00 am in Great America I

The Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy is structured as a campus-wide interdisciplinary research, policy and practice unit governed by an Executive Board and an Administrative Council and located in the Department of Urban Planning and Public Affairs. Chaired by the Provost, the Administrative Council includes the deans of Education, Liberal Arts and Sciences, Public Health, Social Work and Urban Planning and Policy and the Vice Chancellor for External Affairs. The Executive Board consists of faculty partners of IRRPP from a variety of disciplines throughout UIC’s campus. Under the supervision of the Executive Board, the Director is responsible for ensuring that the Institute meets its overall mission and vision and works closely with its governors and partners to improve continuously its core programs and to develop new ones. The Department of Urban Planning and Public Affairs provides administrative support for the Institute.

Session Titles by Track

The numbering system given to identify sessions within each track does not describe the status of a session nor provide any schedule information. The numbers are purely for administrative identification and tracking purposes by the Congress schedule organizers. You will find when viewing the table of sessions, like a puzzle, as sessions were moved from room to room and time slot to another time slot during the scheduling process, the numbers lose much of their sequential ordering. You may even see some session numbers missing — these missing sessions likely collapsed from withdrawal of presenters.

Presenter Information

Congress Registration & Check-in

The Joint Congress Registration Desk is located on the 7th floor of the Marriott Hotel. The Registration Desk will be staffed during the following hours:

- Monday, July 7: 9:00am – 5:00pm
- Tuesday, July 8: 7:00am – 5:30pm
- Wednesday, July 9: 7:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Thursday, July 10: 7:00 am – 5:30 pm
- Friday, July 11: 7:00am – 11:30am

The Joint Congress Registration desk is also the registration desk for the International Planning History Society’s 13th Conference as of Thursday, July 10th and will be open extended hours on Thursday to accommodate the early arrivals for this event as well as arrivals on Friday morning.

Last Minute Changes Document

Every attendee will be given the “Last Minute Program Changes” document as they check-in at the Joint Congress Registration Desk. This document will provide updates that occurred after program publishing for presentation withdrawals from sessions, change of presenters for papers, paper title changes, co-author name additions, discussant changes, and more. Please use this document to update your printed program in order to minimize confusion!

Presenter Policies and Guidelines

Multiple Placements on the Program

Abstract submissions for the Joint Congress well exceeded the amount of time slots and hotel space available to our group. The Congress participation policy is as follows: one formal presentation (either in a pre-organized session or an individual paper session), one discussant role, and one roundtable. This allows individuals three placements on the program. Please understand one role is not interchangeable with another, for example, two paper presentations and one roundtable but no discussant role is not allowed. We will ask you to limit your paper presentations to one.

Track chairs were provided some leniency as the Congress dates drew closer in regard to the duplicate discussant role confirmations given the number of sessions they were managing, and the amount of changes required at the last minute.

The notion behind this policy is to allow space in the program for as many people to participate as is humanly possible by restricting the number of duplicate forms of participation. We hope you understand our collective problem of trying to provide the greatest number of opportunities for participation at the highest level of quality feasible.

Individual Presentation Schedules

The Congress committee scheduled 272 sessions for more than 1000 faculty and student presenters in 17 rooms in each of 16 time slots over four days and no one wants the early morning time slot or the Friday slots. We appreciate your understanding of just how difficult it is to make changes to the schedule. Presenters unable to present at the scheduled time notified the Conference Manager and withdrew from the program.

Presentation Tips

- In a paper session, you will have 15 minutes to present your work. In 15 minutes you can typically present about five double-spaced pages at a pace that listeners can comfortably follow.
- Do not attempt to read your paper. Don’t turn your back to the audience to read a projected text and don’t read out loud what your audience can read for itself.
- Indicate at the beginning of your talk if you are willing to send your paper by email when you return home.
- Concentrate on what is new, interesting and different rather than providing full theory and methodology.
- The Congress does not expect to publish a proceeding book and, therefore, did not publish style, spelling and usage guidelines.
- If you have any concerns about setting up your presentation, please take advantage of the Speaker Ready Room and conference/audio visual staff to assist you before your scheduled presentation. A.V. technicians will be available for projector equipment failures in session rooms if they occur, but shouldn’t be tied down to assisting you with your laptop the minute before your presentation. That being said, if you do experience trouble at the very minute you’re to present (it happens!) – please step aside immediately and offer the time to another presenter while you work out your trouble – and don’t hesitate to ask us for help. We will do what it takes to get you up and going.

Congress CD of Papers

The ACSP-AESOP Joint Congress Committee provided a compact disk of Congress (unedited) abstracts and final papers of authors willing to be included. In considering whether to take advantage of this opportunity, authors were warned of a potential pitfall in providing the final paper via the conference compact disk. The issue is that some peer-reviewed journals (many in the U.S.) consider such reproduction to be “prior publication” and will not review for publication a paper disseminated in this way. It was suggested authors discuss this issue with the editor of a publication outlet they were targeting prior to submitting the final paper for inclusion.
Audio Visual Equipment Available For Presenters

Pre-Set Equipment

The Congress supplies data projectors for every session room. Any other audio visual equipment requests will be at the presenter’s expense.

Presentation rooms are staffed by student volunteers, but these volunteers are not trained on the use of the equipment. The audio visual company providing the projectors will have limited staff on site to assist with technical difficulty and will be working in 17 different rooms. In other words, we strongly recommend making yourself comfortable with this type of projector before your presentation. A data projector is available in the Speaker Ready Room at the Congress Registration desk.

Laptop Protocol

Laptops are NOT provided. You must bring your own. If you don’t have one, be prepared to borrow one from a friend. If you don’t have any friends, we’ll be glad to introduce you to someone!

Speaker Ready-Room

The Speaker Ready-Room will have the same equipment available as in the presentation rooms for those authors wishing to become more familiar with it or to practice presentations. Please be patient with your fellow presenters. We also ask that in fairness to everyone; please limit your time using the equipment. The Speaker Ready Room will also have a computer station set with PowerPoint and Microsoft Word software, a CD R/W drive, and USB ports for portable hard drives. This computer will not have internet access. It is strictly for double-checking your presentation. The Congress does not provide data storage materials. You may not take this laptop to use for your presentation.

Internet Access

Internet access is not provided by the Congress in the Speaker Ready Room. The Marriott can provide wireless internet access for a fee. Please call or visit the hotel’s front desk.

Instructions for Moderators and Discussants

For individual paper sessions and pre-organized paper sessions, an attempt was made to appoint and confirm a moderator and a discussant for session management. Moderators are generally assigned from the pool of presenters who are scheduled to be in the room and is most often the last presenter in the session. Discussants are invited from the area of expertise, and generally are not presenters of a paper already scheduled for the session. Roundtable sessions are assigned a moderator responsible for the flow of the discussion.

Moderator Instructions

• Arrive at the session room five minutes prior to the scheduled starting time and introduce yourself to the presenters. Practice pronunciation of last names if possible!
• Student room attendants have been appointed to session rooms. This person will help you contact necessary parties to take care of the audiovisual equipment, room temperature control, and to assist you and the presenters at any time.
• Look on the front table or podium for the yellow and red cards to assist you with letting presenters know their time frame. Please return these cards to the front of the room when the session is completed. Show the yellow card to the presenter when 5 minutes of presentation time is left. Show the red card when time is over. Be firm in your request to end the presentation in fairness to all other presenters.
• For each paper, introduce the author and the title of the paper.
• Introduce the discussant.
• In managing the question-and-answer-time, please ask questioners to identify themselves and to keep their comments as short as possible to allow the presenters to respond in full.
• Please ensure the session finishes on time. Sessions that overrun will affect next sessions.
• In case you are presenting a paper yourself during the session you are moderating, we strongly recommend you present at the end of the session, even if this means altering from the printed program slightly. The efficient management of the session will benefit from it. When presenting your paper ask one of the other presenters to manage your time using the cards.

