New Orleans 1987

You are invited to the 1987 Annual Meeting, 15–18 October at the new Sheraton Hotel, 500 Canal Street, New Orleans, Louisiana. The hotel is across the street from the Vieux Carré or French Quarter, with its many quaint stores, antique shops, bookstores, modern boutiques, flea market, artist’s stalls, entertainment, and coffee shops. Hundreds of restaurants in and about the two-square-mile Quarter have justly earned New Orleans the reputation as the best eating place in America. Until one eats real Creole gumbo, shrimp jambalaya, crayfish etoufée, and blackened red fish in the restaurants that invented them, one has not really eaten them at all. Visit Preservation Hall and many other music sites, and stroll through the 18th-century Caribbean city made famous in novels and in the movies.

Peter McLean (800/539-1869) offers assistance with air transportation and will have an information table in the hotel. New Orleans is served by nearly all major airlines, by Greyhound and Trailways buses, by AMTRAK, and by major steamship companies and Mississippi River boats. Those driving should enter the city on I-10, exit on Canal, and head downtown or riverside to the hotel, which has ample parking. Plane travelers should take a limousine to the Sheraton or a cab with at least three passengers; bus and train travelers should take a cab to the hotel. The Sheraton Hotel is fully equipped to accommodate the handicapped.

The 53rd Annual Meeting will be held jointly with the College Music Society and the Center for Black Music Research. Joint registration tables open on Wednesday, 14 October between 5 and 10 P.M., and again on Thursday at 8 A.M. An employment desk and bulletin board will be adjacent to the registration desk.

The Sheraton Hotel is five short blocks from the Mississippi River, where the famous Natchez paddle wheel steamboat awaits the first 400 registrants for an evening cruise on Friday. Dance in the state room to a traditional jazz band or meander the decks to the occasional sound of a strolling banjo player. Drinks and food can be purchased on board. No gambling! The admission is $10 (Be sure to register for this on the enclosed forms).

A number of concerts will highlight the balmy New Orleans evenings. On Thursday at 9 P.M. there will be a concert of 19th-century Creole art music, and on Friday and Saturday at 8 P.M. and on Sunday at 2 P.M. the Tulane Opera will perform Gershwin’s Girl Crazy. On Saturday evening there will be a no-host cocktail party at the hotel featuring the Louisiana Jazz Repertory Band (whose clarinetist Fred Starr is President of Oberlin College), and later that evening the New Leviathan Oriental Fox Trot Orchestra will accompany the traditional AMS dance. The New Orleans Symphony plans concerts on Friday and Saturday featuring Tchaikovsky’s Romeo and Juliet in the original choral version. There will be other concerts as well.

New Orleans is a family tourist city. Within easy walking distance are many museums of interest to children as well as adults, including the new Children’s Museum, Science Center, Doll Museum and the various displays of the Historic New Orleans Collection and Louisiana State Museum. Visit historic Chalmette Battlefield (site of the last battle of the War of 1812), the Civil War Museum, and a 19th-century submarine. An all-day visit to the wonderful New Orleans Zoo in Audubon Park is arranged for Friday, with departure via paddle boat from the Canal Street Wharf at 10 A.M. and return to the hotel by 6 P.M. ($8.30 for adults, $4.25 for children, all inclusive—no advance registration necessary). Parents who wish baby sitters for daytime and/or evenings should answer the relevant questions on the registration form.

On Thursday there will be an all-day excursion available to two beautiful plantations, and also on Thursday afternoon between 2 and 5 P.M. there will be a guided bus tour of New Orleans (advance registration required for both tours).

Many local archives and museums will have special exhibitions in or near the hotel or in their regular locales. Some of these are geared for scholars, others for the general public. The New Orleans Museum of Art, though under renovation, will have some of its permanent collections available, including some works by local artist Edgar...

Call for Papers

The 1988 Annual Meeting of the American Musicological Society will be held at the Omni International Hotel in Baltimore, Maryland from Thursday, 3 November to Sunday, 6 November. The Society will meet jointly with the Society for Music Theory. The Program Committee of the two Societies will meet jointly in hopes of setting up several shared sessions.

Abstracts of papers to be considered for inclusion on the program should be submitted to the Program Chair, Robert P. Morgan, Department of Music, University of Chicago, 5843 South Ellis Avenue, Chicago, IL 60637. The deadline for submission is 1 February 1988.

Individual papers should be planned to last thirty minutes or less. Abstracts should be one page in length and typed, double-spaced, on 8 1/2- by 11-inch bond paper. They should be written so that they can be incorporated directly into the published Abstracts of Papers. The title should appear at the top of the page, the author and institutional affiliation at the bottom. Abstracts that do not conform to the published guidelines will be returned.

