About the Program

Clemson University's Department of City Planning and Real Estate Development (CPRED) seeks a Program Director for the Master of Real Estate Development Program (MRED), located in Downtown Greenville, SC.

Founded in 2004, MRED is an applied, full-time, 56-credit hour program that can be completed in an 18-month course of study for Entry Level Early Career Students, or in 12-months for Experienced Development Professionals. The program typically accepts 18 - 25 students per year and has matriculated 250 students from 30 states, and six countries since its inception. Our 210 proud alumni are employed with premier real estate firms in 40 metropolitan areas in 27 States and Asia. Detailed alumni information can be found at: www.clemson.edu/mred.

About the University and Community

Clemson University is a Top-25 public university serving as the land-grant institution for South Carolina. The MRED Program is located 30 minutes from Clemson in the state-of-the-art Clemson One building located on Main Street in the heart of Greenville, SC. Greenville. The award-winning City of Greenville offers one of the nation's best and most innovative mid-size urban environments and is located mid-way between Atlanta and Charlotte in the 1.4 million-person Greenville-Spartanburg metro area. Clemson University's main campus enrolls 22,000 students and is nestled along the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mounts along the shores of Lake Hartwell in Clemson, SC. Outdoor recreational opportunities abound in the nearby mountains, freshwater lakes, and the South Carolina coastal communities including Charleston and Hilton Head.

Position Description - Program Director for the Master of Real Estate Development

The MRED Program is seeking candidates for a Program Director with the rank to be determined in either a tenured or non-tenured position. The position will begin in the 2019-2020 academic year. A Ph.D. is preferred, but individuals with exemplary professional experience and a professional master's degree in real estate, finance, land development or a related concentration will be equally considered. The successful candidate should ideally possess teaching experience and demonstrate the ability to work well with industry professionals. In addition to assigned administrative responsibilities, the successful candidate is expected to annually teach two classes in her/his field, and assist in other class modules, experiential learning projects and recruitment.

The MRED Program seeks individuals who are able to work with diverse students and colleagues and who can work in collaboration with disciplines from both within and outside of the program and department. The MRED program is based in the Department of City Planning and Real Estate Development (CPRED) within the College of Architecture, Arts, and Humanities (CAAH). The College prides itself as being part of a “fluid campus” that actively integrates multiple disciplines (Architecture, Landscape Architecture, Construction Science, City Planning, Historic Preservation, and Urban Design) into student-led projects within South Carolina and abroad.

To apply for this position, all application material must be submitted via Interfolio through Clemson’s faculty job board at:

<http://www.clemson.edu/employment/FacultyCareers/positions.html>.

Applicants must submit a cover letter that includes a statement of interest, a discussion of relevant prior experience including research, professional practice, outreach, and/or teaching; a curriculum vita; and contact information for at least three references, including email addresses and phone numbers. Each candidate should submit the application in PDF format (max 50MB). Materials sent by October 15, 2018 will be given the fullest consideration. Please contact Search Committee Chair, Dr. Cliff Ellis at cliffoc@clemson.edu with application questions. Please contact current MRED Director, Dr. Robert Benedict (864-656-2476), for more detailed information about the position. Anticipated start date is August, 2019.
