The National Music Publishers' Association (NMPA), the leading trade organization representing the interests of music publishers in the United States, is looking to fill a Vice President/Senior Counsel position in Washington, D.C. The Vice President /Senior Counsel will report to NMPA's General Counsel in Washington, D.C.

As Vice President/Senior Counsel, this attorney will help manage NMPA's active, ongoing and future negotiations concerning licensing of and/or settlements with digital companies, oversee NMPA's anti-piracy program, including working within the Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) and will be involved in Copyright Royalty Board activities on behalf of music publishers and songwriters, as well as support the litigation, legislative and policy initiatives of the NMPA. An understanding of and keen interest in copyright law, especially as it applies to music, as well as developments in the digital distribution of music and public policy, are essential.

The requirements for this position are:
- Minimum 5+ years of experience as a lawyer, including intellectual property experience; law firm or music industry legal background strongly preferred;
- Expertise in copyright law, especially as it applies to music and new media;
- Strong negotiation and drafting skills, including a demonstrated ability to negotiate and draft both settlement and licensing agreements in the music and/or digital space;
- Ability to supervise outside counsel to maximize results within a budget;
- Ability to communicate effectively with governmental bodies, digital music services and music publishers;
- Ability to think strategically and creatively about the future of the music industry, including solutions to legal, data-based and policy issues facing music publishers and songwriters;
- Ability to work independently but know when to seek advice;
- Excellent academic credentials;
- Member in good standing of, or ability to waive into, the District of Columbia Bar Association.

Salary commensurate with experience.
