

Be as good a passenger as you are a friend.

Nothing kills more teens than car crashes, and nothing is more annoying than a loud clueless passenger. So, when a friend is driving, buckle up and offer some respect. Don't yap on the cell or be a backseat driver. Help when asked and keep things calm in the car. Your friend is driving you; don't drive the person crazy. Ride like a friend.

BUCKLE UP

SHOW RESPECT

BE THERE TO HELP

State Farm

The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia®
RESEARCH INSTITUTE

Learn More at
RideLikeAFriend.com