

Public Works Leadership Academy

Public works managers rely on distinct technical and leadership skills to successfully oversee a complex set of systems. Hamline's Public Works Leadership Academy, offered in partnership with the Minnesota Chapter of the American Public Works Association, will boost your effectiveness as a public works manager and grow your leadership expertise.

- Learn best practices in the public works field and improve your skills in communication, conflict resolution, and management.
- Develop strategies to increase optimal performance of your employees in the face of change.
- Build your knowledge of relevant topics, ranging from personnel management to financial relationships among federal, state, and local governments.

Program overview

Location:

Hamline's West End location

Schedule:

September 2020–May 2021, meeting one Thursday, 2–8 p.m., and one Friday, 8 a.m.–3:30 p.m., per month (see hamline.edu/business for dates)

Tuition:

$3,100 (meals included), payable in two installments in September and January

Lead instructor:

Wally Wysopal, city manager, city of Fridley

Center for Public Administration and Leadership

The Center for Public Administration and Leadership provides professional development and networking opportunities for public servants looking to make a difference in their workplaces and communities. To fulfill this mission, the center partners with professional associations and sector experts to design in-depth training based on the real needs of—and challenges facing—public sector leaders. As a result, participants in the center's broad array of programs—certificates, conferences, and seminars—develop skills and strategies to further their commitment and service to the common good through forward-thinking dialogue about current issues and trends in public service.

Hamline School of Business Public Administration Programs

Hamline has been an innovator in public administration education for more than 30 years, with its master's and doctoral degrees and certificates. Programs take a theory-to-practice approach so that you can immediately apply what you learn. Working with instructors who have years of field experience and are passionate about teaching, you will build your expertise, improve your organization, and enrich your community. Hamline's public administration graduates comprise a network of more than 1,000 alumni.

Credit options

Participants are eligible to earn graduate or continuing studies credit.

Graduate-level elective credits from all certificates may be earned and applied in the School of Business to the Master of Public Administration or doctoral program. Additionally, elective credits may be earned and applied to the Master of Business Administration or Master of Nonprofit Management.

Scholarships and discounts

Hamline School of Business partners with many cities, counties, state agencies, and professional organizations to offer scholarships for its graduate degree programs.

10% discounts on all certificates and events are also available.

Questions? Contact the Center for Public Administration and Leadership at 651-523-2284 or hsb@hamline.edu.