1978 AMS CONVENTION PROGRAM

The 1978 AMS convention in Minneapolis, to be held jointly with the newly founded Society for Music Theory, will feature 26 AMS paper sessions, 4 SMT sessions, and one session sponsored by both societies. This will mean an average of five simultaneous sessions each morning and afternoon. The volume of good proposals we received made impossible our avowed intention to decrease the size of the program. Note that as of this year the convention is a half day longer; this fall it will begin on Thursday afternoon October 19, and continue through Sunday morning October 22.

On this 150th anniversary of his death, we are proud to present two sessions devoted to Schubert, in one of which we hope to engage the participation of a string quartet from the St. Paul Chamber Orchestra. André Watts will also be presenting two of a series of three Schubert recitals in Minneapolis during our convention. The winner of the first Noah Greenberg Award, The Cappella Nova directed by Richard Taruskin, will participate in a Thursday afternoon session devoted to 20th-century studies and will perform an Ockeghem concert that night. A session on Prokofiev for the 25th anniversary of his death will preface a performance of his opera, Love for Three Oranges, by the Minnesota Opera on Friday night. The opera is part of a Russian Festival in the Twin Cities, which will also include a performance of Gogol’s The Marriage (Guthrie Theater, Saturday night) and an exhibition of painting, The Art of Imperial Russia, 1800-1850 (Landmarks Center, St. Paul). There will also be regularly scheduled concerts by the Minnesota Orchestra and St. Paul Chamber Orchestra during the convention, as well as AMS lecture-recitals. Interested persons should note the visit to be arranged for Thursday morning to the Hill Monastic Manuscript Library at St. John’s University and Abbey in Collegeville.

In response to 1976 Program Chairman Richard Crawford’s excellent suggestion, many prefabricated sessions were proposed—whole paper sessions on a single topic organized and submitted as a unit by self-appointed chairmen. This private initiative was welcomed by the Program Committee. Yet in order to retain our prerogative and responsibility and in fairness to all paper proposers, the Committee established a policy of judging each paper separately rather than automatically accepting prefabricated sessions as units. In most instances this system worked smoothly, and the Committee altered or rejected sessions in only a few instances. (The more thoroughly a session was outlined in the initial proposal, the more likelihood there was of its acceptance.) Here is a list of scheduled sessions that were fashioned with little or no help from the Program Committee: Sequence and Trope (Lance Brunner), Liturgical Drama (Clyde Brockett), 18th-century Authenticity Problems (Jan LaRue), Schubert I (Boris Schwarz), Gilbert and Sullivan (Ron Broude), Mahler (Dika Newlin), Debussy (Arthur Wenk), Prokofiev (Malcolm Brown), and Women’s Studies (condensed from proposals by Jane Bernstein with Pamela Suskind, and by Ruth Julius).

There were almost no proposals for true study sessions or panel discussions, but provisions can still be made for small special interest groups that may wish to meet during the convention. Professor Barry Brook has already requested that a Pergolesi Study Session be scheduled (time to be announced). Please consult the advance registration materials for information about this and other events not listed in the preliminary program.

A new feature of this year’s meeting: a dance on Saturday night. There will be waltzes, fox-trots, some tangos and polkas, and an extra treat is being planned. Bring your dancing shoes!

We would like to extend our thanks to other Program Committee members and fellow workers Richard Crawford, for his invaluable advice and warm encouragement; Bob Laudon and Donna Jackson, for their indefatigable double duty as members of the program and local arrangements committees; David Fuller, for seasoned judgment and conscientious labor, especially as man-in-charge of AMS concerts and lecture-recitals; Jim Haar, for his wise counsel and the acerbic wit with which he leavened our discussions; Allen Forte (President) and Vernon Kliever (Program Chairman) of SMT, for their cooperation and resourcefulness. Finally our thanks go to the chairmen of the paper sessions, into whose hands we now commend the program.

PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

Elsewhere in this issue is reported the action of the Society’s Board of Directors creating an Executive Office to replace the office of Registrar. In choosing Alvin Johnson, our Treasurer, as the first Executive Director, the Officers and Board have full confidence that the person who has been keeping us on the straight and narrow financially will do an equally fine job in running the Society’s full range of day-to-day operations. It is our hope that in simplifying and streamlining our organization we have created an office that will serve the Society’s members with the greatest possible degree of promptness and efficiency.