Discussant Instructions

It is the role of the discussant to raise points of discussion from the papers before opening the discussion to include the audience. The review should be brief enabling time for questions and responses. Discussants are only required to respond with comments to papers they have had a chance to review in advance of the Congress, but certainly may comment on others if possible. Students and young faculty truly benefit from your effort. Thank you!
Practical Information
For Your Stay

Emergencies
The emergency number for medical, fire and police is 911. The Poison Help hotline 1-800-222-1222 serves as a key medical information resource and helps reduce costly emergency room visits. The hotel suggests taking note of fire exits and stair cases when you arrive at your hotel room. It is strongly recommended you do not use elevators if fire is present. The Marriott stands more than 50 stories tall. If you cannot walk stairs, please inform the front desk of your need for a sleeping room on a lower level of the hotel.

Electricity
Europe and most other countries in the world use a voltage which is twice that of the US. It is between 220 and 240 volts, whereas in Japan and in most of the Americas the voltage is between 100 and 127 volts.

Plug Adapters: The plug of a Continental European appliance will not fit into an outlet in the United States without the appropriate adapter. This is a handy web site reference for this information: http://users.pandora.be/worldstandards/electricity.htm#trick

For the future, to know the local voltage in the country you’re going to is to take a look at the glass of an ordinary light bulb or stop at a supermarket and note what is printed on a light bulb packet.

Language
The language of the ACSP-AESOP Joint Congress is English. We will have a representative at the Local Host Information desk who speaks some Spanish, French and Portuguese.

Currency and Credit Card Usage
The currency of the United States is the dollar, and the currency of the Congress is the dollar. The currency exchange rate table below was found at the home page of http://www.xe.com/ on June 5, 2008. Foreign currency will not be accepted in shops or any retail environments. Credit cards are widely accepted in almost any environment. The Congress only accepts Mastercard and Visa.

Medical Matters
If you need to consult a doctor during your stay, contact the Hotel Front Desk. The hotel has an immediate response person who will respond to your request for help. They cannot dispense medicine, diagnose or treat you, but can offer simple assistance and referral to professional medical personnel when necessary. In the event of a medical emergency, call 911 immediately. There may be special instructions on the hotel phone for this purpose.

Public Holiday
The 4th of July holiday is a public holiday in the United States. Banks may be closed on this day, but given the tourist base in the Michigan Avenue area, most retail shops will remain open.

Tips and Gratuities
- The acceptable tip for food servers, cocktail servers and bartenders is 15 to 20 percent of the total bill.
- When hiring a taxi, limo or shuttle, it is common practice to tip 15 percent of the total fare. If the driver spends more than a few minutes loading or unloading your bags or helping you in or out of the car, 20 percent would be appropriate.
- If a skycap at the airport checks your bags, tip $1 for each bag. If hitching a ride through the terminals on an electric cart, tip the driver $2 per person.
- Upon arrival at your hotel, you may leave your car with the valet without tipping. However, when the car is returned to you, tipping a couple of dollars is appropriate.
- If a doorman transports your luggage from your car to the hotel lobby, $1 a bag is an acceptable tip. He would also appreciate a $2 tip when hauling you a cab.
- Bellboys are accustomed to the same tipping standards.
- When requesting dinner reservations, event tickets, or general advice, expect to tip the concierge anywhere from $5 to $10.
- Gratuity is usually attached to hotel services such as room service and spa treatments, so look carefully at your bill. If no tip is added, tip 15 to 20 percent.
- Hotel maid service tips can vary from $1 to $10 a day, depending on the mess you created in the room.

