

CPS Members among APS Award Recipients

We congratulate all the 2019 APS award recipients but offer special recognition to our very own Jeff Mogil, Melanie Noel and Rebecca Pillai Riddell!

APS Awards Announcement

Recognizing and Supporting Leaders and Visionaries in Pain

Each year, APS rewards excellence in the field of pain management, and promotes pain research by presenting awards and grants to people making a difference in pain medicine. Awards are given for career achievement, pain scholarship, education, public services, advocacy, and outstanding service to APS. Grants are awarded to investigators in different branches of pain research, whose projects will lead to new methods of pain management and add to the existing body of knowledge. Follow the links below for more information on specific awards and grants, and about past recipients and how to apply.

Elizabeth Narcessian Award

Jeff Mogil, PhD

Jeffrey Lawson Award for Advocacy in Children's Pain Relief

Rebecca Pillai Riddell,
PhD CPsych

John C. Liebeskind Early Career Scholar Award

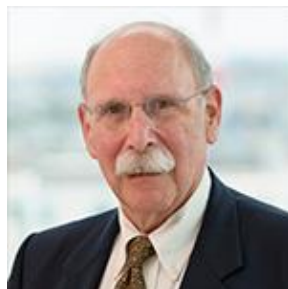

Melanie Noel,
PhD RPsych

Distinguished Service Award

Gary Walco, PhD

Frederick W.L. Kerr Basic Science Research Award

Gavril Pasternak,
MD PhD

John and Emma Bonica Public Service Award

David Thomas, PhD

Wilbert E. Fordyce Clinical Investigator Award

Raymond Tait, PhD