Member Spotlight
Eric M. Roberts, FAIA
Our Newest Fellow
I Am A Member Of The American Institute Of Architects (AIA) Because... this is the organization that represents our profession. This is where architects and designers from all parts of the profession can come together to work collaboratively in furthering the power and influence of design. The AIA has provided me opportunities to improve my own practice and increase my knowledge as an architect.

I am Nevada's newest member of the AIA College of Fellows! I am also President and CEO of Knit. Knit is a national architecture firm with offices in 4 states. I have lived in Las Vegas since 2004 and have been with the same firm since that time. I have had the opportunity to serve in the AIA in multiple roles from President of AIA Las Vegas and AIA Nevada to running the monthly Urban Sketchers Committee (come join us!). I am proud of my membership in the AIA.

What is the most important thing you've learned? I think the most important thing I have learned thus far in my career is the power of empathy. Whether our interactions are with clients, coworkers or a myriad of others; the ability to empathize with each individual's story can be a game changer. Empathy allows us to listen without judgement and to fully commit to our conversations and, in turn, our relationships. There is much to be learned beyond the face value of the words we speak.

What is your favorite piece of architecture? Why? I don't know if I have a "favorite" piece of architecture. I could say that almost anything that is over 100 years old, has a steeple and maybe some stained glass would be near the top of my list. But, if I had to pick one I think I would say the Cathedrale Saint Etienne in Bourges, France. It was my first experience with iconic world architecture outside of the western United States and I was awestruck. The bright reds of 700-year-old stained glass are colors that are still seared into my brain thanks to the power of architecture. Crossing that cathedral threshold and walking those stones is an experience I will never forget.

Where will you be in 20 years? In twenty years I will be preparing for my retirement and stepping away from full time practice as an architect. I look forward to cultivating future generations of architects in the interim. But when that day comes I look forward to traveling the world with my wife and capturing it all in my watercolor sketchbook.

What person, living or dead, would you most like to talk with? I think if I could pick anybody right now it would be Charles Percier the great French neoclassical architect. He came up as an architect at a time of world history, and specifically French history, when the market for architecture was very volatile. People were losing their heads (literally) and the power of society was shifting. He had to adapt his approach to winning work and who he would work for but he never strayed far from his vision and principles as a designer. It would be interesting to talk to him about navigating difficult political waters in a service profession. I would also love to talk to him about the power of grand designs. There is so much we could learn from historical architects.
March is special this year because AIA Las Vegas is celebrating Women in Architecture. Women have come a long way from being outsiders in the world of architecture in the early 20th century to holding critical roles in architectural firms today.

Thinking back to my college years, I only remember a few women in the School of Architecture. There were no women architects, designers, draftspersons, or project managers at my first and second jobs. Most of the women held administrative positions.

Today, women hold key positions in my firm and firms around the world. From Marketing Coordinators to Contract Administrators, Accountants to Project Managers, Architects to Designers, and Associate Principals to Principals, we rely on each one of these talented, passionate, and business-minded professionals to deliver products and services to our clients. And, for the record, they receive the same benefits their male counterparts do. An effort that brings us closer to equality that is both earned and deserved.

With this said, we still have a fair distance to travel until true diversity and equity is obtained. Our work is far from over. I call upon each firm, big or small, to look inside their practice to ensure diversity is an ongoing process and not an afterthought. I challenge all to consider and reflect on the great contributions that Women in Architecture and Allied fields make to improve the health, safety, and wellness of the built environment around us. In doing so, we strengthen our community and help improve the Business of Architecture.

To commemorate Women’s History Month, we ask you to join us for our first in-person meeting on Wednesday, March 16 at 5:30 pm at the AIA Office. Come join us for great conversation, light bites, and some beverages to help us say thank you and celebrate the Women of Architecture.
IT'S A SOCIAL!!!

We would like to invite everyone to join us on March 16th from 5:30 - 7:30pm for the March AIA Las Vegas Membership meeting where the Women in Architecture Committee is taking over for the evening to host an in-person happy hour social event.

The WIA Committee plan to announce all the events they have planned for this year and will be celebrating the talented women of the Nevada design and construction industry.

C’mon by and meet the WIA committee members and learn how you can get involved ...or just come for the food and beverages. That’s fine with us too!

