SEM 2020 Virtual Annual Meeting

October 22 – 31, 2020

SEM gratefully acknowledges conference support received from:

The SEM Membership
The SEM 2020 Program Committee and Local Arrangements Committee
Indiana University College of Arts and Sciences
Indiana University Department of Folklore and Ethnomusicology
Indiana University Conferences

SEM thanks the following for support of the pre-conference symposium, special concert and workshop videos, and Canada-based conference presenters, organized by the Local Arrangement Committee:

Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada
Carleton University
Queen’s University
MUSICultures

SEM wishes to acknowledge and honor the indigenous communities native to the region of its Business Office, and recognizes that Indiana University Bloomington was built on indigenous homelands and resources. We recognize the Miami, Delaware, Potawatomi, and Shawnee people as past, present, and future caretakers of this land.

From the SEM 2020 Program Committee Chair

This has been a year of upheaval. The COVID-19 global pandemic has taken countless lives, led to new levels of economic and social precarity, and disrupted academic institutions worldwide since the new year, closing the in-person operations of most North American workplaces, colleges and universities in March. Acts of brutal violence against Black Americans, notably the May 25th murder of George Floyd, have centered the ongoing organizing of the Black Lives Matter movement and have renewed calls to confront—and address—ongoing realities of systemic racism, injustice, and violence against Black, Indigenous, and People of Color bred in the destructive legacies of our colonial histories. “An Open Letter on Racism in Music Studies, Especially Ethnomusicology and Music Education” by Dr. Danielle Brown to the SEM membership on June 16th has compellingly drawn us to confront our own past and present in the Society for Ethnomusicology.

The Program Committee for the SEM 65th Annual Meeting has been working in the shadow of these turbulent events. The committee comprises a majority of BIPOC members. As a white woman (working on the traditional territories of Indigenous nations including the Anishnabeg, the Haudenosaunee and the Wendat), I am grateful for the help, guidance, and ideas of Shalini Ayyagari (University of Pittsburgh), Christi-Anne Castro (University of Michigan), Anaar Desai-Stephens (University of Rochester), Luis-Manuel Garcia Mispireta (University of Birmingham), Deonte Harris (Duke University), and Timothy Taylor (UCLA).

We have sought to make some changes. Following our initial peer-review screening of the 350 individual abstracts and 89 organized panels submitted, we returned to our selection in an attempt to redress possible omissions and ensure more inclusive representation. We also met to explore options to make the conference more equitable and open. This has resulted in two primary initiatives for this year’s meeting. The first is an online co-listening space for BIPOC attendees to gather and “decompress” at any time during the conference. Organized by popular electronic music scholar Luis-Manuel Garcia Mispireta and modeled after the “chillout rooms” of 1990s raves, this interactive space adapts YouTube’s live-streaming service to feature a continuous stream of ambient music, soundscapes, and acousmatic collages—with an optional chat function. Join it here: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=--FTym2wrcU&feature=youtu.be.

The second is a series of conversations on topics emerging from the current crises. Influenced by other initiatives (such as Project Spectrum), the committee has worked to develop four lunch-time open sessions around the following topics: Ethnomusicologists and Mental Health; Brainstorming Strategies for Equity in the Classroom; Reimagining Ethnomusicology; and Rethinking a Conference. These are facilitated by members of the Program Committee from 12:30-1:30 on the Thursdays and Fridays of the conference. The Committee is also submitting a series of recommendations for future conferences to the SEM Board. For the first time, the conference is being held virtually. With the support of Indiana University Conferences and the invaluable assistance of Dr. Stephen Stuempfle and Stephanie Sturgis (SEM office), and Kristy Ebelhar and Melissa Kocias (IU Conferences), we have transformed a 3.5-day in-person conference to a 10-day virtual meeting space. Some major adjustments have been made to attempt to minimize “Zoom fatigue” and facilitate participation from colleagues across time zones. While we were disappointed not to work with the Local Arrangements Committee for the planned conference in Ottawa, this year’s meeting offers an opportunity to begin to re-vision international meetings within an environmentally responsible framework and in recognition of the need to address access and equity.