For informal study sessions and panels the organizer may submit a general prospectus with summaries of the individual contributions. Proposals for reports on research in progress should describe the format proposed for the display and report. Members may propose formal sessions devoted to a single topic, but an abstract is required for each contribution, and each will be considered separately.

The Program Committee would welcome the opportunity to schedule sessions related to the following themes:

1. Topics combining historical and theoretical concerns (e.g., the influence of theoretical ideas on compositional practice);
2. Feminist issues and the study of musicology (e.g., the influence of sexual stereotyping on historical formulations);
3. Musicology as a cross-cultural discipline (e.g., the contribution of anthropological or sociological perspectives to the study of music history);
4. Reflections on historical and methodological aspects of the musicological discipline.

Abstracts submitted for sessions on these themes will be subject to the same review as abstracts on other topics.

For its initial review, the Committee circulates blind abstracts: that is, the author's name is removed from the copies read by Committee members. In recent years the Committee has been able to accept only about a third of the abstracts submitted, and the selection process becomes especially difficult when abstracts are vague. It therefore behooves authors to make their methods and conclusions as explicit as possible. The Committee will be disinclined to schedule two appearances by an author at the same Annual Meeting, or appearance by the same author at two consecutive Annual Meetings.

Call for Performances

The Performance Committee for the 1988 Annual Meeting invites proposals for concerts and lecture recitals. Suggestions should be sent before 1 February 1988, along with a cassette tape that is representative of the performing forces and repertoire being proposed, to the Committee Chair: Laurence Dreyfus, Department of Music, Yale Station Box 4030, Yale University, New Haven, CT 06520.

Report of the Chapter Fund Committee

After sixteen years under the dedicated leadership of Paul Revit, the Chapter Fund Committee this year has a new chairman, Peter Bergquist; its other members are Courtney Adams and Frank Kirby. The Committee this year has been able to respond to all requests for subventions; eleven chapters received funds for travel of student members of the AMS Council to the Cleveland meeting and for expenses for guest speakers at chapter meetings. The Committee has also prepared an updated (but essentially unchanged) version of its guidelines, which it hopes to have approved during the coming year.

Requests from chapters for funds should be addressed to Peter Bergquist, Chair, AMS Chapter Fund Committee, School of Music, University of Oregon, Eugene, OR 97403-1225.

Degas and the famous Fabergé collection from the Russian Tsars, which is on permanent loan.

Each registrant will receive a specially-prepared walking tour guide of the French Quarter and a restaurant list with a range in tastes and budgets from Antoine's and Galatoire's to Wendy's and Burger King, all within a ten-minute walk from the Sheraton. For additional information on the city, Fodor's New Orleans 1987 may prove useful. For tour information in and outside the city, contact the Greater New Orleans Tourist and Convention Commission, Inc., 1520 Sugar Bowl Drive, New Orleans, LA 70112.

President’s Message

As the Society girds up for its Annual Meeting, this year in mid-October in the exotic world of downtown New Orleans, it is time to reflect on a larger issue that normally remains in the background of professional consciousness but is bound to surface at a massive gathering of scholars from across the country. At the New Orleans meeting, to be held jointly with the College Music Society and the Center for Black Music Research, we can expect that papers and sessions will present the usual kaleidoscopic range of topics and viewpoints; chronologically covering what a colleague of mine once called “caveman to cowboy”; topically ranging from, let us say, Aaron (Pietro) to Zee (Confrey).

But a national meeting is more than the sum of its sessions, papers, concerts, and scheduled events, however carefully chosen and effectively presented. It is also a vast occasion for professional and personal reunions, a Rialto of encounters. For many of our younger members it is an important opportunity for job interviews and for professional advancement. This is the larger issue I want to address in this space, however briefly. No one doubts that it is a matter of abiding importance to the present and future of musicology as a profession.

Through the Council of the Society and its Student Representatives, it’s become increasingly clear that the AMS ought to do something more than in the recent past to address the concerns of younger scholars facing a narrow and crowded academic job market. Of course the problem lies first of all with Ph.D.-granting departments across the country: above all in their awareness of the connections that bind their own curricula, admiring, and methods of assisting younger scholars, to the perceived range of potential professional opportunities.

