Member Spotlight
Alberto Sanchez, Assoc. AIA
I am a proud member of the AIA because...I am a member of AIA because of the vast collection of knowledge the organization offers from each of its members. Having access to a nation-wide organization of talented and distinguished members and all of their experiences has opened many opportunities to better myself, the profession of architecture, and in turn the environment we are privileged to develop.

Born in Mexico, my family migrated to the States when I was young in search of opportunities and a better life. My path to architecture was not always clear; I have faced many challenges to stand where I am today, but working in this profession has been one of the most rewarding paths life has taken me down. I love taking on the challenges of manifesting ideas into tangible structures that can have huge impacts in cities. Design as a whole is captivating to me. From creating a chair, a house, or a multi-story building, I enjoy the challenges presented with proposing design ideas. I earned my Bachelors of Science in Architecture in 2013 and currently work at EV&A Architects as a Job Captain, where I collaborate with the design team and serve as their BIM specialist.

The most important thing I have learned? The most important thing I’ve learned is that fear is the death of creativity and innovation. While caution can be a good guide, fear to act on the uncertain and fear to risk failure has always been a hinderance of development. I believe this is true for many aspects of life as well as in our society and our communities. It often takes extreme actions to make an impactful change.

What person, living or dead, would you like to talk with? I would love to talk to Stan Lee. The work that he created has become a global phenomena that has impacted many people, myself included. Many times creating art can be a cathartic act, a way to work through feelings that may be difficult to face. The characters that Stan Lee created throughout his career were so alive that I would like to know how much of himself he put in to them and how he felt about his work’s impact on others.

What do you believe needs to be the next area of innovation in our profession? I believe that the impact of architecture should be exposed and explained to new generations at a young age. Most people are unaware of what our profession really does. We have a hand at molding the towns and cities we inhabit, and in many ways influence the way people live. The more we can show how important architecture is, the more opportunities professionals today and those to follow will have in creating innovative communities.

How do you think the profession will evolve in the next 5-10 years? I think the integration of tracking technologies can provide the next evolution in architecture. Most people worldwide already utilize self tracking technologies on a daily basis, sometime unknowingly, from sleeping habits to travel patterns to health monitoring. It only seems logical for architectural professionals to utilize a part of this untapped information in order to identify the needs of individuals so we can create better, more engaging buildings and cities.

I am pleased to report that the AIA Las Vegas/ Northern Nevada contingent had a very successful Grassroots 2019 Leadership Conference in Washington D.C. last month. During Capitol Hill Day, our team met with Senator Catherine Cortez Masto, Senator Jackie Rosen, Congressman Mark Amodei, Congresswoman Dina Titus and Congresswoman Susie Lee to discuss the Institute’s prioritized and focused agenda of Energy Efficiency in existing buildings and School Safety by design. On a couple of occasions, we were able to discuss Affordable Housing when asked what else was important to Architects in Nevada. An evening reception was held at the Library of Congress following our exhausting day on the Hill where we were able to network with the 650 conference attendees, National Leadership, and Senators and Members of Congress.

During the Grassroots Conference, I had the opportunity to meet our 2019 AIA National President William J. Bates, FAIA. I was excited to meet Bill because we are both from Pittsburgh, PA, where he still practices, while I’ve been gone for 35 years now. Our conversation quickly shifted from the excitement of Las Vegas hosting the A’19 Conference on Architecture to the fact that the Las Vegas Golden Knights “stole” Marc Andre’ Fleury from the Pittsburgh Penguins (LOL). To further Bill’s anguish, I added that it was looking like Antonio Brown (arguably the best receiver in the NFL) was going to be traded from the Pittsburgh Steelers to our “Las Vegas” Raiders (which has since occurred). We had some good laughs together and became instant friends.

William J. Bates, FAIA is only the second African-American leader in the 162-year history of the American Institute of Architects and there have only been four (4) women to hold the position: 2015 Elizabeth Chu Richter, FAIA, 2014 Helene Combs Dreiling, FAIA, 2006 Katherine Lee Schwenneken, FAIA, and 1993 Susan A. Maxman, FAIA. Jane Frederick, FAIA has been elected 2020 AIA President.

During the Grassroots Conference, I attended a Leadership Session titled, “Introducing...The New Guides for Equitable Practice”. The Guides for Equitable Practice, done in partnership with the University of Minnesota and the American Institute of Architects’ Equity and the Future of Architecture Committee (EQFA) are a vital part of AIA’s long-term commitment to lead efforts that ensure the profession of architecture is as diverse as the nation we serve. The new Guides published on February 28, 2019 focus on Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) and can be found here: AIA New Guides for Equitable Practice. Please note that only three of the nine guides have been released, however the remaining sections will be released throughout the year as they are completed. I encourage us all to read and study these reports, gain insight and perspective from them and integrate them into our practices so they become more equitable for all.

