

Daniel Coriat, Head of Public Affairs, Communications & Patient Relations for Novartis in Latin America and Canada

DANIEL CORIAT is currently Head of Public Affairs, Communications and Patient Relations for Novartis in the Region Latin America and Canada. His priorities include managing relations with governments, trade associations, NGOs, and patient advocacy groups. He advises on matters concerning government policies related to trade, regulatory and intellectual property protection. He also manages corporate reputation programs, internal communications and crisis management. Coriat obtained his law degree from Boston University, a Masters in Intellectual Property from Franklin Pierce Law Center in New Hampshire, a Master's in Business Administration in Chapel Hill NC, and IESA Caracas Venezuela, and is a Mechanical Engineer graduated from Universidad Simon Bolivar in Caracas.