Marti Macchi, MEd, MPH, Jeanne Alongi, DrPH, MPH, Jennie Hefelfinger, MS

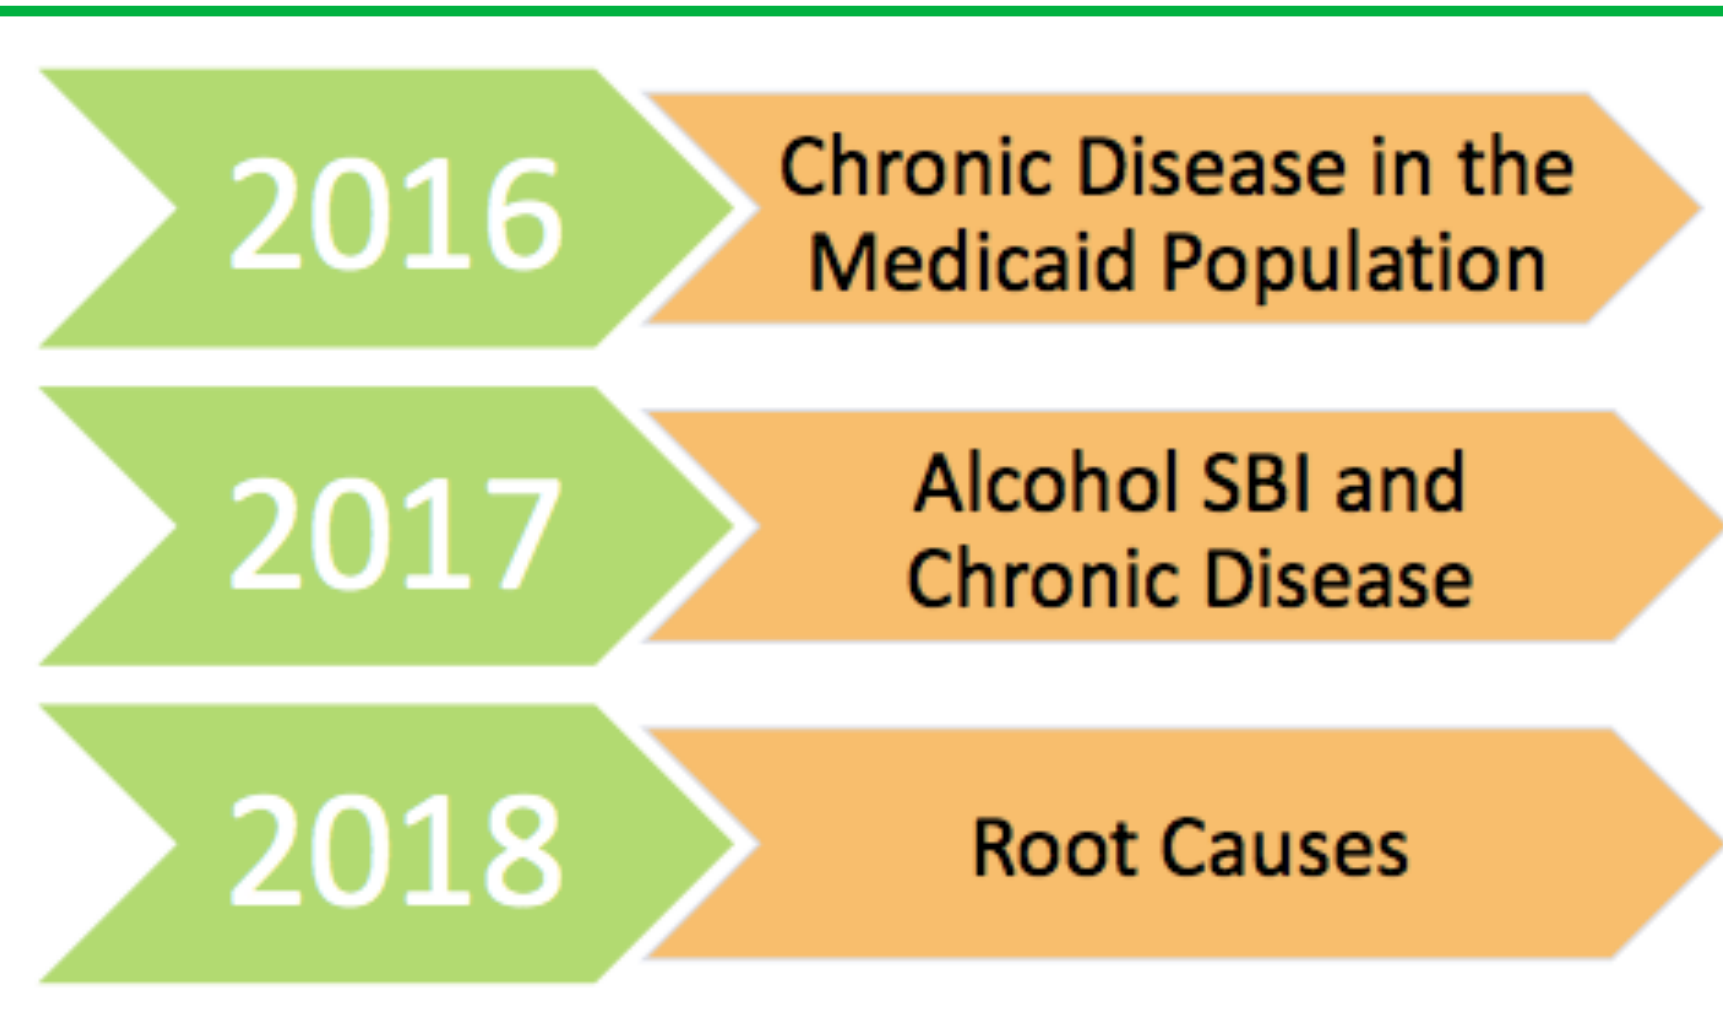

INTRODUCTION

Public health practice is evolving as new challenges appear on the horizon. Through the Thought Leaders Round Table model, NACDD brings together diverse expertise and perspectives to:

- Examine emerging issues
- Identify the intersection of these issues with chronic disease prevention practice
- Recommend opportunities for Chronic Disease Director and national partner action

OBJECTIVES

- Articulate the issue and the potential impact to population health broadly and chronic disease prevention efforts specifically.
- Facilitate robust discussion among Chronic Disease Directors and national partner organizations.
- Work creatively and look for opportunities that stretch current practices and create new gains.

IMPACT

Method:

- Expert panel: Creating shared understanding of the current state of practice and anticipated trends
- Case study: Testing assumptions about how an effective response might be mounted
- Small group discussion: Generating ideas concerning
 - What is possible?
 - What is the role of the Chronic Disease Director?
 - What do we want to accomplish?
- Synthesis: Drafting action recommendations for states and national partners

OUTLOOK

Synthesis and Recommendations Brief written and disseminated from the 2018 Thought Leaders Round Table later this year.
