Victor W. Sidel, MD

1989

Dr. Victor Sidel is Distinguished University Professor of Social Medicine at Montefiore Medical Center and the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in the Bronx, New York, and Adjunct Professor of Public Health at Weill Medical College of Cornell University in New York City. Dr. Sidel has served as president of the American Public Health Association, of the Physicians for Social Responsibility and of the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, the organization that was awarded the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize. He is co-editor with Dr. Barry Levy of the books War and Public Health, Terrorism and Public Health, and Social Injustice and Public Health, all published by Oxford University Press. In October OUP will publish an all-new second edition of Terrorism and Public Health.

Dr. Sidel has written and spoken extensively since the formation of Physicians for Social Responsibility 50 years ago on the medical consequences of the use of nuclear weapons and on the human and financial costs of the arms race and of war.
