IT GIANT BDPA CONGRATULATES CSRA STRONG LEADERSHIP

LARGO, MD – BDPA congratulates CSRA (an IT Services Company) and Black Employee Resource Group for their strong commitment and leadership in helping students. Perry Carter, BDPA Washington, D.C. Chapter President said, "Our chapter's decades-long partnership with CSRA is extremely invaluable. CSRA continues to provide strong student and internship programs, new services and products for industry-mission sets around the globe, and throughout our community. We understand that across our National Capital Region, BDPA's mission partners are not always looking to sponsor events. They seek innovative marketing initiatives with positive community impacts and outreach opportunities that leverage our technology programs."

Black Employee Resource Group Co-Chair LaChandra Spencer said, "It has been an immense pleasure supporting BDPA student members. CSRA is focused on helping our U.S. government customers achieve their critical mission outcomes by leading them on the next stage of their digital journey. CSRA believes in building shared vision and next-generation partnerships with companies that enhance our information technology services and solutions."

"Toward this end, our recent success stories are uniquely aligned to our tech industry, complex public-sector challenges, and defense industrial base requirements. As we celebrate our Chapter's 40th anniversary in 2018, National BDPA's Washington, D.C. chapter looks forward to CSRA's continued relationships with our student members and BDPA's youth technology alumni attending local universities. Our students continue to support technical program alignments and emerging workforce pipelines," added Perry Carter.

BDPA was founded in 1975 by Earl Pace and David Wimberly to close the digital divide for underrepresented minorities in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM) fields. BDPA has over 40 chapters nationwide with more than 2,500 STEM professional and student members.