The tentative location is the AIA office at 1131 S. Casino Center Blvd. The location may have to change due to construction in the area, so keep your eyes open for upcoming announcements.

There is no fee for members or guests but we do ask the courtesy of an RSVP so that we may plan accordingly.

  - 22.6 MWh less energy
  - $2,050 in energy cost
  - 9 metric tons of CO2e reduction

- BUILDINGS GENERATE NEARLY 40% OF ANNUAL GREENHOUSE GAS EMISSIONS.

Throughout our nation there are countless examples of urban developments that are not connected to the people who live there. We believe it is important for designers, academics, and policy makers to make authentic connections to traditionally underrepresented areas to preserve history and celebrate the sense of place for the community. Join us for our next Fireside Chat where we welcome Las Vegas City Councilman, Cedric Crear, and Clark County Commissioner, William McCurdy II where we will discuss the revitalization of the Historic Westside Las Vegas – an area rich in history.

WOMEN IN ARCHITECTURE
Anna Peltier, PLA
Co-Chair

We will be holding our Women in Architecture Committee Meeting at our regularly scheduled time at 4pm on March 22nd.

The purpose of this meeting will be to finalize our plans for the remaining events of the year and break into subcommittees to divide up the work. We have many great things planned for our membership this year and could use your help. Many hands make light the work! This meeting will be held virtually so we can get input locally as well as from our members in the North. This is an open committee so if you know any who may be interested in attending but they are not an AIA member, all are welcome!

Construction Tour
The AIA Women in Architecture Committee is teaming up with our structural engineer friends at SEASoN to host a tour of the MSG Sphere. This is just a teaser as we are still working out the details. Stay tuned for updates on the date and the time.

If you would like more information on how to get involved in the Women in Architecture Committee or would like to be added to our committee email list to get updates on future events, please contact Co-chairs: Monica Gresser mgresser@brazenarchitecture.com Or Anna Peltier anna@folkforlife.com
Our committee continues to reach out to high schools and their Career Fairs. We have one scheduled for March 11, 2022 and another for March 17, 2022.

The first one is at Canyon Springs Academy High School between the hours of 7:30 AM and 11:00 AM. The second one is at Las Vegas High School between the hours of 7:00 AM and 1:46 PM.

We can use some more volunteers for these events, even if it is for an hour or two. You do not need to attend the entire time. You can also help out by supplying items that show what architects do such as a building model, a set of drawings or sketches, or even a power point on a lap top.

These fairs are important events that allow us to introduce ourselves as professionals and our profession to the next generation. There are many other opportunities that are competing for this age group’s attention and only so much time to present ourselves to this age group. Hopefully, our participation in these fairs plants a seed of interest in these students that grows in the future.

Sincerely,
John Torpey, AIA - Email: jot751@aol.com - 702 580-5903

Talk about recharging your batteries! Wouldn’t this be nice: put on a few pounds...notice some wrinkles...lose a little hair...catch a virus. No problem. Just restore to factory settings. No longer will youth have to be wasted just on the young.

I drew the cartoon below exactly 22 years ago for our February, 2000 news. Back then, my wife used to joke that when I turned 40 she’d trade me in for two 20s. Fortunately, she’s since changed her mind, but this factory settings reset would probably interest her.

CELEBRATING PASCALE SABLAN, FAIA
WINNER, WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR. AWARD 2021

Pascale Sablan has implemented change and empowered communities as an architect and activist. She is only the 315th Black woman architect to become licensed in the United States. She founded Beyond the Built Environment to address the disparities and inequities that lead to under representation in architecture and provide pathways for diverse designers to enter the profession. In this video, Sir David Adjaye, Hon. FAIA, William J. Stanley III, FAIA, Venesa Alicea-Chuqui, AIA, Antoine Bryant, Assoc. AIA, Fitgi Saint-Louis, and Bryan Lee Jr. speak about Pascale’s influence and impact.
As climate change continues to threaten Mississippi River communities and ecosystems, 30 mayors have launched an initiative to take equitable action. Find out how they’re working with architects to create natural buffers against the river, sequester carbon, and build resilient communities for everyone.

AIA’s Blueprint for Better campaign is a call to action for AIA members, architecture professionals, civic leaders, and the public to transform the practice of architecture to achieve a zero-carbon, resilient, healthy, just, equitable future for everyone.