On September 11, 2018, the American Institute of Architects’ Board of Directors approved several changes to the AIA Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct to explicitly address sexual harassment, equity in the profession, and sustainability. A few noteworthy new rules include:

Rule 1.401 Members shall not engage in harassment or discrimination in their professional activities on the basis of race, religion, national origin, age, disability, caregiver status, gender, gender identity, or sexual orientation.

Rule 2.401 When performing professional services, Members shall make reasonable efforts to inform their clients of the potential environmental impacts or consequences the Member reasonably believes may occur as a result of work performed on behalf of the clients.

Rule 4.103 Members speaking in their professional capacity shall not knowingly make false statements of material fact.

Rule 5.201 Members who have agreed to work with individuals engaged in an architectural internship program or an experience requirement for licensure shall reasonably assist in proper and timely documentation in accordance with that program.

Rule 5.302 Members leaving a firm shall not, without the permission of their employer or partner, take designs, drawings, data, reports, notes, or other materials relating to the firm’s work, whether or not performed by the Member.
Rule 5.303 A Member shall not unreasonably withhold permission from a departing employee or partner to take copies of designs, drawings, data, reports, notes, or other materials relating to work performed by the employee or partner that are not confidential.

Rule 6.501 Members shall consider with their clients the environmental effects of their project decisions. Note that CANNON VI Outlines our Obligations to the Environment.

We are only 67 days away from hosting the AIA National Conference on Architecture. It’s not too late to volunteer or become a sponsor. You can register for the conference and tours now by clicking the A’19 link.

In 2019, the AIA National Blueprint for Better campaign brings to life the role of architects as thought and action leaders in improving our cities, towns and neighborhoods. One of AIA’s main goals this year is to strengthen partnerships with civic leaders and elected officials. We want architects to have a key set at the table when important civic decisions are made.

To be an architect is to create a Blueprint for Better. Working with our communities we build better structures and spaces to serve our clients and the public. That means better structures and spaces to serve the needs of clients and the public. Using built solutions to address issues like climate change, affordable housing and school safety, architects are at the forefront of solving problems at every level. Creating a Blueprint for Better is more than a profession, it’s what architects are called to do.

Campaign goals
- Encourage architects to collaborate with civic and elected leaders
- Demonstrate how architects can help solve the important issues of our time.
- Evolve the perception of architects to true thought and action leaders

This is why AIA Las Vegas has made 2019 the year that we address the critical issues of “Affordable Housing and Homelessness” in our Las Vegas community. Under the overall national theme of Blueprint for Better, we are working with civic leaders and affiliated organizations to address these challenges and improve our community.

You can be a part of this effort also. Use the hashtag #BlueprintForBetter to join the conversations and promote the good work of architects. Read and share inspiring Blueprint for Better stories – BlueprintForBetter.org and learn more about how to get involved at aia.org/publicawareness

You can also attend the AIA Las Vegas May 15 Membership Meeting at the Regional Transportation Center, when we will discuss best practices in providing Affordable Housing with some of the most knowlegable and experienced architects who are working in this area.

DESIGN. CULTURE. CRAFT.
The mission of Art, Architecture & Design Month is to enhance public awareness of the importance of art, architecture and design in our communities; to appreciate how these elements contribute to the beauty and livability of our city, and to celebrate the artists, architects and design professionals whose work enriches the lives of all citizens.

Throughout April... AIA Las Vegas and other design affiliated organizations will be providing programs and events to which the public is invited. We hope to encourage our fellow Las Vegans to look around and become more aware of the special features of our city and to learn more about how the architects, artists and affiliated professionals use their creativity.

2019-2020 ELECTIONS FOR SERVICE ON THE BOARD

It is an honor to be elected for service on the Chapter’s Board of Directors. Only those members who are most dedicated and have demonstrated a commitment to the AIA qualify for service. The success of our Chapter depends upon having strong leadership, and looking toward the future with a working Board of Directors that is composed of members who understand the value and purpose of the organization, and are willing to commit their time and resources to strengthening the Chapter. We need leaders who move the Chapter forward while upholding and protecting the profession and leading the way for those who are just entering the profession.

Nominations are currently being taken for the positions of President-elect (President in 2020), and Treasurer. To qualify for either of these positions nominees must have served at least one year on the Board.

Nominations are also being taken for four Directors positions. The following outlines some of the requirements for service as a Director on the Board.

Each Director must make a commitment to accept the requirements of service as a priority. As a member of the Board and a leader of the Chapter, Directors are required to attend all AIA Membership Meetings, special events and social functions and to support the Chapter’s efforts in all programs. Directors are responsible for the financial security of the Chapter and generating the funding for programs and benefits for members. Directors must know and support the Chapter’s mission, goals, programs, member benefits and concerns. They are familiar with the policies and procedures of the Chapter and the Institute, and they act in accordance with these governances. Directors seek out opportunities to be ambassadors for the Chapter and actively work to encourage new members, engage civic and community leaders and positively represent their fellow members and the organization at all times.

