Qualifications of the Instructor:

Heather Jackson is the co-founder and CEO of the Realm of Caring Foundation (RoC), an internationally acclaimed non-profit primarily serving families who are dealing with life-limiting and chronic health conditions. The number of people her organization has served has grown over 10,000% since 2013, from 400 families served to over 45,000. Her “why” is her youngest son Zaki. After he journeyed from hospice to health using cannabis, she made it her mission to empower families who find themselves in the same position her family was in.

Heather Jackson

Heather has over 11,000 hours of research tucked under her self-taught belt, is a published researcher, author, and speaker and has presented in 6 countries.

She is leading a movement to reimagine the way we think, talk, and respond to cannabis and hemp and the people who use it. Heather’s work has been featured on Dateline, New York Times, National Geographic, TIME, Good Housekeeping, 60 Minutes Australia, CNN with Sanjay Gupta to name a few.

Synopsis of Course:

Want to know what the Cannabidiol (CBD) craze is all about? Is it hype or hope? What are the different mechanisms of this promiscuous molecule? How do you discover quality products, dosing, and administration for your patients? This course is for YOU! Realm of Caring delivers answers from a data and research perspective as well as hundreds of daily experiences helping people utilize CBD for a variety of health conditions.

Realm of Caring has helped over 46,000 families worldwide, fielded over 1 million minutes of phone guidance, and currently conducts research with Johns Hopkins University, University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Colorado State University and Palo Alto Veterans Health Care System. You will leave armed with a multitude of resources to help your patients (especially those hard to crack cases) on their journey with CBD and hemp products.
