

Drew is a native of Hamilton Ontario and lived in Woodstock Ontario during his high school years. As a graduate of Mohawk College Business Administration he went on to study in the MBA program at McMaster University.

He began in the Plumbing Industry with L.E. Taylor (Taylor Pipe Supports) in 1987 and has held positions with Delta Faucet and Mirolin (Masco) and Maax. In a brief lapse of reason Drew left the Plumbing Industry in 2002 to work in the Electrical Industry for a number of years. He eventually came to his senses and returned to the Plumbing Industry by joining InSinkErator Canada in 2011 as National Sales Manager.

Drew is a past president of the CIPH Ontario Region Board of Directors and a former board member of the Toronto Home Builders Association (BILD). He has participated actively in Electrofed committees and has been serving on the CIPH Membership Committee for several years.

As a passionate road cyclist Drew has participated in numerous charity cycling events. In 2008 he crossed Canada on his bike in the National Kids Cancer Ride with the Coast to Coast Against Cancer Foundation supporting and raising funds for families dealing with childhood cancer.

Drew lives in Kitchener with his partner Andree and her children Brendan and Isabelle. His daughter Hillary is a recent graduate of the University of Western Ontario. If not on their bicycles, Drew and Andree can often be found either touring on their motorcycles or in the kitchen cooking up a feast and entertaining.
