AMS & SMT TO MEET IN NEW YORK

The annual meetings of the AMS will be held this fall November 1-4 at the Biltmore Hotel in New York City. The Society will convene once again with the Society for Music Theory, and the event will be hosted jointly by the City University of New York, Columbia University, and New York University. Following the expanded format adopted for the meetings last year, the first papers will be presented on Thursday afternoon, and the number of sessions will be the largest ever with seven topics under discussion simultaneously each morning and afternoon until the customary conclusion on Sunday at noon. This abundance was made possible by the large number of fine proposals that were submitted for the program and by the exceptional facilities available at the Biltmore Hotel. It appeared advisable, as well, despite the inevitable frustration of having to pick and choose, because of the large numbers that can be expected to converge on the Big Apple for the first national AMS convention to held there in 30 years.

The program reflects, as usual, the great breadth and variety of interests pursued by the members of the two societies. Subjects to be treated range from the music and theory of Greek antiquity to the pressing problems of the music critic in contemporary society, and from medieval chant to jazz and rock. An interesting aspect of this year’s meeting will be the number of foreign scholars who will participate, drawn perhaps in part by the easy accessibility of the east-coast site. To the extent that the topics proposed are an indication of developing trends, moreover, they point to some interesting shifts of scholarly focus in recent years. The number of sessions devoted to 19th-century topics, for example, would suggest that studies in that area are finally receiving the attention warranted by their significance, and the many papers dealing with operatic matters, from the 17th to the 20th centuries, are similarly worthy of note.

Opera will also be one of the “extracurricular” attractions in New York. On Wednesday October 31st at 8 P.M. there will be a performance at Alice Tully Hall of Agostino Steffani’s La Liberta contesta by the Clarion Music Society under Newell Jenkins. (Tickets may be obtained at $10 each after October 1st by writing directly to the Clarion Society, 1860 Broadway, New York, NY 10023.) Blocks of tickets have been set aside for the Friday night performances at the Metropolitan Opera (Carmen) and the New York City Opera (Daughter of the Regiment). On Saturday night there will be a staged presentation of the Roman de Fauvel by the Waverly Consort at Alice Tully Hall. There is a great deal to do in Manhattan, and we thought it best to keep other activities for the membership (guided tours and the like) to a minimum so that each one may select his own entertainment.

Two major exhibitions will be staged especially for the Society. The New York Public Library will mount an exhibit entitled “A Salute to Forty Years of the American Musicological Society,” drawing on the many collections of the Research Division, and will also show some new acquisitions to the permanent collection at Lincoln Center. The Pierpont Morgan Library, which houses one of the world’s finest collections of autograph musical manuscripts, will have some 25 of them on display during the meeting. These will include a Bach cantata, Mozart’s Der Schauspieldirektor, Haydn’s Symphony No. 91, Beethoven’s Opus 96 Violin Sonata, Schubert’s Die Winterreise, Liszt’s B Minor Sonata, a Mahler symphony, Schoenberg’s Gurrelieder, Stravinsky’s Petrouchka, and others. These works will be on view from 30 October until early December and can be seen from 10:30 to 5:00 Tuesday through Saturday, and from 1:00 to 5:00 on Sunday. AMS members who wish to study any of the Library’s holdings are requested to call or write in advance. Reading Room hours are 9:30 to 4:45 Monday through Friday; manuscripts on exhibit may be consulted only on Mondays.

A highlight of the meeting will be a world premier of Alban Berg’s Lyric Suite in a hitherto unknown form—with soprano solo in the Finale—at a concert on Thursday evening. Under the combined auspices of the Society and the International Alban Berg Society, the Columbia String Quartet, Bethany Beardslee, and George Perle will present a program devoted entirely to the work. The concert will open with an instrumental performance from the score as presently published. George Perle will then present a lecture explaining the recovery of the vocal part, illustrated with musical examples by the performing artists. In conclusion, the Suite will be repeated with the Finale for voice and instruments. The reconstruction of Berg's original conception draws on the recent discovery by Douglass Green of cryptic notations in a sketch of the Finale, which he was able to decipher as the Stefan George translation of a sonnet from Baudelaire's Les Fleurs du Mal. In addition, Perle himself found an unknown copy of the published score containing copious and elaborate annotations in the composer's hand, which unfolded a secret "program" having its inspiration in the composer's love for Hanna Fuchs-Robettin, sister of Franz Werfel and wife of a prominent Prague industrialist. It was these delicate circumstances that caused the composer to suppress the vocal version during his lifetime.