Given the virtual approach to this year’s conference, we invite you to explore this year’s program, where you’ll find many papers and sessions by young scholars devoted to the pressing concerns guiding the discipline into the future; where there will be opportunities for open discussion; and where you’ll have a chance to connect with scholars, activists, musicians, public-sector advocates, and friends from around the world during a time when this is needed.

As Chair of this year’s Program Committee, I take responsibility for any shortcomings in this meeting, and look forward to hearing from you if you have any concerns.

Louise Wrazen, Program Committee Chair
From the SEM 2020 Local Arrangements Committee Co-Chairs

Under “normal” circumstances, we would use this opportunity to welcome you to Ottawa-Gatineau for SEM’s 2020 Annual Meeting—hoping for good weather while drawing attention to special events, local food and music venues, and other aspects of the region that might facilitate positive experiences and creative exchanges. How things have changed.

Despite the unusual circumstances, we remain delighted, on behalf of the 2020 Local Arrangements Committee, to welcome you to this year’s virtual gathering. We cannot point you to brick-and-mortar buildings and locations, but we do encourage you to explore the conference website where you will find access to a diverse array of “local arrangements” content.

The pre-conference symposium, Musical Activism and Agency: Contestations and Confluences, is taking place on October 21st; it will be supported by annotated bibliographies on related themes of extractionism, activism, agency, diversity, and decolonizing ethnomusicology.

A number of musical performances were created especially for SEM delegates and will be one click away for the duration of the conference. Virtual pre-recorded concerts by Ottawa- and Montreal-based artists The Angelique Francis Quartet, Silla and Rise, and Le Vent du Nord, as well as a dynamic series of pop-up concerts prepared by local and international performers, are posted on the conference website. Additionally, “SEMchillout,” a co-listening space for BIPOC attendees to gather and decompress, has been organized by Luis-Manuel Garcia Mispireta and is available 24-hours a day. Detailed program notes and supporting materials for all of these musical happenings are available on the conference website, and we encourage you to check them out.

The Canadian Society for Traditional Music (CSTM) holds a unique presence at this year’s gathering. We encourage you to take note of Farzaneh Hemmasi’s keynote presentation, “Doing Our Essential Work,” on October 24th; a roundtable on “Disrupting White Supremacy in Music and Sound Studies” on Friday, October 23rd (co-sponsored by CSTM and the SEM Board); and “Many Voices at the Table: A Conversation about the Need for Equity in Canadian Ethnomusicology,” a roundtable co-sponsored by the LAC, the SEM Board, and the CSTM on October 30th.

This year’s LAC events are supported by funding from Carleton University, Queen’s University, and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, to whom we extend sincere appreciation. We are also deeply grateful to indefatigable contributors to local arrangements Akash Ayer, Sonia Caceres, Rebecca Draisey-Collishaw, Gale Franklin, Jennifer LeBlanc, Michelle MacQueen, Golam Rabbani, Gordon Smith, Margaret Walker, and Ellen Waterman, without whom these virtual events and resources would not exist. Thanks also to Kerri Davis, Hans Levac, Carolyn Ramzy, and to the Collections, Conservation, Learning, Public Affairs, and Research teams at the Canadian Museum of History who contributed to preparations for the original in-person meeting.

Once again, we welcome you to this virtual meeting place, and wish you many opportunities for rich and meaningful exchange in the days to come.

SEM 2020 Virtual Annual Meeting Platform

SEM is using Whova as its virtual conference platform for the SEM 2020 Annual Meeting. This platform enables pre-recorded video presentations for playback, live program sessions via Zoom video-conferencing, various types of virtual interaction among individual attendees, and a virtual book exhibits area. All registrants for the Annual Meeting will receive a link to the SEM 2020 website in Whova, which they may access through a web app or mobile app. Attendees are encouraged to download the Whova mobile app as well as Zoom in advance of the conference,

Instructional information for attendees, presenters, and session chairs is available in SEM 2020 website in Whova and in the conference area of the SEM website.

