CPRA Industry Partner Spotlight

Did you know that CPRA’s Industry Partners also play an important role in our success? Through their support as exhibitors and sponsors, these companies help CPRA expand our ability to do more for our members.

CPRA Professional Development

CPRA strives to offer both relevant and quality professional development programming through our Office as well as by supporting the work of our Sections. This year CPRA:

- Held 59 Interest Section Meetings
- Offered 28 Professional Development Opportunities to more than 1,900 Parks & Recreation Professionals
- Reached more than 10,000 youth through CARA Sports Programming

CPRA Partnerships

CPRA continues to look for mission-supporting partnerships that create additional opportunities for our members. In 2016, we reached more than 4,400 people by partnering with the following:

- Colorado Parks and Wildlife’s Partners in the Outdoors Conference
- Metropolitan State University
- National Get Outdoors Day Collaborative
- Public Health in Parks & Recreation Institute
- UC Denver, School of Public Affairs, Buechner Institute for Governance