Another special event, sponsored in part by the Society, will be a two-day Festival of Medieval and Renaissance Music at the Church of St. Mary the Virgin on West 46th Street. Eight New York based performing groups will participate in the festival with four ensembles presented each evening in showcase format. The repertory will range from 10th-century proportional chant through the music of Machaut, the Libbre Venum, Leonel Power, and Heinrich Isaac to Ataingnant, Susato, and Giovanni Gabrieli. On Thursday evening Cappella Nova (the first winner of the Noah Greenberg Prize), the Ensemble for Early Music, Schola Antiqua, and the New York Consort of Viols will be featured; on Friday evening Pomerium Musices, the New York Renaissance Band, the New York Cornet and Sackbut Ensemble, and Music For A While will perform.

On behalf of the membership we should like to thank the other members of the Program Committee and the Local Arrangements Committee for their devoted efforts, their time, and their patience, the Performance Committee under Professor John Sues for making possible concerts and recitals of particular interest, and the Program and Local Arrangements Committees of the SMT under Professors Stefan Kostka and James Baker respectively for their help and cooperation. And on behalf of these committees we should like to thank the members of the Society for the many proposals so carefully and thoughtfully prepared and for the support and understanding with which our efforts have been received.

SPANISH MUSICOCOLOGICAL SOCIETY

Spanish musicologists have recently formed the Spanish Musicological Society (Sociedad Española de Musicología), whose office is now located permanently in Madrid. The new society is the result of approximately three years of planning by some of Spain's most prominent musical scholars, particularly Samuel Rubio, Miguel Querol, José Mariá Llorens, and José López Calo. In July of 1977, the government approved the statutes of formation for the new society, and on 10 December of that year its first convocation took place in Madrid. The principal matter on the agenda was the approval of the society's statutes as amended by the government and the election of officers. The first president of the society, Samuel Rubio, presided over the rest of the elections, which named José López Calo vice-president, Jacinto Torres secretary general, and Luis Elizalde treasurer.

The official journal of the new society is still in the planning stages. Originally, the board thought to use an existing publication, Tesoro Sacra Musical, whose office is currently being used as the mailing address of the society. The general feeling now, however, is that an independent organ, to be called most probably Revista Española de Musicología or Revista de la Sociedad de Musicología Española, would be in the best interests of the society, which hopes that it will appear either two or three times per year.

In addition to the journal, the society publishes a bulletin, which is similar to the newsletter of the American Musicological Society and which is sent free of charge to all members. Membership in the society costs 1,000 pesetas, or about $12.50, and Americans may send a personal check, bank check, or international money order in either currency. Inquiries and applications for membership should be sent to the Sociedad Española de Musicologia, Victor Pradera 65, dupl. 3°. Madrid - 8, Spain.

DENVER — 1980

The Annual Meeting of the Society for 1980 will be held in Denver at the Hilton Hotel, November 6-9 (Thursday through Sunday), hosted by the University of Colorado. Abstracts of papers, proposals for panel discussions and study sessions, and other suggestions regarding the program should be sent by February 1, 1980, to Craig Wright, chairman of the Program Committee, Department of Music, Yale University, New Haven, Ct. 06520. Because the number of paper proposals has grown dramatically in recent years, a few simple procedures must be followed. Each reader, whether submitting a proposal individually or wishing to participate as a member of a pre-arranged session or panel, must submit an abstract. Members who wish to organize study sessions, full sessions, or panel discussions should solicit contributions and send all abstracts they receive to the Program Committee. An individual who agrees to participate in one of these prefabricated sessions or panels may also submit his abstract independently to the Committee for consideration. Abstracts are to be typed on one side of a sheet of paper and sent in multiple copies of eight. They are not to exceed 250 words and should be written so that they might be incorporated directly into the publication Abstracts of Papers. Each abstract should include the title, the name and address of the author, a clear description of the topic, including an indication of the method used and the aim pursued, and the time required for presentation. All decisions with regard to the suitability of pre-arranged sessions, papers within pre-arranged sessions, and individually submitted papers rest with the Committee.

The Music Educators Journal will begin this fall a monthly calendar of music events such as festivals, conventions, and meetings sponsored by national music organizations. The journal invites contributions to this calendar: send dates, place, and other information three months prior to desired publication date to MEJ Calendar, 1902 Association Drive, Reston, VA 22091.