But since the AMS is the central professional society for American musicologists, it ought in my view to see what it can do for its younger members—to open doors, to search for new ways in which musicologists can function professionally, and to guard against an inertial tendency to assume that the status quo must remain unchanged. Accordingly, I am working with Ruth Solie, as Secretary of the AMS Council and as Student Liaison, to bring about a special session on Career Opportunities in Musicology, with a panel of senior musicologists who hold different kinds of professional positions (academic and non-academic) and who will bring divergent perspectives to the broad issue. Clearly one short session can do only so much to sharpen awareness of the problem—but the sharpening itself may be a definite step in the right direction. The Society’s Board members are well aware of our younger members’ need for recognition of this issue, and for guidance in how to open up potential new sources of employment that would give more musicologists a base of support for their scholarly, musical, and intellectual development.

Some years ago the Society had a Committee on Academic and Non-Academic Employment, but it has not been active for some time. Nevertheless, under the effective leadership of Cynthia Verba, it did valuable work; and student members of the Society continue to receive Cynthia Verba’s pamphlet on the Ph.D. in Musicology and on embarking on a career. At present I am appointing a new AMS Committee on Non-Academic Employment, whose charge it will be to once again focus the Society’s efforts to extend the range of employment opportunities beyond the academic. This may take a variety of directions—for example, developing and disseminating information on non-academic positions; helping to bring about contacts between younger scholars and potential employers; and serving to inform people in non-academic fields (such as publishing, performing organizations, broadcasting, and other related areas) on the pool of musicological talent they might wisely seek to exploit.

That all of this may be met with a certain skepticism I am well aware. Equally clearly, that skepticism is founded on a pervasive awareness of the gulf that normally separates the world of musicological thought from the greater world of the media, at least in American life. But in a larger sense, this is the central underlying issue of the time is more than right, in my view, for the professional cadre of American musical scholarship to do what it can to strengthen its influence on the communication of knowledge about music in the public media, at whatever level. Without now going into the elaborate detail that this very complex topic so richly deserves, let me put it in a nutshell by asking the readers of the Newsletter to consider the degree of musical and intellectual depth that they encounter when they turn on their radios to the “classical” stations and then think about the apparent quality of professional preparation revealed by the commentaries whose voices dominate the airwaves. For now perhaps this sample will do; the subject is large and complex. Admittedly, improving the cultural landscape has not been a main concern of our professional life in general. But the time has arrived when I believe it should be, more than before, and that, as a Society, we should collectively take it in hand.

—Lewis Lockwood

Of Interest to Student Members

This year’s Annual Meeting in New Orleans will include two initiatives taken in response to concerns the Society has been hearing from its student members. Both the Council and the Board of Directors have discussed these matters and have given their enthusiastic support.

First, two panel discussions of interest have been scheduled. Career Opportunities in Musicology, moderated by Lewis Lockwood, (Harvard University) President of the AMS, will focus on professional opportunities both inside and outside the academy. Expertise will be contributed by a number of panelists: Robert Freeman, (Director, Eastman School of Music); Philip Gossett, (University of Chicago); Michael Steinberg (Artistic Director, San Francisco Symphony); Judith Tick (Northeastern University; Chair, AMS Committee on the Status of Women); and Cynthia Verba (Ph.D. career advisor at Harvard University). Further, the Committee on Non-Academic Employment, chaired by Laurence Libin (Department of Musical Instruments, Metropolitan Museum of Art), will sponsor an open session with committee members.

Second, in response to many complaints about the public nature of the job interview process, a system has been set up whereby relevant appointment lists will be managed by staff at the registration desk, out of public view. I am grateful to John Baron and the Local Arrangements Committee for their willingness to add this concern to an already complex task. I and my successor in office would be very pleased to hear your reactions to this new method.

Peter Jeffery Receives MacArthur Award

The MacArthur Foundation of Chicago has chosen Peter Jeffery (University of Delaware) as one of this year's MacArthur Award recipients. The Foundation selected 32 "outstandingly talented and promising individuals" to receive awards over five years ranging from $100,000 to $750,000. The program was established to provide funds to creative individuals from economic pressures without imposing any constraints on how the winners use their time or money. The late J. Roderick MacArthur, son of the philanthropic program's founder, spoke of the Foundation's efforts to uncover particularly gifted individuals and perhaps to ignite a spark of genius. Consequently, within the foundation community, the fellowships are frequently described as the "genius" awards. Jeffery represents the first AMS member chosen to receive this most prestigious award.