To Cecil Adkins, who as Registrar of the Society for the past nine years has served us all loyally and well, we express our deep gratitude. Only those who have acted for this or a similar group in a position such as that of Registrar can know just how much work it involves and how great and continuing a sense of service it requires. We thank Professor Adkins and wish him every success in his scholarly and teaching activities and also in his continuing function as editor of the International Index of Doctoral Dissertations and Musical Works in Progress.

A final word of thanks for a job well done goes to Peter Bloom, who retires after many years of enterprising and deftly managed editorship of this Newsletter. We continue to be fortunate in being able to draw on people of such drive and dedication and look to work for us all; I wish Ruth Solie every success as she assumes the Newsletter’s editorship.

— J.H.

NEW YORK — 1979

The next annual meeting of the Society will be held in New York City at the Biltmore Hotel November 1st through 4th (Thursday through Sunday). It will be hosted jointly by the Graduate Center of the City University of New York, Columbia University, and New York University. Local arrangements will be cared for by a committee chaired by Renée Mueller of New York University. The Program Committee will be chaired by Leopold L. Perkins of Columbia University. Abstracts of papers, proposals for panel discussions, and any other suggestions regarding the program should be sent to Professor Perkins at the Department of Music, Dodge Hall 703, Columbia University, New York, NY 10027, by February 1, 1979. Abstracts and proposals should include the title, the name and address of the author or organizer, a clear description of the topic, including some of the methods used, and the aim pursued, the names of contributors to the panel or study session, and the time required for presentation. Proposals should be typed, double-spaced, and about a page in length; they must not exceed 500 words.

RESE PUBLICATIONS FUND

The Society is the recipient of a generous bequest from Gustave Reese. In accepting this bequest the Officers and Board of Directors wished to create a permanent memorial to the donor, and also to use the income in a way that he would approve. The Board announces, with the gracious approval of Mrs. Carol T. Reese, establishment of the Gustave Reese Publications Fund, to be administered by the Publications Committee of the Society. It is hoped that among scholarly projects for publication of which is aided by the American Musicological Society, there will in future be a series bearing the special mark of support by the Reese Fund. In this way the work of Gustave Reese, for so many years the able and tireless chairman of the Publications Committee, will be carried on.

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars announces the following additions to the Fulbright-Hays Scholars for 1978 in the field of music: Nathan Gottschalk (SUNY Albany), to the University of Paris; and Addison W. Reed (Sorbonne), to the University College in Liberia. Other Fulbright-Hays awards in music were published in last January’s Newsletter.

The American Musical Instrument Society announces its next annual meeting at the University of Chicago on Thursday through Sunday, 20-22 April 1979, and invites proposals for papers and other presentations by 1 October 1978. Those wishing to make proposals or acquire further information should address Laurence Libin, program chairman, at the Department of Musical Instruments, Metropolitan Museum of Art, 5th Avenue at 82nd Street, New York, NY 10028.

The International Webern Society, co-sponsor with Louisiana State University of the Sixth International Webern Festival held in Baton Rouge on 16-18 February 1978, invites applications for new memberships. Membership in the Society is open to anyone interested in the study and performance of the music of Anton Webern and other composers whose work stems from the influence of the Second Viennese School. Requests for membership and dues of $3.00 per year should be sent to Dr. Paul Hedwall, Secretary-Treasurer IWS, Department of Music, University of Alabama, University, AL 35486.

Harry Eskow, editor of The Hymn (quarterly of the Hymn Society of America), has chosen the wide range of interest of his journal in publishing articles from musicologists related to the practice of congregational singing and the history of hymnody. Interested authors may reach Mr. Eskow during the 1978-1979 academic year at 10009 Scott Court, Ellicott City, MD 21044, and afterwards at New Orleans Baptist Seminary, 3939 Gentil Blvd., New Orleans, LA 70126. Information on membership in The Hymn Society of America may be obtained at its National Headquarters, Westminster University, Springfield, OH 45501.

Alvin Johnson, new Executive Director of AMS.

SOCIETY ESTABLISHES OFFICE OF EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Alvin Johnson of the University of Pennsylvania has, as of July 1, been named Executive Director of the Society. In this new office, created by action of the Board of Directors at its meeting on March 17-18, 1978, Johnson, who will continue in his elective office as Treasurer, will be responsible for the over-all administration of the Society’s day-to-day operations. Henceforth, the billing and collection of dues and Journal subscriptions will be handled by the Executive Director. Computer operations will be provided by the Modern Language Association, service MLA is currently providing for several other constituent members of the American Council of Learned Societies, among them the College Art Society and the Renaissance Society of America. With membership, subscription and all budgetary operations centralized in one office, the Society hopes to achieve a new level of control and efficiency in the service of the members of the Society.