The University of Texas Press announces the publication of a new journal to be called Latin American Music Review—Revista de Música Latino-Americana. The review, under the editorship of Gerard Béhague, will begin as a biannual publication with the first issue appearing in early 1980. Its advisory board will include scholars from Latin America representing various disciplines related to the study of music, such as folklore, anthropology, history, language, and literature. For further information about subscriptions and submission of contributions, contact Professor Béhague at the Institute of Latin American Studies, SRH 1.323, University of Texas at Austin, Austin, TX 78712; or the Journals Department at the University of Texas Press, Printing and Press Building, University of Texas at Austin, Austin, TX 78712.

With the assistance of a $35,000 grant from the Research Collection Program of the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Indiana University Archives of Traditional Music recently completed the organization, processing, cataloging and indexing of the Terence R. Bech Collection of Nepalese music. The collection comprises tape recordings, photographs, musical instruments, life history documentation of musicians and their families, translations and transcriptions of song texts, music and manuscript materials. Materials and data available to scholars through the world include detailed subject access to primary source data contained in several media, public use copies of materials making up the collection, and a published catalog which provides information on the collection. The project was fulfilled by Terence R. Bech, principal investigator, Anne H. Ross, librarian, and Frank J. Gillis, Director of the Archives of Traditional Music, project director.

New York University takes pleasure in announcing the institution of a new program in Urban Ethnomusicology, under the supervision of Dr. Salwa El-Shawan. The first classes in the new program will meet this fall.

NOAH GREENBERG AWARD

The Noah Greenberg Award of the AMS has been given to John H. Hajdu, Associate Professor of Music at the University of California, Santa Cruz. The Award of $1,000 will enable him to hire professional singers and players to supplement an ensemble made up of students and faculty at his university in making a recording of the Messe des morts by the seventeenth-century French composer Jean Gilles. The costs of the production and recording will be provided by the University of California. The recording will be made from an edition prepared by Professor Hajdu, who will follow, insofar as possible, performing conventions of the time. Instrumentation, the size of the ensemble, its pitch level and the details of the performance (bowings, ornamentation and alterations to the written rhythm) will all conform to seventeenth-century French practice.

This is the second Noah Greenberg Award to be given by the AMS. The first was made last year to Richard Taruskin, director of the Cappella Nova, for a recording of Oceghem's music, shortly to be released by the Musical Heritage Society (MHS 4026). The Award was established by the Trustees of the New York Pro Musica in memory of their founder and first director. It is intended to bridge the gap between scholars and performers by enabling non-professional performing groups, specializing in music written before 1700, to accomplish something they could not otherwise do, or to recognize some distinguished contribution to the study and performance of early music.

GREENBERG AWARD GUIDELINES CLARIFIED

Since the Award is relatively new, its precise nature has not been understood by some members of our society who should be doing for it. Unlike the Kinkeldey and Einstein Awards, the Noah Greenberg Award normally functions as a grant rather than a prize. Individual scholars can apply for the Award to enable them to prepare performances of music they are studying. Colleges and Universities, and individual directors of Collegia Musica, can apply for the Award to help them pay for some extraordinary event they could not otherwise afford: a festival performance or the costs of hiring some professional musicians to supplement their own ensemble or of editing a hitherto unperformed work, for example. Musicians in residence at a University might apply for the Award in order to help them meet the additional expenses incurred in preparing a performance requiring unusually extensive editing, or to enable them to hire instrumentalists, say, who would not otherwise be available to them.

In applying for the grant, performers or scholars should describe their projects in detail. Tapes of past performances, samples of the edited score, or, if possible, illustrative tapes of portions of the planned work should be included. A budget must be submitted with the proposal.

The committee may, however, choose to give the Award in some years to an article, book or monograph dealing with performance problems in music up to the end of the seventeenth century, or to an edition—scholarly in character but with special reference to the needs of performers—of music from this same period. Since such articles, books, monographs and editions must already have been published, authors need not apply. In this case, it will be seen, the Noah Greenberg Award does in fact operate as a grant and not as a grant.