All times listed in the program are Eastern Daylight Time (GMT-4).

The 2020 Charles Seeger Lecture

Saturday, October 24
4:15 – 5:45pm

Introduction: C. Kati Szego, Memorial University of Newfoundland

Sensing
Beverley Diamond, Memorial University of Newfoundland

The 2020 Charles Seeger Lecture will be delivered by Beverley Diamond, Professor Emerita of Ethnomusicology at Memorial University of Newfoundland. Prior to taking up the first Tier 1 Canada Research Chair in Ethnomusicology at Memorial in 2002, Bev taught at York University (Toronto, 1988-2001), Queen’s University (Kingston, 1975-88), and McGill University (Montreal, 1973-75). Bev completed all her degrees, in musicology and ethnomusicology, at the University of Toronto.

A Canadian, most of Bev Diamond’s research has taken place within the country’s borders. Offering nuanced analyses in a non-polemical voice, much of her writing addresses the creative moves of musicians—some who call themselves Canadian and many who don’t—that speak to the myriad conditions of colonialism, globalization, and patriarchy. Each of her multitudinous articles, co-edited volumes, and books address one or more topical areas: gender; technological production and mediation; expressions of Indigenous modernity in Inuit, First Nations, Métis, Australian Aboriginal, and Sámi communities; Indigenous intellectual property; and Canadian settler musics.

A few examples help to tell some of her story.

In the 1980s and early 90s, Bev was asking incisive questions about the biases and values that framed accounts of Canada’s musical history, including those that advanced an uncritical, romantic discourse about Canadian multiculturalism. Gathering scholarship across the musicologies and humanities, Canadian Music: Issues of Hegemony and Identity (1990)—her co-edited volume with Robert Witmer—helped reset Canadian music studies by offering new approaches to historiography, shifting musical emphases, and illuminating the power that academics wield through their assumptive and interpretive choices.

In 2000, Bev co-edited Music & Gender (U Illinois P) with Pirkko Moisala. While theirs was not the first volume on that topic in our field (Koskoff 1987; Herndon & Ziegler 1990), it broke new ground. Music & Gender was remarkable both for its authors’ use of feminist theory and for its recognition of ethnocentrism and class bias in feminist theory. The productive tension of that interstitial space characterizes a great deal of Bev’s work. As she wrote in her own article in that collection, “feminist scholars should not debate as much as relate the essentialist to the constructionist, acknowledging both the hegemonic struggle and strategic uses of the former while attempting to validate the latter” (132).

First steps toward establishing socially responsible partnerships with First Peoples and the scholarly community were taken with Bev’s sprawling SPINC (Sound Producing Instruments in Native Communities) project, begun in the late 1980s. As Bev recalls, “I formed the SPINC group… because I really felt I needed people to talk to about… my struggle to work ethically in First Nations contexts.” She invited two former students to form a research team, the published outcome of which was Visions of Sound (Wilfrid Laurier UP and U Chicago P 1994). Visions of Sound set the stage for a “new organology”: it was equally venturesome in its experiments with graphic representation, reflexivity, and dialogism—between the investigators and their First Nations consultants and between co-investigators. Visually complex and quirky, Visions of Sound is an interrogative exploration of Indigenous instruments’ socio-sonic, spiritual, and material design that refuses generalization. Bev hews to that refusal and her commitment to working with others in Native American Music in Eastern North America (Oxford UP 2008). In the preface, she writes: “I had always vowed that I would never write a textbook. I am more interested in exploring the uses and limitations of authority than setting down what students inevitably would read as… a truth about the musical practices of a group of people. As it turns out, by working with a group of Aboriginal advisors whose knowledge was so deep and whose capacity to discuss issues of representation was so capable, I found the preparation of this book one of the most rewarding projects I have ever undertaken. I hope that the differences among our perspectives remain clear and that this textbook, then, can never be read simply as a univocal authoritative text” (xiii). One of the three advisors that Bev profiles in the text is Haudenosaunee singer Sadie Buck, whose expertise and friendship have nourished Bev’s musicological practice over decades. Readers feel Sadie’s presence, not just through quotation, but in the ways Bev listens to and with Sadie, while taking responsibility for her own tongue. As Sadie herself has said, “Respect is in the voice” (Visions of Sound 1994:65).

