

Associate members are persons who hold a Master's Degree in Psychology or the equivalent. If you are a matriculating student, you may apply as a student.

Contact Information

Full Name _____ Current Title/Degree _____

Mailing Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Phone _____ Email _____

The above information will be published in the CPA's membership directory and utilized for non-CPA mailings unless initialed here: _____

Profile Information

School _____

Degree Month/Year _____ Date of Birth _____ Sex F M T/Q

What influenced you to join the CPA?

- Publications Website Advocacy CE/Convention Discounts Networking
- CLASP Peer/Ethics Consultation Professional Responsibility Health Insurance
- Referred by: _____ Other: _____
- I would like to be added to the CPA's Listserv.
- I would like to receive Legislative Notes, the CPA's monthly electronic newsletter that contains timely information about current issues in psychology.
- I do not wish to receive third party, non-CPA mailings.

Membership Information

Select all that apply. See reverse for descriptions and fees.

CPA Membership

New Associate Member $211

Division Membership

Division membership is optional. Renewals fees may differ. Visit cpapsych.org or call the CPA office for more information.

- Division I $85
- Division II $10
- Division III $20
- Division IV $20
- Division V N/A
- Division VI $10
- Division VII $20
- Division VIII $55

If joining Division I, you may choose to join a Division I section:

- Health Forensic Psychoanalysis Gerontology

Contributions

- Sustaining Member $200
- Contributing Member $25 $50 $100
- CPA Foundation $
- CPA-PAC $
- RxP Support Fund $ _____
- Total $ _____

Payment Information

Make checks payable to CPA or pay with credit card. There is a $25 fee for all returned checks.

Card type Visa MasterCard American Express Discover

Card _____ Name _____

Card _____ Number _____

Exp. Date _____ CVC _____

Billing Street _____

City _____

State _____ Zip _____

Evergreen Program: I hereby authorize CPA to automatically charge the above credit card every year to renew my dues. I understand I will annually receive a receipt and may dispute any charges I deem unnecessary.

Signature: _____

What is tax deductible? 80% of CPA dues may be tax deductible as an ordinary and necessary business expense. 100% of CPA Foundation donations are tax deductible.

Mail completed application with payment to:
CPA, 1231 I Street, Suite 204, Sacramento, CA 95814
Fax to: 916.286.7971, or scan & email to: membership@cpapsych.org

CPA Divisions

Division I - Clinical and Professional Practice

The mission of Division I is to be the most powerful voice to promote and advocate for the professional practice of psychology. Efforts focus on ensuring parity for psychologists with other health professionals and expanding areas of service delivery. Benefits include advocacy programs, coordination with CPA's statewide grassroots legislative network, practice tools, publications and legal assistance.

Division II - Education and Training in Psychology

Division II works is to identify and to act on issues affecting the graduate education, practicum, internship and postdoctoral training of psychologists in California. Division II monitors proposed legislation and regulations affecting the education, training, and licensure of Psychologists in California and provides commentary to the Board of Psychology and other professional and governmental agencies as appropriate; disseminates information and hosts conferences on issues relevant to education and training; and provides leadership within the education and training community and represents that constituency's interests and opinions within CPA and other organizations.

Division III - Industrial-Organizational Psychology and Consulting

Division III is a diverse and inclusive coalition of psychologists. I/O consulting embraces both a body of knowledge and methodologies for applying and extending the particular disciplines of psychology to problems involving human behavior in corporate, business and organizational settings. An I/O psychologist is a professional who provides specialized and technical assistance to individuals or organizations on the psychological aspects of their work.

Division IV - Psychologists in Public Service

Division IV of the California Psychological Association brings together people who are dedicated to improving the quality of client care through appropriate utilization of psychological services. Members are mental health professionals who work in a broad range of publicly funded settings, including hospitals and developmental centers, correctional facilities and outpatient centers.

Division V - Clinical Psychopharmacology

The purpose of the Division V is to work toward prescriptive authority for properly trained psychologists in the state of California. Division V represents medical psychologists who have obtained recognized additional training in clinical psychopharmacology and other psychologists who support the goals of the Division. The Division's activities include advocating for lawful prescribing authority, encouraging discussion about pharmacotherapy and related therapies, consulting with colleges and universities and other training institutions about the development of medical psychology curricula, conducting or sponsoring continuing education programs, and fostering collegiality and collaborations among medical psychologists.

Division VI - Media, Technology and Communication

Division VI educates members about, promotes, and implements information technologies that may enhance their professional activities. Division VI provides opportunities and services for CPA members by (a) facilitating access to resources in information technology and applications to psychology; (b) disseminating information on issues relevant to the use of information technology in psychology; and (c) developing theoretical frameworks, guidelines, and standards for using information technology in media, academia, research, health and professional practice.

Division VII – Diversity and Social Justice

Division VII is dedicated to advancing the diversity initiatives of CPA by promoting a social justice perspective to issues of diversity. We are psychologists who embrace our role as global citizens and active agents of change. The Division focuses on clinical issues relevant to culture including racial/ethnic diversity, LGBTQ community, gender, HIV/AIDS, disabilities, and social issues. Our primary aim is to decrease the gap in mental health disparities in the state of California by increasing psychologists' cultural competence.

Division VIII - Neuropsychology

The newly established Division of Neuropsychology was created to represent the professional practice and training needs of Neuropsychologists in California. The Division supports the profession's highest standards by sharing neuropsychological knowledge through professional meetings, public presentations, the Internet and other media. Additionally, the Division provides public education on issues pertaining to healthy behavior, prevention, assessment, and treatment of neurological injury or illnesses and advocates on behalf of the neuropsychological profession, our patients/clients, and our students via legislative advocacy and governance efforts.

Opportunities to Contribute

Sustaining Member

Increase your support of the association by upgrading to a sustaining membership. You may opt for your contribution to go to CPA's operating or reserve fund. Sustaining members receive a special pin, CE discounts, and recognition.

CPA Foundation

The CPA Foundation (CPA-F) was established in 1987 as a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. The Foundation is a charitable and educational organization committed to improving the health and psychological wellbeing of individuals and communities throughout California. The foundation holds cultural competence to be a core value and an emphasis in all its activities.

Contributing Member

Contributing members financially support the mission of the association.

CPA-PAC

The political process has a major impact on professional psychology. All licenses to practice psychology are issued by the State of California. Out state legislators in Sacramento ultimately determine the statutes and regulations that govern your practice. These one hundred and twenty elected representatives are routinely called upon to approve or reject legislation that has a direct bearing on the nature and practice of all health professions, including psychology. While we have done a good job of supporting pro-psychology candidates, all of the legislators we have supported are nearing the end of their legislative careers due to term limits. We must continually identify and support a new group of first-time pro-psychology candidates for office in California, and support those who are running for reelection to their final legislative terms. CPA-PAC is the only organization in the state which is devoted to this important cause.