The position of Registrar, held for the past nine years by Prof. Cecil Adkins of Texas State University, has been terminated. All correspondence previously directed to the Registrar should now be sent to the Executive Director, at the University of Pennsylvania, 209 South 34th Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104.

The Officers and Board of Directors of the Society wish to express, on behalf of all AMS members, their gratitude to Prof. Adkins for his fine record of service as Registrar. He will continue to edit the International Index of Doctoral Dissertations and Works in Progress; correspondence dealing with entries for this volume and its periodic supplements should continue to be sent to Prof. Adkins, School of Music, North Texas State University, Denton, Texas 76203.
REvised GUIDLINES FOR NOAH GREENBERG AWARD

The Noah Greenberg Award, for a distinguished contribution to the study and performance of early music, will be given annually. (It will be provided that the committee responsible for awarding the prize judges at least one of the entries to be of sufficient distinction). Directors of collegium musicum groups are especially encouraged to apply. Performing organizations of definably professional status are not eligible for the Noah Greenberg Award.

The projected performance should be described in detail; tapes of past performances, samples of an edited score and, if possible, illustrative tapes of portions of the planned work should be included. A budget must be submitted with the performance plans and with scholarly material not yet published.

The committee may, however, choose to give the award in some years to an article, book or monograph dealing with performance problems in early music up to the end of the seventeenth century, or to an edition — scholarly in character but with special reference to the needs of performers in the current period. Since such articles, books, monographs and editions must already have been published, authors need not apply.

The Noah Greenberg Award will consist of a sum up to $1,000 per annum, depending on the scope and significance of the entry selected. Normally there will be a single award; the committee may, in some years, however, make two smaller awards.

A committee of five members, appointed by the President of the American Musico logical Society in consultation with the Board of Directors, will judge entries for this prize. The Noah Greenberg Award Committee, one member to be designated as chairman, will serve for a two-year term.

Proposals must be submitted before 1 November of each year. The award will be announced, if possible, in the January number of the AMS Newsletter. If the winning proposal is a planned performance, that performance should take place within eighteen months from the date the award is made. Half the money will be given in advance, the remainder to be paid after a tape of the performance is submitted to the chairman of the Noah Greenberg Award Committee.

Entries should be submitted and enquiries directed to Professor H. Colin Slim, Chairman, Noah Greenberg Award Committee, Department of Music, University of California, Irvine, CA 92664.

H.M.B.

The American Council of Learned Societies announces that travel grants to attend international scholarly meetings have been awarded to Charles Earwood (Queens College), to attend the Executive Board Meeting of the International Folk Music Council, Dresden; Harold E. Samuel (Yale University), to attend the annual meeting of the International Association of Music Libraries, Lisbon; and Pauline Lawson (University of Pittsburgh), to participate in a conference on Nineteenth-Century Music in Nottingham, England.

Among recipients of the ACLS’s research and study fellowships for 1978 are Allan W. Atlas (Brooklyn College, CUNY); Wilma Lawton (University of Pittsburgh), and Arthur B. Wenk (University of Pittsburgh).

The Department of Music at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill announces that the first recipient of the General Gordon Proctor prize, now named in honor of Professor Lance Brunner of the University of Kentucky. The Haydon Prize was established in 1976, and is awarded on the basis of a distinguished dissertation completed in a calendar year. Professor Brunner’s dissertation, completed in 1977, deals with: The Sequences of Verona, Biblioteca Capitolare CVII and the Italian Sequence Tradition. Professor Brunner has recently received an NEH summer grant to further research in chant at Italy during the summer of 1978.

The Haydon Prize was established in honor of Helmut Haydon, who directed the Department of Music from the mid-1930s until his death in 1966.
EDITOR'S NOTES

The editor of the Newsletter, in cooperation with the editor of the Journal of the American Musicalological Society, will present in this column brief communications and inquiries of interest to members of the Society, reserving the pages of the Journal for items of a more permanent nature.

The following communication was received from Martin Picker of Rutgers University:

"Professor Edward Lowinsky has asked me to make the following correction to the 'Report of the Publications Committee' which appeared in the January 1978 issue:

The inclusion of Josquin des Prez, Proceedings of the International Josquin Festival-Conference, published last year by the Oxford University Press and edited by Professor Lowinsky, among publications 'supported by the AMS,' should not be interpreted to mean that the publication received financial support from the Society. The cost was borne entirely by the Oxford University Press and by funds set aside from the Conference budget, plus funds raised independently. The Society acted as sponsor of the Conference and its Proceedings for organizational and funding purposes. Professor Lowinsky wishes to underscore the difference between 'sponsorship' and 'support.'"