While Bev has stayed on the theoretical cutting edge throughout her 47-year career, she exhorts her colleagues to think carefully about what theory actually is. Her article, “Theory from Practice: First Nations Popular Music in Canada” (2000) equates social theory with musical practice—and by musical practice she means acts of sounding and all their attendant activities. Practices, then, are not just informed by theory; nor are they objects to which scholars apply theory. Bev concludes her article by inviting... readers “to recognize alternative critical theory in systems rooted in oral tradition or reliant on … sensory data other than words.”

In the late 1990s, the recording studio emerged as an important site for ethnography, and Bev was there. Following her Indigenous consultants’ lead, she focused less on sonic results and more on the social achievement of those results. In the studio, Bev discovered that “identity”—ethnomusicologists’ go-to concept for a quarter century—had lost its explanatory power. As an alternative, she developed “alliance studies,” setting in motion her conviction that musical practice is theory. Alliance studies is an inquiry-based model that shows how we might hear contemporary expressions of Indigeneity in terms of alignments, relationships. She asks: What genres do musicians place their voices in? How does technological mediation inflect Indigeneity? In her evocation of the model, Bev notes how Indigenous musicians are under pressure to conform to a “patron discourse” (van Toorn 1990)—a discourse that values “unusual” timbres and distinctive practices. What does it mean, Bev then asks, when Indigenous musicians choose mainstream styles instead, and how do they shape meaning through language choice, through citation and collaboration?

Ever mindful of process, one of Bev’s many gifts is for creating welcoming spaces in which diverse stakeholders feel empowered to share their ideas. The Research Centre for the Study of Music, Media and Place (MMaP) that Bev established at Memorial University in 2003 is one such space. Implementing a model that puts university and broader societal goals into shared relief, MMaP brings musicians, audiences, communities, and academics into dialogue, and serves as a crucible in which projects can be collectively shaped. MMaP’s Back on Track CD series (now up to 11 releases), for example, presents previously unreleased archival materials, reissues of out-of-print recordings, and commissions of new work, all richly documented, providing Indigenous and settler communities access to their forbearers’ legacies.

As an inspiring mentor to younger scholars, Beverley Diamond has few peers among Canadian university music professors. The major projects she has spearheaded, such as SPINC, Canadian Musical Pathways, and those at MMaP, have involved extensive input from and training for countless students, from undergraduates to post-docs. A tireless champion of her students’ work, many of them are carrying forward her approach to research and community engagement in the academy and other milieux.

Since the 1980s, Bev has contributed to SEM at all levels, serving on or chairing 18 committees prior to taking on the presidency in 2013. In that role, she amplified the presence of Indigenous voices at the President’s Roundtable and masterminded the inaugural SEM/ICTM Forum in 2015. Recognizing how the International Council for Traditional Music and SEM support scholars who often work under very different conditions of knowledge production—indeed, often with different definitions of what counts as knowledge—Bev, together with Salwa El Shawan Castelo-Branco, engineered a space for conversations among the societies’ constituent members. In fact, Bev’s organizational allegiances spread in many directions; notably, she has been steadfast in her support of associations such as the Canadian Society for Musical Traditions and MusCan.

An astute grant-writer, Bev has attracted, by herself or as a member of joint projects, numerous grants from Canada’s Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) as well as other funding agencies. She has, in turn, served as an expert assessor for many such agencies, including the European Research Council (2012-19), and continues to generously assist others in the process of their grant-writing. Awards and honors have been bestowed upon Bev in abundance, including a Festschrift (2010), a Trudeau Fellowship (2009-12), and election to the Royal Society of Canada (2008), a designation considered the country’s highest academic honor. For her manifold accomplishments and breaking the path for a progressive scholarship of musics in Canada, SSHRC bestowed its highest accolade upon her in 2014: the Gold Medal Prize.

