

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
October 27, 2016
email@mortonmediatv.com
240.463.6915

BDPA HONORS TOP FOUR 2016 PACESETTERS

(Largo, Md.) – Black Data Processing Associates (BDPA) honored and recognized four of America’s top and talented individuals at the 38th Annual National Technology Conference Gala at the Westin Peachtree Plaza Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia.

Angie Jones received top recognition in Career Achievement as an experienced professional who achieved significant career accomplishments and made contributions throughout her career. Jacqueline Sanders-Blackman of Technology Expresso and Ashley Newly received the Community Service recognition for significant demonstration by meaningful results, strong partnership and collaboration with entities in the communities in which they reside. And Stephanie Lampkin, CEO of Blendoor received the Technology Excellence award for pioneering new or leveraging existing technology to solve a critical industry, business or technical problem.

Winners received a commemorative gift, a complimentary one-year BDPA membership and featured recognition among their peers as a BDPA Individual PACESetter Award winner on the bdpa.org website.

For more details on the BDPA corporate sponsorship program, contact the corporate sales support team at (301) 584-3135 ext. 108 or corpsales@bdpa.org. Additionally, please visit www.bdpa.org

-60-