BDPA iRadio Show

BDPA is the premier organization for people of African descent in the information technology industry. BDPA exists to advance the careers of African Americans in the IT industry 'from the classroom to the boardroom'.

Our BDPA iRadio Show will showcase IT entrepreneurs, technology experts, computer science academics and people with a passion for educating our young people in science, technology, engineering and mathematics.

Our intention is to provide a regular exchange here on the BDPA iRadio Show for BDPA members, sponsors, entrepreneurs, educational institutions and the Black community.

We know that times are hard. Unemployment is high for the Black community, especially our youth.

- It is time for us to seek solutions from within.
- It is time for you to gain a better understanding of the impact that technology has on our future.
- It is time for us to stop being consumers of technology ... we must become creators of that technology.

BDPA iRadio will have guests that help us to connect the dots as they link the diverse worlds of business, education and technology.

Contact us at iRadio@betf.org if you have questions or suggestions!

BDPA iRadio is fully-owned and operated by the BDPA Education and Technology Foundation. We are a non-profit organization that exists for the sole purpose of funding BDPA programs, scholarships and services and services around the nation. Follow us on Facebook or Twitter.
You can also make tax-deductible donation to keep this show up and running. Show us some BDPA-Love!

Cincinnati Ruby Brigade

Cincinnati Ruby Brigade was formed by local developers who desired a place to talk about Ruby specific topics and share code. It has since grown into a thriving community as vibrant and creative as the Ruby language itself.

Today we meet on the third Tuesday of every month to discuss and hack on Ruby code and strive to keep to the principle of less slides more code.

Insights Through Data Visualization

Click here to RSVP --> http://www.meetup.com/TechLife-Cincinnati/events/211504332/

BDPA hosts ‘Cincinnati Blacks In Technology' to collaborate with the vibrant community of like-minded technology professionals of color in our city. The doors are wide open for those folks who passionate about all things technical. Our meetups encourage fun, socializing and high level talks on a variety of technology topics. IT recruiters and IT job seekers are both welcome!

This month, we will dive into the world of data analysis and visualization. As data continues to proliferate our lives and work, the question of how to make sense of it and turn it into information and knowledge becomes more and more challenging. At the same time, powerful tools are becoming available to help analysts sift through data and present it in a way that draws attention to key bits of knowledge than can be derived. As such, the skills related to using these tools effectively have become highly sought-after as organizations seek to dig out the treasures hidden in their data troves.

Our guest speaker this month, Stephen Lett, is a Business Transformation Leader with 15 years of experience leading consumer product brands and operations through breakthrough innovations in process design, implementation, and execution of IT strategies and capabilities. He has also spent considerable time in the Business Intelligence field as an analyst helping to drive business value through insights from data analysis and visualization.

BDPA is excited to have Stephen sharing key insights data visualization with our members at this meetup. Anyone ... regardless of race or color ... interested in tech is welcome!
