

Soren Eberhardt

Soren Eberhardt is a Global Site Manager for Microsoft 365 web direct sales at Microsoft. He has been working in the field of internationalization and localization for 25 years, both on the vendor and client side and in different roles, from translator to localization engineer and program manager. Products that he has worked on include Windows, Skype, and Microsoft Teams. He has taught localization classes at the University of Washington and classes on computer-assisted translation (CAT) tools at NYU and Montclair State University; and he also helped release the first MOOC on localization at EdX. The language with the fewest speakers he has ever localized a product for is Inuktitut.