COPAM Report

The Society's Committee on the Publication of American Music (COPAM)—whose members include Doris J. Dyen, Samuel A. Floyd, Jr., Lawrence Gushee, James Harter, Charles Hamm, H. Wiley Hitchcock, Cynthia A. Hoover, and Richard Crawford, Chairman—is working to establish a national series of scholarly editions of American music. On 25–26 September 1987, at the Minnary Conference Center in Squam Lake, New Hampshire, COPAM will hold a conference on its plans for the series, under the sponsorship of the National Endowment for the Humanities. The proposed series projects some 35–40 volumes by the year 2000, including editions of several different kinds: large single works such as operas, oratorios, symphonies, or musical comedies; collected works of individual composers; genre anthologies, drawn from both written and oral traditions; and "Core Repertory" anthologies. The COPAM national series will represent a wide range of American music making, both formal and informal. The Committee is eager to hear from people who have editing projects in mind or in progress. Those who are interested should contact Richard Crawford at Burton Tower, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI 48109.

AMS Hosts Visiting Soviet Musicologists

The AMS will host, with ACLS sponsorship, a delegation of six visiting Soviet musicologists. In addition to touring a number of universities, the group is tentatively scheduled to present a Special Session entitled Current Soviet Musicology; Presentations by Visiting Soviet Scholars at the New Orleans Annual Meeting.

Awards and Prizes

Three AMS members have been awarded John Simon Guggenheim Foundation Fellowships for 1987–88: Lawrence F. Bernstein (University of Pennsylvania), A History of French Secular Music of the 16th Century; Alejandro E. Pianchalt (University of California, Santa Barbara), A Biography of Guillaume De Faye; and Vivian Perlis (Yale University), work on the second volume of Copland’s autobiography, of which she is co-author. The first volume, Copland 1900 Through 1942, was designated a Book of Honor by the English Speaking Union and received the Deems Taylor ASCAP Award.

The following AMS members have been granted NEH summer stipends: Stanley Boorman (New York University), Early Italian Music Prints: A Bibliographic Study; Thalberg Birgir (Oregon State University Foundation), Improvisation and Baroque Musical Practice: Francesco Durante's Partimenti; Kristine K. Forney (California State University, Long Beach), Musicians in Burgher Society: Patterns of Patronage in Renaissance Society; Jonathon Glixon (University of Kentucky), Musical Activities at the Venetian Confraternities, 1500–1800; Rena Mueller (New York University), The Music of Liszt: A Catalogue of the Manuscript Sources; Anne Dhu Shapiro (Newton, MA), Scottish Musical Style in American Folksongs; Gary Tomlinson (University of Pennsylvania), Words, Music, and Magic in the Italian Renaissance.

The following AMS members have received NEH Fellowships for University Teachers: Reinhold Brinkmann (Harvard University), Schoenberg's Pirotta Lupanes and Ode to Napoleon: Critical Editions and Genesis Studies of Two Musical Manuscripts; David L. Brodbeck (University of Southern California), Mendelssohn and the Sacred Style in Berlin; Dale E. Monson (University of Michigan), The Composition of 18th-Century Italian Opera in Europe; and Reinhard Strohm (Yale University), The Musical Contribution to Drama in Representative Italian Operas. Members receiving NEH Fellowships for College Teachers and Independent Scholars are: Jane A. Bernstein (Tufts University), Giovanni Pergolesi and the Sacred Style in Berlin; Frederick C. Neumann (University of Richmond), Aspects of Musical Performance in the 17th and 18th Centuries; James P. Parakilas (Bates College), Chopin and the Instrumental Ballet; David Warren Steel (University of Mississippi), Shape-Note Tunebooks of the 19th Century; and Susan L. Youens (University of Notre Dame), Music and Poetry in the Songs of Hugo Wolf, 1860–1903.

AMS 50 Fellowship Awards

The two winners of the AMS 50 Fellowship Awards for 1987–88 are Donald R. McLean of the University of Toronto and James Pritchett of New York University. Both are writing dissertations on twentieth-century subjects: Mr. McLean’s topic is “Alban Berg’s Drei Orchesterstücke, Op. 6: A Documentary Study,” and Mr. Pritchett is writing on “The Development of Chance Technique in the Music of John Cage, 1950–1961.”

Selection of the two winning candidates, chosen from a group of entrants from a number of North American universities, was made by a jury of three members from the AMS 50 Fellowship Committee. In speaking of the contenders as a whole, the Chairman of this year’s jury stated that “their overall quality leaves us with a very good feeling about the future of the discipline.”

Formal presentation of this year’s awards will be made at the Annual Meeting in New Orleans.

AMS 50 Campaign Report

AMS 50 is pleased to offer the following to members of the American Musicological Society and their associates:

AMS 50 T-Shirts. At last, an official AMS T-shirt. Created in tasteful navy blue, with appliqués of the purest white. On the recto, the AMS 50 logo; on the verso, the rubric "American Musicological Society," as it appears in our Journal. Available in S, M, L, XL for the price of $10.00. (See photos on this page).

