

EPS Early Career Prizes

- Terms and Conditions -

Eligibility

Those eligible for these awards should have made a substantial contribution to the development or reputation of physics in Europe. “Early Career” is defined as those individuals in the first 12 years of their career in physics following their first degree or equivalent, with allowance for any career breaks. They should be a member of the EPS or one of the EPS Member Societies.

The prizes

There are two prizes to be awarded each year – one each for achievements of a mainly theoretical or experimental nature. The prizes shall consist of a medal and 500€. They will be presented at EPS Council.

The nomination procedure

Proposals for these awards should submit a CV along with two supporting statements from established physicists who shall be external to the nominee’s home institution. Self-nomination is permitted. The deadline for the receipt of eligible nominations and supporting statements by the EPS Secretariat is the end of the second week in January each year.