Broude Brothers announces the preparation of a critical edition of the works of Jean-Baptiste Lully, editing to begin with the works not included in the Lully edition begun by Henry Prunieres. An editorial committee is presently engaged in drawing up guidelines for preparation of the edition, and inquiries are invited from interested persons able to contribute. Correspondence should be addressed to Professor Carl Schmidt, the secretary of the editorial committee, care of Broude Brothers Limited, 56 West 45 Street, New York, NY 10036.

The Northwestern University School of Music Library announces that it has been named as one of three repositories for the music and recordings by Henry Cowell. Others are the Henry Cowell Music Center in the public library in Menlo Park, California, and the Institute for Studies in American Music at Brooklyn College. These collections are not designed as research material, but will serve as a resource for performers interested in playing Cowell's music.

At its annual meeting in Evanston, Illinois, on 19 November last, the College Music Society adopted the following resolutions which will be of interest to AMS members: "that the College Music Society strongly endorse the position of the Assembly of National Arts Education Organizations in advocacy of a comprehensive program of categorical aid for the improvement of education in the arts; that the College Music Society support in principle Senate Bill 991 for the establishment of a United States Department of Education; and that the Society strongly recommend that the National Endowment for the Arts remain organizationally and financially independent of a Department of Education."

The Friends of World Teaching, 3643 Kite Street, San Diego, CA 92103, offers to help with placement in teaching and school administration positions abroad, in all fields and at all educational levels from kindergarten to university.

The Center for the Humanities at the University of Southern California announces the publication, beginning March 1978, of a new quarterly journal entitled Humanities in Society. Editors Ronald Gottesman and Jeffrey Plank describe the journal as investigating "the relation of academic disciplines which study and interpret human activity to those professions—law, medicine, science, and the like—which shape it."

Readers will notice the inclusion in this issue of a new column, listing forthcoming meetings of AMS chapters and of other relevant societies and special interest groups. We are grateful to Professor George B. Hill of Barnard College, CUNY, for undertaking the regular preparation of this column, and we hope it will be of interest and use to AMS members.

I wish to express my thanks to my colleague Peter Bloom, the previous editor of this Newsletter, for his help in the preparation of this issue. He has been extremely forthcoming with information, advice, and assistance; further, he has set up the local procedures for publication so efficiently that as I take over this summer I find half my work done for me.

NOTA BENE: The society's annual Directory of Members and Subscribers will be mailed with the next number of the Newsletter, in January 1979.

ASCAP-DEEMS TAYLOR AWARDS

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers has announced the 11th annual ASCAP-Deems Taylor awards to the writers of outstanding books and articles about music published in 1977. Among those honored this year were music critics Martin Bernheimer of the Los Angeles Times and Andrew Porter of the New Yorker, David Burge for his article "Contemporary Piano," George Perle for "The Secret Program of the Lyric Suite," and Douglass M. Green for "Berg's De Profundis: The Finale of the Lyric Suite."

Authors of books so honored include Edward Lowinsky for Josquin des Prez, Howard E. Smith for A History of the Oratorio, and Maynard Solomon for Beethoven.

ANNUAL REPORT, FINANCE COMMITTEE

A bequest in the amount of $14,946.15 from the estate of Gustave Reese was added to our capital funds in January, 1978. The income from this bequest will be expended on designated publication projects in recognition of Professor Reese's many years of service as chairman of the Publication Committee. $1,000 gifts were also received from the Sonneck Memorial Fund of the Library of Congress in support of the publication of the Complete Works of William Billings, and from Pro Musica Antiqua toward defraying the expenses for the appearance of the Cappella Nova, winner of the Noah Greenberg Award for 1978, at the Annual Meeting in Minneapolis. Annual giving by members continues to increase; this year forty-three contributions were gratefully received.

The unusually large surplus in the operating account is deceptive in that the cost of production and distribution of the Spring issue of the Journal could not be included in the report for this fiscal year. Nevertheless, our surplus will run in the neighborhood of $6,000 which will bring our reserves for current operations to about $19,000. This figure assures our members that in no increase in dues and subscription rates need be anticipated in the immediate future.