Track Descriptions

Track 1
Gender, Ethnicity and Diversity in Planning
Petra Doan, Florida, pdoan@fsu.edu
Francesco Lo Piccolo, Italy, f_piccolo@unipa.it

Contemporary society is divided into a veritable archipelago of minority and plural groups. The complex inter-weaving of the multiple experiences, processes and people involved making up this urban dimension is an established fact: differences (in age, ethnicity, gender, class, religion and culture) are so evident in cities on various scales and levels of intensity. The Gender, Ethnicity and Diversity in Planning track explores the variety of methods, issues, and topics addressed when groups of difference analyze, develop and implement plans and planning activities. All aspects of diversity are encouraged in this track from race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation to geography, physical or cognitive disability, and class. We encourage papers and discussions on planning research and pedagogy that seek to identify and/or redress these differences. It could be said that reflections on minorities and the city force us to reconsider a number of principles which have been neglected or only partially dealt with by the planning debate, beginning with the concepts of equality and inequality, dignity and autonomy, political responsibility and representation. So it is possible to argue that what is at the present time denied or opposed on the political front can nevertheless be achieved through local action by social movements, and even by participation in government, in the transformation of the city, enhancing in this way the “mediating role” of cities. Such actions assume the role and the characteristics of a true plan for emancipation, which refers to the ethical dimension of the planning discipline that we would like to highlight in the contributions and debate of our track.

Track 2
Economic Development
Zenia Kotval, Michigan, kotval@msu.edu
Roelof Verhage, France, roelof.verhage@univlyon2.fr

The Economic Development Track solicits papers that help tell the economic development story as it evolves in the 21st century. We focus on issues of land, labor, capital, business acumen and entrepreneurship. Globalisation and metropolisation have fundamentally changed the competitive environment in the post-fordist era. Planning authorities have adapted their policies and activities to the new context. This adaptation concerns the objectives: to improve their position on the “hit-parades” of attractive cities and regions, even remote provincial towns invest in “quality of life”, and plan “creative districts”. It also concerns the organisation: urban regeneration projects are planned in order to “create value”, strategic partnerships are being developed in order to mobilise private parties. The emphasis on economic development in planning policies poses questions concerning repartition of wealth, equity, and trickle down effects. In the light of the theme of the conference – celebrating the city, bridging the divide – these questions are particularly relevant. Cities are considered as the engines for economic growth, but what about the repartition of the benefits of this growth? This track invites scholars, theoretic and pragmatic, to present their work on these issues in a manner that will help us to improve the quality of life of our citizens.

Track 3
Environmental Planning, Resources Management and Climate Change
Petter Næss, Denmark, petter@plan.aau.dk
Stacey Swearingen White, Kansas, sswhite@ku.edu

The theme of Track 3, Environmental Planning, Resource Management and Climate Change, encompasses different geographical levels and includes a number of substantive issues, methodologies and social processes of importance for environmentally conscious planning and management. The track theme also comprises ethical foundations and implications of environmental policy and resource management. Exploration into structural and cultural conditions influencing planning for environmental and sustainability objectives is a further component of the theme. We welcome papers contributing to on-going debates, and in particular papers opening up new and important topics of discussion. As an issue of mounting global importance, climate change, including both emission-reduction and adaptation strategies, is one such topic. In general, papers based on interdisciplinary integration of knowledge are much appreciated. Recognizing that development during recent years, as measured by several indicators, has proceeded in the opposite direction of environmental objectives in many countries, we especially encourage papers throwing light on the causes of gaps between environmental goals and implemented strategies, and ways to overcome barriers to environmentally sustainable development.
Track 4
Governance, Capacity Building and Participation
Alex Schwartz, New York, schwartz@newschool.edu
Lia Vasconcelos, Portugal, lia.vasconcelos@gmail.com, ltv@fct.unl.pt