Pre-Conference Symposium
Musical Activism and Agency: Contestations and Confluences
Wednesday, October 21, 2020

Organized by the SEM 2020 Local Arrangements Committee

The theme of the pre-conference symposium of the SEM 2020 Annual Meeting, Musical Activism and Agency: Contestations and Confluences, invites deep and careful reflection on issues related to political and musical activism and the potential of music to bring attention to contemporary critical issues. Central to these considerations is the role of performers and music creators, as well as consumers and audiences, in challenging dominant narratives and simplistic understandings of music vis-à-vis politics and activism. Sites of resistance—virtual and place-based—and the accountability of researchers, as witnesses to musical activism and contributors to new narratives offer crucial opportunities for exploration. Questions around responsible and respectful engagement with activist communities and musicians are critical to current and future directions in ethnomusicological inquiry. Each roundtable will feature dialogues between musicians and ethnomusicologists and presentations by researchers who have been deeply engaged with communities, individuals, and cultural practices. Presentations in all roundtables will be given in succession, followed by a live roundtable discussion.

All activities associated with the symposium will be conducted virtually in Eastern Daylight Time. Pre-registration is required.

The Musical Activism and Agency: Contestations and Confluences pre-conference symposium is generously funded by Carleton University, Queen’s University and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

9:45 a.m. WELCOME

10 a.m. – 12 p.m. ROUNDTABLE ONE – MUSIC, ENVIRONMENT, HEALTH AND DISPLACEMENT
Chair: Judith Klassen (Canadian Museum of History)

Participants in this roundtable discuss ways in which contemporary musicians and activists use their artistic practice and output to bring attention to environmental issues and the forced relocation of peoples. Collectively, these presenters address issues of health, sustainability, displacement and migration and the ways in which music supports, documents and embodies activist agendas.

1) Rebekah Moore and Gede Robi Supriyanto: “‘Making a Hole in a Stone’: The Peril and Potential of Music Activism to Safeguard Indonesia’s Biodiversity”
2) Michael Frishkopf: “Music for Global Human Development”
3) Eric Martin Usner: “Teaching in Place”
4) Klisala Harrison: “Music of Independence and Self-determination in Greenland: Colonial Histories, Climate Futures”
5) Laura Risk: “Share the Arts, Share the Planet: Lessons from the Sustainable Touring Arts Coalition”

1 p.m. – 3 p.m. ROUNDTABLE TWO – SITES OF RESISTANCE
Chair: Anna Hoefnagels (Carleton University)

This roundtable is concerned with the physical and virtual spaces in which activism and resistance take place, and the specific ways that those sites establish meaning and shape outcomes. By examining the “site of resistance” from diverse angles and as emergent from distinct contexts, participants contribute to important reconceptualizations of place as it relates to, and embodies, sound and activism.

2) Joshua Brown: “We are Not a Crime: Embodiment and Absence in Contemporary Spanish Protest Movements”
4) Liz Przybylski and Joshua Thunder Little: “Lakota Hip Hop and Online Activism”
5) Darci Sprengel: “Troubling Resistance Narratives Ten Years after the ‘Arab Spring’”

4 p.m. – 6 p.m. ROUNDTABLE THREE – CONFRONTING EXTRACTIONISM:
RESPONSIBLE RESEARCH ETHICS AND PROFESSIONAL PRACTICES
Chair: Margaret Walker (Queen’s University)

In recent years, ethnographic research methods have been criticized for extractionist, transactional tendencies. At the same time, the significance of positionality and reflexivity vis-à-vis power, human interactions, and the shaping of “knowledge” through fieldwork and community engagement have been underscored. This roundtable examines relationships and subject positions that inform contemporary ethnomusicological research and the responsible and ethical practices that such research demands.