Entries should be submitted to Professor H. Colin Slim, Chairman, Noah Greenberg Award Committee of Music, University of California, Irvine, California 92664. Other members of the committee are Richard French (Yale University), David Fuller (State University of New York at Buffalo) and Lawrence Gushee (University of Illinois). The deadline for applications is 1 November each year, and the results are announced as soon after 1 January as possible.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Plans for the annual meeting in New York are progressing well and it promises to be an unusually large and varied program, appropriate to the location. Among the special features will be two sessions devoted to the music of Handel, with a number of speakers visiting from overseas, the first performance of a ‘new’ version of Berg’s Lyric Suite and, as an adjunct to the meetings, an Early Music Festival showing off many of New York’s best professional ensembles. The Society is just beginning to plan its 1980 meetings in Denver, hosted by the University of Colorado. This issue of the Newsletter includes a request from the Program Chairman, Craig Wright, for papers. Unfortunate circumstances required us to change the locale of the 1981 meetings from New Orleans to Boston even before the Board could resolve the difficult question of the propriety of meeting in a non-ERA state. The Board was reluctant—rightly so in my view—to take a formal stand on what they felt to be primarily a political issue, but we did agree informally not to meet in a non-ERA state in the immediate future.

The current Newsletter names the winner of this year’s Noah Greenberg Award, and the announcement attempts to clarify what has seemed to me some confusion in the minds of members about the nature of the Award. It is intended in the first place to be a grant-in-aid to enable non-professional performing groups to do something worthwhile that they could not otherwise do.

The Council of the Society has elected Armen Carapetyan an Honorary Member and Francois Lesure a Corresponding Member. These are honors both men richly deserve for the valuable services they have performed for our discipline, and I would like to add my own congratulations to the recognition given them by the Society. During the past year, Otto Albrecht has stepped down as Business Manager of the Journal after many years of devoted and conscientious service. To Professor Albrecht, too, I should like to add my own best wishes and congratulations to the tribute paid him by the Past-President James Haar at the last annual meeting, for his many and varied services to our Society.

• The University Center for Cultural & Intercultural Studies at Hofstra University is accepting papers for an international conference on “Renaissance Venice in History, Literature, Music & Art,” a symposium to explore intercultural influences in the 16th century, to be held 13-15 March 1980. Deadline for papers is 1 January 1980. For information write to Natalie Daltof & Alexej Ugrinsky, UCCIS, Hofstra University, Hempstead, NY 11550.

ANNUAL REPORT, FINANCE COMMITTEE

A bequest in the amount of $20,075.40 from an anonymous donor was added to our capital funds in August, 1978. The income from this bequest is designated to supplement the income from the Pro Musica Antiqua bequest for the Robert Greenberg Award.

In 1977 dues and subscription rates were raised to their present levels. The increases were mandated by the ever-narrowing margin between income and expenditures. Indeed, at the end of the fiscal year 1977-78 the cumulative difference between income and expenditures had fallen to a minus $5,289.60. Since July 1, 1978 we have now had three successive years of surpluses; the deficit has been eliminated and the total of accumulated surpluses as of June 30, 1979 is $51,689.81.

By taking advantage of the attractive interest rates available in the money market during the past year we have increased our income from the Endowment Fund and particularly from cash accounts. At the same time, we have, to some extent, offset rising costs by economies in administration.
FELLOWSHIPS AND GRANTS AVAILABLE

The Center for Field Research, a private, non-profit organization, provides funds and volunteers to support field research investigations. The funds and field staff to assist Principal Investigators are raised through private subscription—i.e., individual contributions. Fellows have the time and talent to help scientific investigation and who are willing to make a contribution to project costs. In cooperation with Earthwatch, a national volunteer organization, the Center subsidizes over 65 expeditions annually, in more than twenty different disciplines including musicology. Preliminary proposals of two pages should cite research objectives, project dates, and the need for funds and volunteers. After favorable review, Center staff will invite a formal proposal. For application guidelines, write to Nancy Bell Scott, The Center for Field Research, 10 Juniper Rd., Box 127-D, Belmont MA 02178.

The Newberry Library announces its 1979-1980 Shove and McEldavies Fellowships for Individual Research, in any field appropriate to the Newberry’s collections, appointments with stipends of $500 per month, for periods not exceeding three months. Applicants must have the Ph.D. or have completed all requirements except the dissertation. Preference will be given to applicants who particularly need to use Newberry resources and to applicants from outside the Chicago area. Completed applications for 1979-1980 are due on November 1, 1979.

For revision of recently accepted doctoral dissertations on subjects related to the Newberry’s holdings, by scholars without academic affiliation, stipends of up to $1,000 are available to cover incidental expenses, for periods up to one year. The applicant must anticipate publication in whole or in part. Applications may be submitted at any time. For additional information and application forms, write to Committee on Awards, The Newberry Library, 60 West Walton Street, Chicago, IL 60610.

