

AHVAP Chat Room Rules

The AHVAP chat room is a forum for members to share professional practice information, education and practical strategies with each other. Please follow the below rules when using this communication tool.

1. DO NOT promote any products or services in the AHVAP Chat Room. This listserv is not to be used to market individuals, products or companies. One may not imply that additional information is available through follow-up and then sell or solicit contributions for a product or services. The Chat Room is intended as an information resource only.
2. DO ask questions about what other members might be using for a particular product/service, alternative products or experience with a product or service.
3. DO be courteous and professional. Respect one another's opinions. Choose your words carefully as they could be misinterpreted. Refrain from using certain colorful language or colloquialisms that may be misconstrued. The use of profanity and personal attacks are strictly prohibited.
4. DO NOT forward any message posted without obtaining consent of the message author. Respect confidentiality.
5. DO NOT post any information or material which would violate any applicable law or regulation, including material subject to copyright protection, or information or material which would be considered defamatory or an invasion of privacy, and do not post any inquiries or information which could be viewed as an agreement or sharing of information in violation of antitrust laws.