If you or someone you know is ready to make this commitment to Chapter leadership, then now is the time to contact the Nominating Committee and become a candidate for service on the Board of Directors. Contact Randy Lavigne, Executive Director via email at rlavigne@aianevada.org or 702-895-0936.

CONGRATULATIONS to our friend and long-time AIA Las Vegas Allied Member Lynn Campbell.

Enjoy your well deserved retirement. We will miss you!
March was quite the busy month! I had the opportunity to attend the AIA Grassroots Conference on Leadership in Washington DC; it was such a great experience. We spent an entire day lobbying for two new bills on Capitol Hill. The first bill would provide tax incentives for energy efficient remodels, not just new construction, and the second would allow schools to use federal funds towards design services that focused on improving school safety. Currently, schools are provided funding for metal detectors, fencing and cameras, but not the design related services needed to implement them. Our goal is to create healthy learning environments for children, not institutions that feel like prisons. Can you tell me the last time you were inspired walking through a TSA checkpoint?

Come join us for one (or both) of our April events, and stay tuned for what’s planned in May.

MOVIE NIGHT
are joining forces to bring you a great movie night on climate change.

In recent years we have seen how the words “climate change” have grabbed headlines and have been making a considerable appearance in the public agenda. There are those who - from the business world, the politician, civil society ... - have already joined the commitment to combat this phenomenon. Others, however, still contemplate the struggle with some skepticism, considering that it is only a “passing fad”.

If you are interested in learning more about this topic and love movies, you should join us this month!

To learn more about this amazing project follow this link: https://www.aia.org/showcases/185631-sawmill

COTE PROJECT HIGHLIGHT
This month’s project is Sawmill, a sustainable single-family home by architect Olson Kundig.

Sawmill is a net-zero single-family home that operates completely off the grid and demonstrates that high design and high performance can go hand in hand. The design harnesses the local climate to maximize natural ventilation, daylight and solar energy while encouraging a biophilic connection between inhabitants and their surroundings.

The Urban Sketchers next meeting will be Saturday, April 13, 2019 from 10:00 am to 12:00pm
They will be meeting at The Lou Ruvo Brain Center
(888 W Bonneville Ave, Las Vegas, NV 89106)
702-498-3658 Eric’s Cell
You should bring your own sketch supplies, some water and your water colors (if you’d like). Don’t forget some water (to drink), something to sit on (you’ll be glad you did). A Sweater and sunscreen is still a must!!
See you On Saturday, April 13th!

DYNAMIC SOLUTIONS IN PROGRESS.
The weather was cold...the wind was blowing...but the sun was shining brightly and all ten of your Nevada representatives were busy working it on Capitol Hill. Since most of federal representatives were engaged in voting in session, we met with legislative aides for both our Senators and Congresswomen/men and asked for their support for two important issues on the AIA Legislative Agenda – School Safety and Energy Efficiency. (see issues in last edition of FORUM). All meetings went well with positive responses and support for our requests. In addition, we had the opportunity to meet briefly to say hello and get a photo with Senator Jacky Rosen, Congresswoman Dina Titus, Congresswoman Susie Lee, and Congressman Mark Amodei.

Next year, Grassroots will be a “Leadership” Conference and is scheduled to take place in New Orleans, LA on February 18-20, 2020. “Laissez les bon temps rouler”

THE 2019 AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS NATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHY COMPETITION®

The 2019 AIA National Photography Competition © was founded to promote appreciation and awareness of the built environment as captured in images by architects. The competition is open to all AIA and AIAS members and architects registered in the United States. Entries will be accepted through April 15, 2019 and may be submitted online or via CD ROM.

Entries Fees:
- AIA members is $35
- Associate AIA members is $30
- AIAS members is $15
- Registered architects, non-members is $70

Entrants may submit up to five slide for each entry fee and may enter as many times as desired.

Please visit www.aia-stlouis.org to learn more, submit online or download entry form. The entries must have an architectural theme or must contain some element of the man-made environment. The jury will use the photographic interpretation of the subject matter as their main criteria for judging, not the architecture itself.

Cash awards are: First place, $500; Second place, $400; Third place, $300; Fuller Award (must be of American architecture; Al Fuller was the founder of the competition). A total of fourteen images are selected to be honored for display at A’19 Conference on Architecture in Las Vegas, Nevada and made into note cards in 2020.

The purpose of this competition is to challenge Architects and Students to design a replacement for the Townsite Homes, which have outlived their intended use and have mostly fallen into disrepair, creating neighborhood blight. The project should fully embody the principles of sustainable design and livable communities.

The project is to be sited in Henderson’s Downtown Redevelopment Area. The “Townsite” lots have both streetside and alley access. The site should be considered flat. For purposes of determining solar and climate conditions, competitors should use that of Henderson, Nevada.