This track invites contributions on a diversity of issues related to planning processes, including crisis in democracy, organizational development, leadership, conflict resolution, empowerment, multiculturalism, and identity. Governance gained good currency across many fields, including planning. However a definition of governance has remained elusive, as the concept assumes a diversity of meanings, including: the minimal State; corporate governance; new public management; or self-organized networks. In any case, governance has assumed a growing relevance since new forms of governing collective affairs are emerging to reconfigure the relation of State - Market - Civil Society. More conceptually, the urgent need to respond to the insufficiencies of the representative democracy led to the reformulation of the role played by the State and other instances. The challenges planning faces today in a complex and fragmented networked society call for creative, innovative, and unconventional ways to successfully deal with these new settings. A multitude of questions emerge. Are the emerging forms of governance more adequate to deal with the issues planning faces today? Are they more flexible, more democratic and more adaptive to the new realities? Do they enhance the capacity building needed to sustain action over time? What kind of challenges do these new forms of governance represent in terms of representativeness and accountability? We invite contributions that articulate this diversity of issues in a reflective manner, accounting for experiences and case studies and encouraging a debate on the relationships between governance, capacity building and participation.

Track 5
Housing and Community Development
Kirk McClure, Kansas, mcclure@ku.edu
Hugo Priemus, Netherlands, h.priemus@tudelft.nl

The Housing and Community Development track accepts papers broadly addressing any aspect of housing and community development. In the housing area, papers address issues of housing policy and programs designed to correct market failures in the provision of affordable housing. In the community development area, papers examine issue of neighborhood change whether it is revitalization, stabilization, gentrification, growth or decline. The track especially seeks papers that examine the mediating role of cities in bridging the divides between racial, ethnic, religious or national groups.

Track 6
International Development and Transnational Planning
Andreas Faludi, Netherlands, a.k.f.faludi@tudelft.nl
Keith Pezzoli, California, kpezzoli@ucsd.edu

This track encourages papers/roundtables focused on European issues and international development planning (including developing countries). The developing countries emphasis supports comparative scholarship as well as in-depth analysis of specific countries, regions, rural contexts, cities and networks against the backdrop of globalization. Developing countries share attributes that create unique challenges for planning, such as their recent independence and nation-building efforts, their position vis-à-vis other developed countries in the global economy, similar demographic profiles and rates of urbanization, inadequate infrastructure, large indigenous populations and systems of land tenure, and their relationships with the large international institutions. There are also significant differences among developing countries (e.g., diverse planning cultures). The transnational planning emphasis, in a European context, includes the 27 Member States of the European Union co-operating in efforts aimed at enabling territorial cohesion, which adds territorial integration (i.e., geographic cohesion) to the quest for economic and social cohesion as articulated by the EU goal of balanced competitiveness and sustainable development. Transnational planning also involves multinational agreements and collaborative interventions at the scale of transborder city-regions. Papers could address questions like: What does territorial cohesion mean in different contexts and at different spatial scales? How does national planning in the U.S.A. compare with territorial cohesion policy in the EU? The track encourages comparative work that can foster bi-directional flows of knowledge and culture among nations of the global north and south.
Track 7
Land Use Policy and Governance
Rayman Mohamed, Michigan, ar7347@wayne.edu
Vesselin Troeva, Bulgaria, vtroeva_far@uacg.bg

Papers in the Land Use Policy and Governance Track generally address issues such as how and where land is developed, the impacts of regulations on the use of land, and the role of different actors in the land development process. Submitted papers can employ a variety of methods, including, but not limited to, statistical analyses, detailed case studies, and policy evaluations. The scale of analysis also varies widely, from jurisdiction-level studies, to regional analyses, even as far as comparisons between cities or regions on different parts of the globe.

We invite contributions that focus on key issues as they relate to land use planning and policy, such as: the changing institutional landscape; relationships between different levels of governance and between public and non-public actors; the internal and external dynamics of partnerships and participation; integrated approaches to land use policy in support of effective governance in social, economic and political contexts; innovative tools and methods for growth management in an era of competition among regions for investments; know-how and the best practices of knowledge transfer; and the implementation of information and communications technologies (ICTs). Presenters are encouraged to think about potential collaborations with authors on both sides of the Atlantic.