The National Humanities Center will admit approximately forty Fellows for the academic year 1980-1981. The Center is designed to facilitate individual research and intellectual exchange within a community of scholars. The Center is located between the campuses of Duke University, North Carolina State University, and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The group of Fellows chosen each year includes both scholars of established reputation and young scholars of promise who have held the doctorate no more than ten years. The usual term of a fellowship is the academic year, September through May, but some fellowships are available for shorter periods. Stipends are based on the normal academic salaries of Fellows; those who have partial support receive from the Center the difference between that support and their normal salaries. Travel expenses are also provided. The deadline for 1980-1981 is 10 January 1980. Write to National Humanities Center, P.O. Box 12256, Research Triangle Park NC 27709.

The American Academy in Rome announces the opening of competitions for the 1980-1981 Rome Prize Fellowships. Applicants in musicology should apply in the field of Post-classical Humanistic Studies. Fellows of residence in Rome are offered to pre-doctoral and post-doctoral candidates. The fellowships carry a monthly stipend, travel and working supplies allowances, single or double bedroom, a study and one free meal a day. The Academy has an excellent basic library in musicology which includes the collection of Oliver Strunk. Information and application forms can be obtained from the American Academy in Rome, 41 East 65th Street, New York, NY 10021. The deadline for receipt of all material is 15 November 1979.

Andrew Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities at Stanford University are awarded to highly promising young scholars-teachers in the humanities. These non-faculty one-year positions will carry departmental affiliations, light teaching duties, and the opportunity for scholarly work and intellectual growth. The Ph.D. must have been received within the last five years, and preference will be given to recipients of the Ph.D. within three years. The award carries an annual stipend of $14,500, and may be renewable for a second year. Applications for 1980-1981 are due as early as possible, and must be received no later than 1 December 1979. For particulars, write to the Dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305.

The Columbia Society of Fellows in the Humanities, with grants from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the William R. Kenan Trust, will appoint a number of post-doctoral fellows in the humanities for the academic year 1980-1981. Fellows newly appointed for 1980-1981 must have received the Ph.D. between 1 January 1978 and 1 July 1980. The stipend is $14,500, one half for independent research and one half for interdepartmental teaching, probably with modest additional grants. Application forms can be obtained by writing to the Director, Room 1509, International Affairs Building, Columbia University, New York, NY 10027. Deadline for receipt of completed application forms is November 1, 1979.

The Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation announces its 1980-81 program of pre-doctoral and post-doctoral fellowships for research in Venice, Italy. The following areas may be considered in the history of Venice and the former Venetian empire in its various aspects — art, architecture, archaeology, theatre, music, literature, natural science, political science, economics, the law. Applicants must be citizens of the United States, have some experience in advanced research, and, if graduate students, have completed all doctoral requirements. Application forms can be obtained by writing to The Gladys Krieble Delmas Foundation, 40 Wall Street, New York, NY 10005.

AWARDS AND PRIZES

The Council for International Exchange of Scholars announces the following additions to the list of Fulbright Scholars in music for 1978-1979 (the original list appeared in the Newsletter for January 1979): Jerome Rappaport (University of Arkansas), to Keimyung University, Korea; Samuel Thaviu (Emeritus, Northwestern University), to the National Symphony of Peru; David S. Lewis (Ohio University), to the Strasbourg Symphony Orchestra; David H. Rosenthal (Mercy College), to the University of Barcelona.

The American Council of Learned Societies, in a program assisted by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, has awarded sixty-six grants-in-aid to recent recipients of the Ph.D. An award in the field of music was made to Steven E. Stucky (Lawrence University) for a study of the life and works of Witolfd Litotowski. The 1979 Van Courtlandt Elliott Prize "for distinction achieved in a first article in the mediaeval field" was awarded by the Mediaeval Academy of America to Charles M. Atkinson of Ohio State University. His award-winning article, "The Earliest Agnus Dei Melody and its Tropes," was published in the Journal of this Society (Vol. 30, pp. 1-19) and was also the recipient of this year's Einstein Award.

Clyde W. Brockett of Christopher Newport College is the recipient of an Andrew Mellon Foundation fellowship to the Vatican Film Library in St. Louis University for July 1979. His project entails the discovery of the author of the anonymous late-11th-century Epilogus in modorum formulis et cantuum qualitatus.