AMS New Orleans Posters. Musical motif with New Orleans flair, in four colors, measuring 25 x 38". Delivered by post, unfolded, in a mailing cylinder. $5.00 (plus $1.00 mailing). (Photo on preceding page).

New Grove Raffle. Drawing for the 1987 raffle of a set of the New Grove Dictionary of Music and Musicians, 20 vols., will take place Saturday evening, 17 October, at 7:30 p.m. during the No-Host Cocktail Reception at the Sheraton Hotel in New Orleans. This copy of the New Grove was presented to the AMS 50 campaign by Rebecca Balsek, a member of the AMS 50 Committee, who had won the 1986 raffle in Cleveland. You need not be present either to enter the raffle or to win it. Raffle tickets are $1.00 each; order up to 100 of them on the enclosed order form or buy your tickets at the meeting.

An order form is included in this mailing of the Newsletter. All items will also be on sale at the New Orleans meeting.

AMS 50 requires approximately $100,000 in new pledges by 31 July 1988 in order to qualify for the next installment of the National Endowment for the Humanities Matching Grant. This goal would be most easily reached through 1,000 further contributions of $100, which can be made payable in three installments (31 December 1987, 31 December 1988, 30 June 1989). AMS 50 urges every member of the American Musicological Society to return the pledge card included in this mailing of the Newsletter with news of the most generous pledge you can muster. The cause is as worthy as they come: the promise of a rich future for American musicology.

Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities

The Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities seeks faculty nominations of college seniors and recent graduates of outstanding promise for careers in teaching and scholarship. Approximately 120 awards, providing $6,750 plus tuition and standard fees, will be available for candidates entering upon graduate study in 1987–88, with each award being tenable for as much as three years.

The primary purposes of these awards are to maintain the vitality and high quality of humanistic scholarship and to attract into careers of teaching and scholarship the fresh critical and creative minds who will be in increased demand for college and university faculties in the 1990s and beyond.

If information on the MFTH is not readily available where you are, please address nominations and/or inquiries to: Robert F. Goheen, Director, MFTH, P.O. Box 288, Princeton, NJ 08542.

The Newberry Library Summer Institute in Italian Archival Studies

The Newberry Library Center for Renaissance Studies has announced its 1988 Summer Institute in Archival Studies, which will be led by Armando Petracci (Director of the Institute of Paleography of the University of Rome), assisted by Franca Nardelli. The seminar will provide intensive training in the reading, transcribing and editing of Italian vernacular manuscripts (1300–1650) as well as a thorough orientation in the organization of Italian archives, libraries, and manuscript collections. Petracci’s publications include Il Protocollo Notarile di Coluccio Salutati (1963), La scrittura di Francesca Petrare (1967), Libri, editori e pubblico nell’Europa moderna (1967), and Scrittura e popolo nella Roma barocca (1982).

Full-time faculty members and librarians with instructional responsibilities employed in institutions of higher learning in the United States are eligible to apply for stipends of up to $3,000 provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities. In accordance with NEH standards, the institutions of participants receiving Endowment awards will be required to pay 10% of the stipends. The course will be conducted in Italian and will meet from 27 June until 5 August 1988. The deadline for applications is 1 March 1988. For application forms and information, contact the Center for Renaissance Studies, The Newberry Library, 60 West Walton Street, Chicago, Illinois 60610.

Invitations to Submit

The Sonneck Society has announced that Don L. Roberts will chair the Irving Lowens Award Committee, to choose the best book, edition, or recording on American music issued in 1986. Nominations may be sent to him at the Music Library, Northwestern University, Evanston, IL 60201. Other members of the Committee are Marsha Berman (University of California, Los Angeles) and John Druesedew (Duke University).

The Music Library Association welcomes nominations for awards for publications appearing in 1986 in the following categories: best book-length bibliography or music reference work; best article-length bibliography or article on music librarianship; and best review in Notes. Nominations should be sent to Joseph M. Boonin, Chair, MLA Awards Committee, Jerona Music Corporation, 81 Trinity Place, Hackensack, NJ 07601-4299. Applications for the Walter Gerboth Award, intended to support research, preferably leading to publication, by a member of the Association in the first five years of his or her career as a librarian, should be submitted by 15 November 1987 to Gerboth Award, c/o W. Davidson, Sibley Music Library, Eastman School of Music, 26 Gibbs Street, Rochester, NY 14604. Applications should be accompanied by two letters of support, one for the person and one for the project, a vita, and names of further references. The project and its significance should be described, along with a budget specifying the amount (up to $200) requested from the Association.