Track 8
Methods for Spatial and Planning Analysis
Ming Zhang, Texas, zhangm@mail.utexas.edu

Quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods for urban studies and planning; GIS mapping, spatial analysis, and planning support system; statistical and computational modeling of urban and regional environment; and information technologies and cities.

Track 9
Planning Education
Howell Baum, Maryland, hbaum@umd.edu
Kristina Nilsson, Sweden, kristina.nilsson@slu.se

The Planning Education Track accepts papers that illuminate and help improve understanding of the purposes of planning education and the uses of curriculum and pedagogy as strategies for serving these purposes. Papers should refer to and build on literature and/or practical experience in education, teaching, learning, and planning. Reflective accounts or evaluations of educational practice, critiques of contemporary educational practices, and proposals for more focused and influential educational practices are welcome.

Track 10
Planning and Human Health and Safety
Stefan Greiving, Germany, stefan.greiving@uni-dortmund.de
Lois Takahashi, California, takahashi@spa.ucla.edu

The Planning and Human Health and Safety track attempts to raise the visibility of work by planning scholars and practitioners that focuses on assessing, managing and/or influencing the public’s health, safety and security. This includes a wide variety of topics such as investigations into the impact of the built environment as well as spatial structures on health, safety and security; studies refining concepts and/or measures for use in this emerging field; assessments of the health impacts of environmental change; studies focusing on spatial inequalities and access to health; planning for disasters/risks or assessing the vulnerability of affected populations on different spatial scales and studies addressing communication and discourse about disasters/risks.

Track 11
Planning Process, Law, Administration and Dispute Resolution
Rachelle Alterman, Israel, alterman@technix, technion.ac.il
Sanda Kaufman, Ohio, sanda@wolf.urban.csuohio.edu

Planning Process, Law and Dispute Resolution focuses on the nature, design and management of decision making processes; plan administration; the development, content, implementation, and effects of laws and regulations, participatory processes; and the management of conflicts surrounding plans and planning. Topics might include land use controls and property rights, statutory planning systems, public participation approaches, implementation and quality, and conflict resolution in planning decisions, and the roles of planning institutions. The focus may be on a particular country or cross-nationally. Contributors are reminded that participants to the Joint Congress come from countries with different legal and planning systems. Therefore, country-specific legal structures and/or participatory and conflict resolution procedures should be made accessible to all.
Track 12
Planning Theory and History: Bridges and Divisions in Planning Theory and History
Michael Gunder, Auckland, m.gunder@auckland.ac.nz

Planning theory and history tend to construct sets of ideas into disparate categories for analysis and, often at the same time, produce bridges between and among previously unconnected concepts. We propose that concepts of interconnectivity and unity as well as diversity and difference of planning thought and philosophy be explored both historically and theoretically in this track. What are the discourses and forces shaping both general and particular conceptualizations of difference and universality? How has historical planning practice engaged with the new? How can planning theory provide mechanisms to deal with what yet is to be experienced or even articulated? What are the dominant bridges and divisions in contemporary and historical planning thought? While we welcome all abstracts and papers having to do with planning theory and planning history, we invite prospective presenters to consider these questions in their work.

Track 13
Regions and Regional Planning
Louis Albrecht, Belgium, louis.albrechts@asro.kuleuven.be
Kate Foster, New York, kafoster@buffalo.edu

As city-regions reinforce their fundamental significance in a globalized world, the 2008 Joint Congress of ACSP and AESOP in the multicultural, politically complex, economically robust city-region of Chicago offers an especially rich opportunity for regional scholars and practitioners to reconsider the nature, role, debates and prospects of regions and regional planning. The track welcomes individual or pre-organized paper sessions, poster presentations and roundtable discussions on a range of regional topics, including governance, inter- and intra-regional relations, regional economic development, international comparisons of regional policy, process and practice, rural regions, and region-scale consideration of land use, growth and decline, transportation, industrial development, service delivery, identity, place-making, environmental change and social issues. All methodologies, including qualitative analyses, detailed case studies, theoretical work and comparative studies, are welcome. The Joint Congress theme, “Bridging the Divide, Celebrating the City,” invites particular consideration of regional equity and governance; analyses and insights on addressing economic, social, political, legal, racial/ethnic, and sectoral (e.g., public, private, nonprofit, academic) divisions within regions; the role of cities or other institutions as regional centers, mediators and identity makers; and regional leadership and relations with higher level government structures. Contributions that offer cross-national comparative insights are especially welcome. While contributions of all kinds are invited, if space is limited track chairs will give preference to papers and sessions most aligned with the conference theme.