Respectfully submitted,

James Haar

OBITUARIES

Oswald Jonas (1897-1978)

Oswald Jonas, who died on March 19th following a long illness, had been a member of the music faculty at the University of California, Riverside, since January 1966 when because of his distinguished international reputation as a musical scholar he was appointed Regents’ Professor. Jonas earned a doctorate at the University of Vienna in 1921 and spent seven years of private study with Heinrich Schenker. For the rest of his life he was to be engaged in research on the music of the 18th and 19th centuries and on the works and theory of Schenker.

From 1930 to 1934 Jonas taught at Stern Conservatory in Berlin. Returning to Vienna in 1935 he was instrumental in founding the Schenker Institute at the New Vienna Conservatory. The following year he started publication of the periodical, “Der Dreiklang.” With the rise of Hitler, Jonas emigrated in 1938 to the United States, to become an American citizen. He served as Professor of Music at Roosevelt University in Chicago from 1941 to 1964. For the following two years he held visiting appointments at the Vienna Academy and the universities of Bern, Tubingen, Hamburg, Mainz and Heidelberg.

At UCR Jonas was primarily concerned with graduate instruction in music theory, but he was also popular among undergraduates because of his course in the singing of German art songs. In his courses he often shared rare documents from his remarkable personal library.

Jonas was the author of several books and a great many articles; one of his most significant books, Das Wesen des musikalischen Kunstwerks, is presently being translated for publication in English. His colleagues at UCR are currently compiling a volume of his articles which will appear as a publication in recognition of his distinguished career.

Christa Landon (1921-1977)

Mozartplatz 2 is not merely an address. To countless musicians it brings up the image of a place where they were received with the greatest hospitality, and a place filled with the spirit of music. There, in the home of Christa Landon, much of the editorial work on which her reputation rests was completed. Having begun her study of Haydn during the period of her marriage to H. C. Robbins Landon, she continued to develop as an independent musical scholar.

General recognition of her painstaking research came with the publication of her edition of the Piano Sonatas of Haydn (Univetsal Edition, Vienna 1966). These are justly considered definitive. Later she became associate editor of the New Schubert Edition in Tubingen, and recently she was invited to give a course on the methods of music editing at a major American university. Alas postponed until a later date because she was overburdened with work, this academic appointment was never to materialize.

Tireless in her quest for source material, Christa Landon made several important discoveries. These included an unknown Fantasy by Schubert and, only several months ago, a letter by Schubert to his brother Ferdinand. Her musical analysis of its history and musical implications was published posthumously in the December 1977 issue of the Österreichische Musikzeitschrift.

The air disaster in Madeira, where she had planned a well-earned holiday, cut short her career at its height. Mozartplatz 2 is closed to her friends and colleagues for the first time.

—Oswald Jonas

[Ed. note: This obituary notice was written by Professor Jonas just shortly before his own death on 19 March.]

Donald McCorkle (1929-1978)

Donald M. McCorkle, 48, a specialist in the work of Johannes Brahms and one of the world’s outstanding authorities on early American music, died Monday, 6 February in Vancouver, B.C. Born in Cleveland in 1929, McCorkle took his bachelor’s degree at Bradley University in 1951, his master’s degree at Indiana University in 1955 and his doctorate in the same university in 1958.

His pioneering contributions to our knowledge of our own music began while he was still a graduate student, when he uncovered a large cache of 18th-century musical manuscripts buried in the archives of the Moravian Church in Winston-Salem, N.C. In 1956, two years before he received his doctorate in musicology from Indiana, he organized the Moravian Music Foundation, the first American institution devoted entirely to the study of any aspect of the American musical heritage; and he began the long, tedious job of organizing the thousands of manuscripts provisionally preserved by the 18th-century Moravians, many of which had not been touched for more than a hundred years. Together with the late Thor Johnson, then conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony, McCorkle organized several music festivals in Bethlehem and Old Salem. Out of McCorkle’s researches came a monograph called Moravian Music in Salem: A German-American Heritage, a milestone in American music history.

With the Moravian Music Foundation, McCorkle was not only the editor of the scholarly Bulletin, but also the executive director. Under his leadership, the foundation has grown into a major center for the study of American music. He was particularly active in the College Music Society, editing its official journal Symposium from 1961-1963 and from 1969-1970, and serving as its president from 1967-1969. During his last few years at College Park, his interest in the music of Brahms deepened. In 1971 he accepted a position as full professor and head of the music department at the University of British Columbia.