The Society for Music Theory solicits nominations for 1987 Outstanding Publications Awards from the entire community of music theorists. Eligible publications include books and articles (but not unpublished dissertations) written in English and published during the calendar years 1984 through 1987. Awards are open to scholars of any nationality and citizenship. An acceptable nomination consists of a brief letter and five nonreturnable copies of the publication, to be sent by 1 September 1987 to SMT Publications Awards Committee, Lewis Rowell, Chair, School of Music, Indiana University, Bloomington, IN 47405.

The Stefan and Wanda Wilk Prizes for Research in Polish Music are awarded annually to authors of the best unpublished papers reflecting research on some aspect of the music of Poland, preferably on a less researched topic or composer. The prizes are sponsored by the Polish Music Reference

Center and the School of Music at the University of Southern California. The 1987–88 competition will award $1,000 to the winning author and $500 to the winning student author. Submissions are due by 30 September 1988; write for competition rules to the Wilk Prizes in Polish Music, USC School of Music, Los Angeles, CA 90089-0851.

Fallen Leaf Press is seeking manuscripts of high quality for possible publication in its series of reference books in music. Areas covered by this series include bibliographies, bio-bibliographies, discographies, indexes, and catalogs. For details, write to Reference Series Editor, Fallen Leaf Press, P.O. Box 10034, Berkeley, CA 94709.

The Editor of Speculum welcomes submissions of articles and brief notes in any area of medieval studies. Submission should be original, significant, well-written, and well-argued. Authors should send two copies of typescripts to the Editor of Speculum, Medieval Academy of America, 1430 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, MA 02138.

Other News

Collaborators are invited to join a small British-American ad hoc group formed to produce a “Readers’ Guide” to Abraham Rees’s Cyclopaedia; or, Universal Dictionary of Arts, Sciences, and Literature (1802–20). The guide will in all likelihood include biographical notes on the contributors to this multi-volume nineteenth-century work; a discussion of the major articles; an analytical subject index; and chapters on the printing and publishing history of both the English and the American editions. Because the Cyclopaedia is so inclusive, collaborators from many fields, including all the humanities, the sciences, medicine, the arts, and technology can be accommodated in areas coinciding with their scholarly interests. For further details, write to J. Z. Fullmer, Department of History, Dulles Hall, Ohio State University, Columbus, OH 43210.

The American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters has announced its new officers. Author Hortense Calisher was elected as President, Philip Pearlstein was elected as Vice-President for Art, and George Perle was elected as Vice-President for Music. The purpose of the Academy-Institute is to foster, assist, and sustain an interest in literature, music, and the fine arts; both the Institute and Academy were established under endowments provided by Archer M. Huntington and were chartered by Acts of Congress in 1913 and 1916 respectively.

Editorial Note

With this August issue of the AMS Newsletter the present editor completes her term of office. The new editor will be James L. Lader Weig of the University of Rhode Island; I extend to him my best wishes as he begins his duties with the February 1988 issue and thank him for his cooperation on the final stages of this issue. Copy should be sent to him at the address given elsewhere in this issue (p. 2, column 3). Many people have assisted me during this three-year term of office; I wish to thank especially Margaret Bent and Lewis Lockwood, Alvin Johnson and Ruth Steiner, Donna Delaine and Mary Boss of A-R Editions, Inc. and William Prizer, who has served an unacknowledged three-year term as assistant editor.
Obituaries

The Society regrets to inform its members of the deaths of the following AMS members:

Philip Friedheim, d. 2 November 1985, Binghamton, New York
William E. Borland, d. 16 February 1987, Clarksville, Arizona
Donald J. Grout, d. 9 March 1987, Skaneateles, New York
Elaine Brody, 13 July 1987, New York, New York

Donald Jay Grout (1902–1987)

Twice president of the American Musicological Society, since 1971 an Honorary Member, and in 1973–76 its representative in the American Council of Learned Societies, Donald Jay Grout died on Monday, 9 March 1987. He was at his home, "Cloudbank," overlooking Skaneateles Lake in the Town of Spafford, New York, surrounded by his family. On the 12th, the Feast of St. Gregory, a funeral service took place at St. James Episcopal Church, Skaneateles, and on 26 April a service of homage was held at Cornell University, where Donald Grout taught from 1943 to 1970. Members of the AMS came from far away to take part in both observances and other members sent greetings, thinking of him and his work with admiration and gratitude and of his family and closest colleagues with endless sympathy.