Track 14
Transportation, Mobility, Connectivity and Infrastructure Planning
Pantelis Skayannis, Greece, leonska@prd.uth.gr
Ruth Steiner, Florida, rsteiner@ufl.edu

This track invites papers dealing with all forms of infrastructure (e.g., communications and energy) and transport from the point of view of spatial planning. Because spatial planning is multidisciplinary we expect a wide range of quality papers derived from and reflecting different perspectives. Authors are invited to submit interesting, innovative and high quality theoretical empirical work related to the following areas of interest: 1) Technological advancements, including paradigm shifts which contribute to global ‘proximity’ and ‘connectivity’; 2) Liberalization and privatization and other related regulatory trends for infrastructure financing and provision; 3) The adequacy of infrastructure planning and systems for all citizens irrespective of their socioeconomic or demographic status or location; 4) Issues related to infrastructure such as land use, technology, safety, international connectivity; and 5) The impact of infrastructure systems on the design of urban form of cities. Authors should not restrict themselves to these specific issues. We welcome discussion of the socioeconomic, political or technical dimensions of these and related areas from a variety of perspectives and methodologies.
Track 15
Urban Design and Physical Planning
Taner Oc, United Kingdom, taner.oc@nottingham.ac.uk
Steve Tiesdell, United Kingdom, s.tiesdell@socsci.gla.ac.uk

The Urban Design and Physical Planning track solicits papers that explore the different but intimately related dimensions of place-making and place-shaping through urban design and physical planning strategies and actions that join-up and add coherence and quality to otherwise disparate and uncoordinated developments. The track encourages a holistic approach that neither focuses on a limited checklist of urban design and, at a larger spatial scale, physical planning criteria nor excludes important and emerging areas/aspects. All papers should be grounded in the appropriate urban design and physical planning literature and theory. In-depth, evaluations of urban design and physical planning projects and outcomes are welcome, together with papers exploring urban design and physical planning processes in ways that contribute to and enhance our understanding of place making. Papers exploring the role of design and physical planning actions and policy tools in the real estate development process are especially welcome.

Track 16

Sponsored by the journal, Planning Theory and Practice, Routledge publishers

Patsy Healey, Newcastle University, patsyhealey@btinternet.com

This track takes a critical look at the international diffusion of planning ideas and practices, their impacts on planning practices in different contexts, on the challenge of ‘siting’ planning practices, and on the ethical issues of international exchange in the planning field. The Track is linked to a Book project, in production to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the Journal, Planning Theory and Practice, in 2009. Published in conjunction with the Royal Town Planning Institute, London, the Journal offers an arena for international debate and more effective communication and sharing of ideas between practitioners and academics. Implicitly, the role of the Journal has been to contribute to strengthening an international community of scholarship around the emerging practices of spatial planning. This has enormous potential benefits, in increasing the knowledge-ability of those involved in planning activity worldwide. But there are also many hazards, as theories, methods and practices developed in one context are not necessarily transferable to another. So what are the risks and requirements in strengthening an international planning community?
The Town Planning Review has been a leading journal in city and regional planning for nearly a century. It continues to be at the forefront of the field and in 2007 increased from five to six issues a year, allowing a greater number of thematic issues to be published. The journal covers all matters involved in the planning of cities and regions in countries with developed economies. tpr is edited at the Department of Civic Design in the University of Liverpool by Peter Batey, David Massey, David Shaw and Cecilia Wong (University of Manchester).

