Bell Bowl Prairie

The Chicago Rockford International Airport expansion plans include development on the Bell Bowl prairie, a portion of which is an Illinois Natural Areas Inventory Site (INAI) that has not only historic significance to Rockford from the early days of Camp Grant and the Civilian Conservation Corps, but hosts a significant natural dry gravel prairie community that supports rare and endangered species including the rusty patch bumblebee.

The Government Relations Community considers potential policy engagements through a process that reflects current Chicago Wilderness initiatives and the political landscape. CW's mission is not advocacy driven. We acknowledge the advocacy work of our partner organizations. To ensure transparency and recognize that many of our partners vary in their respective policy positions, each ActionAlert/e-mail communication/etc. will delineate which organization said action item originated from.
