ZYCRON BACKS BDPA SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

(Largo, MD) - “We are honored to have Zycron as a Bronze Level Sponsor,” stated National BDPA President Mike Williams as he acknowledged Zycron scholarship winners that include Ebenezer Armah (Fisk University), Alston Clark (Howard University), Danielle Haik (Tennessee State University), Kyra Hayes (Hampton University) and Kevin Rabinovich (Clemson University).

Zycron is a customer-focused information technology services and solutions firm headquartered in Nashville, TN. Since 1991, Zycron has offered IT solutions to a broad client base and today is the primary provider for numerous Fortune 500 companies.

Zycron President Darrell Freeman said, “Access to technology and education resources is essential as we prepare the next generation for the workforce. It is a joy to be in a position to contribute to the effort of developing the technology talent pipeline, and I’m committed to finding new ways for businesses to participate in the process. As a member of the Tennessee Board of Regents, I have had an unparalleled inside view of the impact of educational success. And it is my plan to continue supporting organizations that provide access to education resources, because education is the great equalizer.”

Recognized world-wide for several outstanding achievement awards, Zycron was listed #67 among the Top 100 Black-owned Service Companies in America by Black Enterprise Magazine; the Best of Staffing Client Satisfaction National Award for providing superior service to its clients; and as Nashville’s 2016 Largest Tech Firm by the Nashville Business Journal (www.zycron.com).

“BDPA Education and Technology Foundation (BETF) is honored to provide scholarships to five students from the first annual Zycron Scholarship for BDPA Students. We are very pleased that Zycron President Darrell Freeman has shown leadership in providing this educational support to young people. We look forward to working with Zycron for many years to come,” remarked Wayne Hicks, BETF Executive Director.