When Donald was born on 28 September 1902, his family was living in Rock Rapids, Iowa, but in 1906 they moved back to Skaneateles. About that time his mother began to teach the boy to play the piano. By the age of twelve he was a good pianist: for the next four years he was organist of the Skaneateles Methodist Church. In 1919, he entered Syracuse University, became organist of the First Universalist Church of Syracuse, and occasionally in the next years also played at the Strand Theater, accompanying silent films. When he graduated in 1923, as valedictorian of his class with philosophy his major subject, Grout went to Boston for further study at the Boston University School of Theology. In about six months he dropped this program to concentrate on music.

In Boston through the 1920s Grout taught piano and played organs at various churches, carrying his study of performance to the point of a piano recital in 1931 and a second prize in the Naumburg Competition in 1932. Meanwhile he began graduate work in music at Harvard, leading to the master’s degree in 1932 and the Paine Travelling Fellowship for 1931–32.

Grout’s scholarship was thus founded on this thorough musicianship, together with a philosophical training. He liked to define “musicologist” as “a musician with an education.” On his first trip abroad he pursued studies in the history of opera, at Strasbourg, Paris, and Vienna, particularly with Théodore Gerold, J. G. Prodhomme, and Robert Haas. But he always gave greater credit to Archibald T. Davison, Harvard choral conductor, and Otto Kinkeldey, first President of the AMS, as his models of teaching and scholarship in music.

He travelled westward in 1936, to be Visiting Lecturer at Mills College in Oakland, California. Then he returned to teach at Harvard and Radcliffe (and occasionally to play the organ at the memorial Church). With his dissertation on “The Origins of the Opéra Comique” (1939), he won the doctorate and for two more years he was instructor, tutor, and director of graduate studies in music. In 1941 he read his first paper at an AMS meeting. By 1942, when he left Harvard for a brief tenure at the University of Texas, Austin, he had begun writing A Short History of Opera.

This major work on opera, published in 1947 by Columbia University Press, he revised and enlarged for a second edition in 1956, and he left a third edition under way. Though concise, it needed at least two volumes to coordinate its dauntingly comprehensive critical array of specialized research. Not only is this Short History continually cited by scholars of opera, it stands as a model, unique in America up to its time, for handbooks of other genres—sonata, oratorio, and perhaps eventually symphony, concerto, quartet, and even jazz.

In 1944, again in 1949–50, and many times thereafter, through 1976, Grout served on the AMS Executive Board. From 1948 to 1951 Grout was editor-in-chief of the Journal of the American Musicological Society. Though not quite first in this office, Grout truly established the Journal. His devoted skill and energy enabled the Society to bring out Volumes II–IV with speed, tact, and elegance.

On his second European sojourn of 1951–52, with Fulbright and Guggenheim Fellowships, Grout collected films of all extant Renaissance sacred music in choirbooks, planning a systematic study of text underlay. Though he never brought this study to publication, it contributed to his teaching and to his perspectives as historiographer, consultant, and impresario of international collaborations.

During his first term as president of AMS in 1952–54, Grout began planning to bring to America the Congress of the International Musicological Society—a bold plan fulfilled during his second term, 1960–62. For this momentous Congress he was chairman of both the Program Committee and the Committee on Arrangements. He raised money. He proposed and pushed to completion the novel publication of papers in advance (1960) and reports of discussions promptly following (1962). His imagination and energy overflowed to lead in organizing lecture-tours for several of the European participants—an opportunity for scholarly exchange still rare in those early days of commercial jet flights.

Grout’s next handbook, A History of Western Music, published in 1966 by W. W. Norton, won fame wider and perhaps more lasting than the other achievements emphasized here. Many members of AMS in 1987 have used the second or third editions of this History (1973, 1980) for their own orientation as prospective scholars. They may marvel at Grout’s composing it in the midst of so much administrative teamwork, not forgetting his teaching, choral conducting, and presiding over a growing faculty of music in Ithaca.

The International Musicological Society elected Donald Grout as President in 1966–64, then Vice President in 1965–67, permanent member of its Director, and Honorary President of the Répertoire International des Sources Musicales. His concerns extended to the music of continents around the globe: he was an active trustee of the Institute for Comparative Music Studies and Documentation, Berlin. Almost as a matter of course he joined the national musicological societies of France, Holland, and Italy, and became a member and honorary fellow of the Central Institute for Mozart Research, Salzburg, a corresponding fellow of the British Academy, and a member of the Royal Academy of Belgium; these memberships indicate the extent to which he represented American musicology abroad. Colleagues could easily add to the list many testimonies of individual scholars from the German Democratic Republic, Switzerland, Poland, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Israel, and other nations. He often urged American scholars to give greater attention than some do to international societies and to individual exchanges across national boundaries. He was glad to take part in the IMS at Berkeley in 1977, and to see so many Americans joining such international enterprises as the New Grove. For this, he himself wrote about Otto Kinkeldey and Alessandro Scarlatti.

