Partner with ALI to help grow your business and show your commitment to industry safety

About the American Ladder Institute

Founded in 1947, the American Ladder Institute (ALI) is a not-for-profit trade association dedicated to promoting safe ladder use through ladder safety education, bilingual safety training and the development of ladder safety standards.

ALI's education and training provides guidance on the proper selection, care and safe use of ladders in the workplace and at home.

ALI represents the common business interests of its members who are affiliated with the ladder and ladder component manufacturing industry as well as allied associations and organizations.

ALI also serves as secretariat for the ANSI A14 Committee comprised of industry experts who develop safety standards for the appropriate design, manufacture, testing, care and use of various types of ladders.

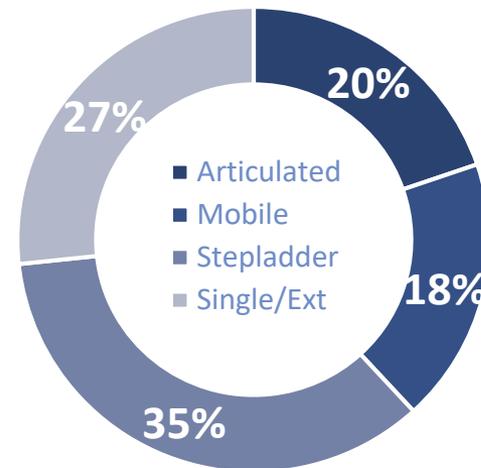

Ladder Safety Training

ALI offers free ladder safety training for selection, care and safe use of all ladders, including stepladders, single and extension ladders, articulated ladders and mobile ladders.

Safety Standards

ALI is the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) approved developer of safety standards for the ladder industry.

Safety standards for the ladder industry are technical specifications that prescribe rules governing the safe construction, design, testing, care and use of various types of ladders. These standards are developed on a five-year renewal cycle, and subcommittees comprised of industry experts exist for each safety standard. Conformance to ALI standards is voluntary; ALI does not approve or endorse any product.

For more information on safety standards, please click here.

Purchasing Safety Standards

All 11 of the ASC A14 Ladder Safety Standards are available in electronic format through the online stores of ALI's official partners:
