Synopsis of Course:

This course will increase the chiropractor's ability to interpret radiology reports on their patients and integrate this information into their treatment plans. We will talk about how posture can predispose someone to a disc lesion and the biomechanics as it relates to the disc. It will also enhance their ability to look at the images and have a better understanding of the anatomy as it pertains to disc lesions. We will look at full MRI scans and walk through the anatomy and disc nomenclature so you can correlate what you see clinically to what is found on the images.