During the last month of his life, McCorkle’s creative energies were centered around Brahms, but his heart and his love remained with the music he had helped to discover. He was resurrected in Winston-Salem. He was buried there, close to the Moravians who lived in Old Salem two centuries ago, on the chilly gray afternoon of Monday, 13 February. His friends and colleagues were there to mourn his passing.

Bruno Stäblein (1895-1978)

The date of 6 March 1978 is one rimmed in black for musicologists and medievalists the world over. On that date Bruno Stäblein died in Erlangen, Germany, at the age of 82. Long recognized as one of the world’s leading musicologists and as a scholar without peer in his knowledge of medieval monophony, Stäblein actually began his musical career as a performer. After simultaneous studies at the University of Munich (Ph.D. in 1918) and the Staatliche Akademie der Tonkunst in that city, he was active as a conductor in Munich, Innsbruck, and Coburg until 1929. Deciding to change his main field of activity to musicology, Stäblein accepted a position on the faculty of the Regensburg Gymnasium in 1931. There be began his intensive research into the music of the Middle Ages, and in 1945 he founded the Institut für Musikforschung at what was to become the University of Regensburg. In 1956 he assumed the professorship in musicology at the University of Erlangen. His move to emeritus status in 1963 signaled anything but “retirement”; rather, it gave him the opportunity to devote full time to his many research projects.

The rich products of Stäblein’s research are well known: three books and over one hundred fifty articles, along with the series of Monumenta Monodica Medii Aevi, which he founded and edited. Solidly based on the manuscript sources themselves and buttressed by Stäblein’s astonishing command of secondary literature from many fields, these studies frequently broke paths through previously uncharted territory and set a new standard for all subsequent work in the field. Stäblein’s works, capped by his magisterial Schriftbild der eimostimmigen Musik, the extensive Mittelaltrischer Musikhandserien housed at the University of Erlangen, will stand as a magnificent tribute to him for many years to come.

The Music Library Association (MLA) is pleased to announce the first awards of the three prizes established last year to recognize and encourage authors of reference and research tools in music. Categories of awards are: (1) the author of the best book-length bibliography or other research tool in music, (2) the author under 40 of the best article-length bibliography or article about music librarianship, and (3) the author of the best review of a book or score appearing in Notes: The Journal of the Music Library Association. MLA has sent a cash award and a letter of congratulation to the winners who were announced at its meeting in Boston, February 27-March 4, 1978. They are (1) E. Ruth Anderson for her Contemporary American Composers: A Biographical Dictionary (Boston: G. K. Hall, 1976) and (2) Richard D. Claypool for his “Archival Collections of the University of Texas and the University of Chicago and Some Notes on the Philharmonic Society of Bethlehem” published in Fontes Artis Musicae, review of the International Association of Music Libraries, 23 (October, 1976) 177-190. No award was made in category 3. The advisory panel of judges was composed of Vincent Dukes (Music Library Association, University of California at Berkeley), Donald Krummel (University of Illinois Graduate Library School), and Donald Thompson (Department of Music, University of Puerto Rico), chairman.

Nominations from editors of journals and other interested persons for works published in 1977 in any of the three categories should be submitted by September 15, 1978 to Professor Donald P. Thompson, Departamento de Musica, Universidad de Puerto Rico, Rio Piedras, Puerto Rico 96901.
FELLOWSHIPS, GRANTS, AND AWARDS

The Harvard University Center for Italian Renaissance Studies at Villa I Tatti will award upward of seven stipendiary fellowships for the academic year 1979-80. I Tatti offers fellowships for scholars of any nationality, normally post-doctoral and in the earlier stages of their careers. Stipends will be given in accord with the individual needs of the approved applicants and the availability of funds. The maximum grant will be $16,000; most are considerably less. Fellows must be free to devote full time to study. Fellowships run from July 1, 1979 to June 30, 1980, and Fellowships are in Florence from September through June except for trips. Applicants should send their curriculum vitae and descriptions of their projects to the Director, Villa I Tatti, Via di Vin- sigliata, 50135 Florence, Italy before November 1, 1978, with duplicates to Professor Walter Kaiser, 401 Boylston Hall, Harvard University, Cambridge, MA 02138. Candidates should ask three senior scholars familiar with their work to send confidential letters of recommendation to the Director. The application deadline is December 3, 1978, and the applications must be submitted to the Director by January 1, 1979. Fellowship applications are accepted in Italian, French, and English. I Tatti also offers a limited number of non-stipendiary fellowships for scholars working in Florence on Renaissance subjects with support from other sources. Scholars interested in these fellowships should apply as described above by November 1, 1978.
