About CTTC

The CTTC is a member-led, national, multi-disciplinary organization providing leadership and promoting excellence in patient care, research, and education in the field of hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy.

The CTTC mission is to be the professional community and voice of hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy in Canada.

The CTTC vision is to work together towards world-leading hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy for all Canadians.

The CTTC values excellence, innovation, integrity, collaboration, and professionalism in care, education, and research in hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy. The CTTC believes that every patient has a right of equal access to the highest quality of life saving care that can be provided by hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy professionals in Canada.

Based on this, our strategic priorities are as follows:

Education: Provide high quality educational programs that advance the practice of blood and marrow transplantation in Canada.

Quality: Support centers on regulatory matters with standards, guidelines and resources.

Research: Support research by CTTC members.

Patients, Families and Caregivers: Support patient led initiatives and activities

Advocacy: Advocate on behalf of members, programs and patients as needed

Transparency in Governance: Ensure that all governance and operations are communicated in a transparent manner to the membership

Financial Capacity: Support education, research, patient and outreach initiatives through fundraising and partnerships, and outreach initiatives through fundraising, partnerships, and the establishment of a charitable organization.

Organization Membership

Cell Therapy Transplant Canada membership is available to all professionals in hematopoietic stem cell transplant and cell therapy field. Members of CTTC will receive exposure to and interaction with the Canadian network of multi-disciplinary stem cell transplant and cell therapy experts. CTTC membership allows members to express their views via ongoing dialogue with other members of the profession to impact the changing face of HSCT and cell therapy in Canada.

In addition, CTTC members have the opportunity to participate in and develop research within the transplant arena.

The organization membership allows you to centralize the registration of your employees and to benefit from a discounted price. All individual members included in your organization membership will receive the below benefits:

- Member-only registration rates for CTTC meetings
- Free access to CTTC educational webinars of practical relevance to the multidisciplinary areas of HSCT and cell therapy
- Access to the CTTC Sosido Network – an exclusive members-only online forum where you can:
  - Read the latest abstracts from your colleagues and journal feeds of your choice
  - Ask questions to the CTTC membership and participate in discussion regarding best practices
  - Have your published articles showcased on the Sosido news feed and in your Sosido profile
- Access to the members-only section of the CTTC website, including:
  - CTTC conference and symposia presentations
  - CTTC member directory (alphabetical, geographical, and by discipline)
  - Recordings of CTTC webinar presentations
- Communities of practice forums to collaborate and connect with colleagues
- Opportunity to get involved in CTTC communities of practice, including the laboratory committee, advanced practitioners committee, pharmacist committee, education committee, research network, nursing committee, conference planning committee and board of directors.