The American Council of Learned Societies announces that travel grants to attend international scholarly meetings have been awarded to William S. Newman, to attend the executive meeting of the Direktorium of the International Musicological Society in Strassburg; to A. REPORT OF THE COUNCIL SECRETARY

In October of 1975, the Council named Rebecca Baltzer, Chair, Lawrence Gushee, Anthony Newcomb, and Bonnie Wade to a committee directed to formulate a brochure on graduate studies in musicology that would describe what musicology is, career alternatives, preparation required, and suggest guidelines for choosing a graduate school. At its October, 1978 meeting, the Council approved a final draft of the brochure to be submitted to the AMS Board of Directors for adoption.

At the same meeting, a committee was created to devise guidelines for the establishment of uniform procedures in the hiring of new faculty. Frank Tirro chairs the new committee, with Gilbert Blount and David Crawford as the other members. Finally, the Council nominated François Lesure to Corresponding Membership and Armen Carapetyan to Honorary Membership in the Society. The Society honored persons who have made outstanding or notable contributions "to furthering the stated object of the Society." Both were elected by a unanimous vote of the Board of Directors at its March, 1979 meeting.

The Council Secretary welcomes suggestions from the membership of topics or matters of concern that might profitably be explored at the next meeting of the Council in 1979, in New York. —Ann B. Scott

AMS/MLA TRANSLATION CENTER

The Translations Center, established in 1968 by the American Musicological Society and the Music Library Association at Brooklyn College of the City University of New York, has recently been reactivated. The Center has resumed operations that make possible for music scholars to share published translations of libretti, articles from journals, dictionaries and encyclopedias, research studies, and theoretical treatises. The Center, under the direction of Dee Baily, Music Librarian at Brooklyn College, serves as a clearinghouse by accepting and lending English translations, and welcomes French, German, Italian, or Spanish translations from less accessible languages.

Among the forty-seven translations are Guido d’Arezzo’s Micrologus, translated by Warren Babb, Guido Adler’s article on Gustav Mahler, translated by Edward R. Reilly, and Marin Mersenne’s Harmonic universelle, translated by William F. Russell. The Center does not edit or secure publication for the translations; it does, however, withdraw translations when they are published. Items are loaned for two weeks at a modest fee of $1.00 per 100 pages for each translation.

For information regarding submitting or borrowing translations and for the list of translations available, write to Dee Baily, Chairperson, AMS/MLA Translations Center, Music Department, Brooklyn College, Brooklyn, N.Y. 11210.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The Publications Committee of the American Musicological Society has formulated the following statement of policy:

The A.M.S. wishes to encourage and will undertake to support publication of original and significant research in any field of musicology. To this end, the Publications Committee particularly solicits manuscripts of books, monographs, or editions [representing the highest standards of contemporary scholarship and] accepted for publication by a reputable publisher with the proviso that supplementary support be found. Applications for such support should be submitted to the Publications Committee by the publisher, along with the proposed budget.

Members of the Society who have had manuscripts accepted for publication should encourage their publishers to apply to the Committee for a subvention. In the past the Society has underwritten at least a part of the expenses of editions of music by Arcadelt, Billings, Dunstable and Ockeghem, monographs on Noel Baudewyn, Quantz, the Winchester Tropers and the English madrigal, indexes of masters’ theses, doctoral dissertations and music by Sammartini, a translation of Schenker’s Der Freie Satz, and a volume in the series Monumenta Musicae Byzantinae.

OSWALD JONAS MEMORIAL COLLECTION

The Library of the University of California, Riverside announces that musicological manuscripts, letters, biographical materials, and notebooks of Heinrich Schenker are now joined in one collection with similar materials of the late Oswald Jonas, musicologist and authority on the life and work of Schenker. In addition to the correspondence and various working materials of both Schenker and Jonas, this new archive encompasses the voluminous diary of Heinrich Schenker. Written between 1896 and 1935, the approximately four thousand pages of the diary afford observations and comments upon musical, literary, theatrical, and artistic works and performances which he witnessed or experienced during his active intellectual life. Correspondence includes that between Schenker and Anthony van Hoboken, Reinhard Oppel, Moriz Violin, and Eugen d’Albert, as well as between Jonas and Wilhelm Furtwängler and, of course, between Jonas and Schenker. The collection also includes various proofs and manuscripts of published works of Schenker, various printed editions from Schenker’s library with notes, marginalia, and critical annotations, Urinline tables, miscellanea including Schenker portraits and a death mask, teaching materials of Jonas, and collected materials on contemporary events.
