ANNUAL MEETING 1997 Sunday, October 19 ~ Thursday, October 23

"Osteopathic Medicine – Total Quality Care" is the theme chosen for the 1997 AOA Annual Meeting. Lynn Sikorski, D.O. Program Chair for the concurrent AOCD Annual Meeting has developed an outstanding program to compliment this theme. Inside this special edition newsletter you will find program information describing the lecture series from Monday morning's opening session to the final resident's lecture on Wednesday afternoon. A special highlight will be our first international speaker, Piet DeDoncker, PhD.

In addition to the lectures, there are several social functions planned. Sunday night is our Gala Welcome Reception supported by C & M Pharmacal. Monday night will be the President's Reception followed by the Annual Recognition Banquet ending with a fabulous Dessert Reception. Spouses will have an opportunity to cruise the Riverwalk on Tuesday at 12:30 aboard a Yanaguana Cruise "ship".

Prior to the start of the program, examinations will be given on Sunday. These include the in-training exam, board certification and dermatopathology exams.

Registration materials are included for use if you have not already registered. Our conference hotel will be the Riverwalk Marriott. Be sure to mark your registration as a member of the American Osteopathic College of Dermatology so the AOA will have an accurate number of our members and residents attending. The reservation form for the meal functions should be returned to the national office (P.O. Box 7525, Kirksville, MO 63501) in order to plan accurately for these. No additional fees are necessary unless you are bringing someone not registered with the AOA.

We look forward to seeing you in San Antonio. Mark your calendars now for next year's Midyear Meeting April 1-4 in Williamsburg, VA and the Annual Meeting in New Orleans, LA, October 6-10.

A Message From The Editor

The 1997 year is in full swing and appears to be successfully moving forward in A.O.C.D. Our President, Dr. Edward Yob is doing an excellent job of organization and improving the standards of the A.O.C.D. As the editor of the A.O.C.D. newsletter, I will attempt to gather information and relay it to you in a timely and concise fashion.

The A.O.C.D. is changing and "change favors the prepared mind." It is my wish that the new initiatives both good and bad from our personal perspectives will be formulated into a better working system.

Please remember our annual meeting October 19-23, 1997 in San Antonio, Texas and our midyear meeting on April 1-4, 1998 in Williamsburg, Virginia. These are the meetings that I would encourage attendance, and I would personally welcome any or all of your inputs concerning the A.O.C.D. newsletter. If you have news that you wish to be posted along to membership, please let me or Becky Mansfield know in our national office.

Fraternally yours,
Ronald C. Miller, D.O.

Howard M. Levine, D.O. Named President of the American Osteopathic Association

Chicago, IL - Howard M. Levine, D.O., F.A.C.O.F.P., a board-certified osteopathic family physician, was named president of the American Osteopathic Association (AOA) during their recent House of Delegates meeting in Chicago, IL.

Dr. Levine practiced family medicine in Bayonne, New Jersey for nearly 35 years before retiring in 1988.

A fellow of the American College of Osteopathic Family Physicians, Dr. Levine has held many leadership positions within the osteopathic medical profession at both national and state levels. An active AOA leader, Dr. Levine served as its second vice-president, and has been a Trustee since 1983. He has chaired the AOA's Bureau of Research since 1986, and has chaired or been a member of more than 20 other AOA committees.

Dr. Levine's osteopathic family spans three generations, including a total of 17 D.O.s and a former practice shared with his two sons and a father-in-law.