SPPD remains at the forefront of urban planning education and research. Drawing on its strengths in urban policy, economic development, transportation, and international policy and management, SPPD cultivates professional planners who readily step into leadership roles in their specialty.

SPPD’s structure reflects the multidisciplinary approaches urban planners need to impact our world. Degree programs in public administration, public policy, health administration, real estate development, and leadership enrich the urban planning experience at SPPD, and expand students’ access to outstanding scholars and leaders.

GLOBAL LEARNING:
In 2008, SPPD will once again send more than 100 students abroad. This year, students will explore infrastructure issues in China, examine poverty in the favelas of Rio de Janeiro, and study sustainable tourism in Costa Rica.

LEADING RESEARCH:
SPPD professor Dowell Myers presented his immigration research findings to the U.S. Congressional Subcommittee on Immigration. Professor Tridib Banerjee contributed to the body of knowledge on urban development in India as part of a U.S. Department of State program there. Professor Eric Heikkila spent this year as a Visiting Fulbright Scholar at the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

LOCAL IMPACT:
This year, SPPD Master of Planning students advised the San Bernardino City Council on urban watershed issues, the San Dimas City Council on their general plan update, and the Los Angeles Community Redevelopment Agency on rapid transformation issues in parts of downtown L.A. Students met with local planning directors and traded ideas about sustainability and healthy communities with local real estate developers.

BENEFACTORS

The University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) is a large, public, comprehensive research university with 25,000 students located on the edge of Chicago’s vibrant downtown – the famous Loop. It has an explicit “Great Cities Commitment” which is led by the Department of Urban Planning and Public Affairs. The Urban Planning and Policy Program is the largest graduate planning program in the U.S. with more than 200 students and a distinguished faculty.

The Lincoln Institute of Land Policy is a leading resource for key issues concerning the use, regulation and taxation of land. Providing high-quality education and research, the Institute strives to improve public dialogue and decisions about land policy. Founded in 1974 and located in Cambridge, Mass. the Lincoln Institute organizes its work in planning and urban form; economic and community development; valuation and taxation; and international land policy, with a special emphasis on Latin America and China. Publications, online information, and a range of interactive resources and tools are available at the website, www.lincolninst.edu.

The Chicago Council on Global Affairs, founded in 1922 as The Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, is a leading independent, nonpartisan organization committed to influencing the discourse on global issues through contributions to opinion and policy formation, leadership dialogue, and public learning. The Chicago Council brings the world to Chicago by hosting public programs and private events featuring world leaders and experts with diverse views on a wide range of global topics. Through task forces, conferences, studies, and leadership dialogue, the Council also takes Chicago’s ideas and opinions to the world.

The Institute for Research on Race and Public Policy is structured as a campus-wide interdisciplinary research, policy and practice unit governed by an Executive Board and an Administrative Council and located in the Department of Urban Planning and Public Affairs. Chaired by the Provost, the Administrative Council includes the deans of Education, Liberal Arts and Sciences, Public Health, Social Work and Urban Planning and Policy and the Vice Chancellor for External Affairs. The Executive Board consists of faculty partners of IRRPP from a variety of disciplines throughout UIC’s campus. Under the supervision of the Executive Board, the Director is responsible for ensuring that the Institute meets its overall mission and vision and works closely with its governors and partners to improve continuously its core programs and to develop new ones. The Department of Urban Planning and Public Affairs provides administrative support for the Institute.

This track takes a critical look at the international diffusion of planning ideas and practices, their impacts on planning practices in different contexts, on the challenge of ‘situating’ planning practices, and on the ethical issues of international exchange in the planning field. The track is linked to a book project, in production to celebrate the tenth anniversary of the journal, Planning Theory & Practice, in 2009. Published in conjunction with the Royal Town Planning Institute, London, the Journal offers an arena for international debate and more effective communication and sharing of ideas between practitioners and academics.