Grout’s deep and tenacious concern for the operas of Scarlatti led him back to the European libraries in 1966. He assembled a new collection of films and soon wrote an article on one of the libretti for the Nuova Rivista Musicale Italiana (1968), one on Grieg for the volume of Essays in honor of Sir Jack Westrup (1975), and one on Ercole in honor of Zofia Lissa (1979). Today this concern leads beyond the horizon in the series of editions of Scarlatti operas that Grout planned as general editor. None of these have been published so far by Harvard, Ercole and The Faithful Princess his own editing, Grout’s lectures of 1976 as Ernest Bloch Professor at the University of California, Berkeley, published in 1979 continued on page 19

An interdisciplinary conference, John Cage at Wesleyan, will be sponsored by the Music Department and the Center for the Humanities of Wesleyan University on 22–27 February 1988; the conference will commemorate John Cage’s two periods as Fellow at the Center for Advanced Studies and the Center for the Humanities. In addition to papers on specific pieces by Cage, proposals are invited on the following related topics: the cultural impact of Cage’s thinking; Cage and world music; the University as patron of the arts; Cage and the visual and theatrical arts; and technology and the evolution of Cage’s music. Papers should be about fifteen minutes in length; proposals should be sent to Neely Bruce, Department of Music, Wesleyan University, Middletown, CT 06457.

The Sonneck Society for American Music will hold its Fourteenth National Conference at Shaker Village and Centre College in Kentucky on Wednesday through Saturday, 13–17 April 1988. Although no specific theme has been declared, topics that examine “music in society” (the theme for the 1987 meeting) are still welcome, as are those dealing with music in the general geographical area of the conference—the Appalachian Mountains and Mississippi Valley. Archival, biographical, and analytical papers are all encouraged, especially insofar as they illuminate performing practices, the institutions of American music, and the links among various folk, cultivated, and popular traditions. Individual papers should be planned to last twenty-five minutes or less. Abstracts of one page, typed, double-spaced should be submitted by 25 September 1987 to Douglas Lee, Sonneck Society Program, Blair School of Music, Vanderbilt University, Box 6320 Station B, Nashville, TN 37212.

An international conference on Leos Janacek and Czech Music, hosted by Washington University, will be held in St. Louis on 4–8 May 1988. A festival of Czech music will coincide with the conference. The St. Louis Symphony under Leonard Slatkin will present the American premiere of Janacek’s “Dunaj” (Danube) Symphony. The conference program committee invites abstracts and paper proposals that deal with aspects of the life and works of Leos Janacek. A limited number of papers dealing with Janacek’s contemporaries and predecessors will also be considered. Paper proposals should be submitted by 31 October 1987 to Michael Beckerman, Department of Music, Box 1032, Washington University, St. Louis, MO 63130.

Interdisciplinary Nineteenth-Century Studies (INCS) will hold its Third Annual Meeting, hosted by Northeastern University, in Boston, 14–16 April 1988. The general theme of the meeting is Transport, Transition, and Rites of Passage. Papers addressing this theme or any other aspect of interdisciplinary nineteenth-century studies are welcome. The due date for first-draft papers or proposals is 15 November 1987. Decisions will be announced by 15 December 1987. For further information, contact the Program Committee Chair: Stuart Peterfreund, Department of English, 406 HO, Northeastern University, 360 Huntington Avenue, Boston, MA 02115.

A Symposium of the International Musicological Society, hosted by the Musicological Society of Australia, will be held in Melbourne from 28 August to 2 September 1988. Abstracts of 300 words are invited on one of the conference themes (listed in the last issue of the Newsletter, vol. XVII, number I, p. 10) or for free papers, to be submitted by 30 November 1987 to Margaret J. Kartomi, Department of Music, Monash University, Clayton, Victoria 3168, Australia (Telephone: 03/541 0811).

Forthcoming Meetings and Conferences

This column lists, in chronological order, meetings that may be of interest to AMS members. The deadline for submission of items for inclusion in this column is 1 December for the February issue and 15 May for the August issue. Notices of meetings should be sent to James L. Ladewig, Editor, AMS Newsletter, 15 Symmes Road, Winchester, MA 01890-3014.

International Musicological Society, XIVth International Congress, 27 August–1 September 1987, Bologna, Italy. Address: XIVth Congress of the IMS, Dipartimento di Musica e Spettacolo, Università degli Studi, Strada Maggiore 34, I-40125, Bologna, Italy.