1) Ioanida Costache: “Re-Mapping the Field: Positionality, Power, and Privilege in Ethnographic Methods”
2) Matt Stahl and Olufunmilayo B. Arewa: “Royalty Accounting and Resistance”
3) Bruno Deschênes: “Appropriation or Transpropriation?”
4) Kate Galloway: “On the Silences and Soundings of Extraction in Environmental Sound Art”

30-Minute Concerts

The Angelique Francis Quartet:
Angelique Francis is a versatile and exceptionally gifted musician, known for her eclectic mix of musical genres including blues, soul, jazz, and gospel. Angelique’s soulful smoky vocals and instrumental techniques are reminiscent of a bygone era, but with a unique and modern sensibility.

Silla and Rise:
Silla are Cynthia Pitsiulak (Kimmirut, NU) and Charlotte Qamaniq (Iglulik, NU). Their name comes from the Inuktitut word ‘Sila’ meaning ‘weather,’ and together Silla experience and perform the sounds of traditional and contemporary throat songs. Rise Ashen (Ottawa, ON) is a Juno Award nominated global-grooves producer, DJ and dancer. Silla and Rise blend Inuit throat-singing and futuristic dancefloor beats.

Le Vent du Nord:
The award winning and highly acclaimed quintet, Le Vent du Nord is a leading force in Quebec’s progressive francophone folk movement. The group’s vast repertoire draws from both traditional sources and original compositions, while enhancing its hard-driving soulful music (rooted in the Celtic diaspora) with a broad range of global influences. Hands down, this is one of the best roots music acts on the planet.
15-Minute Concerts and Workshops

Judith Cohen. In her concert, “Singing Travels from my Living Room,” ethnomusicologist and singer of stories Judith Cohen draws on decades of learning and performance, sharing ballads and other songs from Quebec, Morocco, Turkey, Greece, Spain, and Portugal.

Lassana Diabaté. Malian virtuoso balafon player Lassana Diabaté comes from a long line of musicians and has collaborated with myriad international musicians and across many genres; here, he shares “New Developments of Soundiata Keita.”

Mei Han and Randy Raine-Reusch. A compositional structure for improvisation on two zheng, “Last Moon of Summer” was composed by Mei Han and Randy Raine-Reusch for the 2020 SEM Conference. (Han/Raine-Reusch 2020 SOCAN. Co-sponsored by the Red Chamber Cultural Society.)

JustJamaal ThePoet. Spoken word poet JustJamaal ThePoet shares his poetic musings on art, humanity, and triumph, capturing the essence of what influences his work as a creative in his work “The Influence.”

Benedictus Mattson. Ghanaian popular dancer Benedictus Mattson performs “Azonto,” a popular dance from Accra the capital city of Ghana and a sample of Afrobeats, a type of popular dance coming from the African continent and finding its way into the diaspora.

Melody McKiver. Anishnaabe musician/composer Melody McKiver, from Sioux Lookout, Treaty #3/Northwestern Ontario will share some of their recently created output.

Golam Rabbani. Playing harmonium, Golam Rabbani performs the Baul song, “You Fell in with Bad Company,” composed by Lalon Shah (1774-1890), the most celebrated Baul in Bangladesh.

Traveling Troupe of the Native North American Traveling College. Cultural educators from the Native North American Traveling College from the Kanien’kehá:ka (Mohawk) First Nation of Akwesasne share traditional Haudenosaunee social songs and stories.

| 7:00 – 8:00pm| Dance Workshop: MAWU
  Sponsored by the Dance, Movement, and Gesture Section

  Founded in 2007, MAWU is an all-female crew and dance company whose mission is to embody strong, positive images of women in the urban dance community, and to create fierce and creative works that will both educate and inspire new audiences. Furthermore, the company seeks to preserve the rich cultural heritage of house music both in New York City and around the world, to provide more creative outlets for women, and to foster and help build positive relationships among fellow dancers. |

Now publisher of the Yearbook for Traditional Music and the Royal Musical Association journals

Cambridge University Press is delighted that from January 2020 the Journal of the Royal Musical Association and the Royal Musical Association Research Chronicle have been published in partnership with the Press. The International Council for Traditional Music’s journal joined our world-leading list in 2019. These three journals have joined a distinguished list that already includes twelve of the principal titles in music and four in the performing arts. Cambridge University Press is working together with all our titles to ensure the continued excellence of our field-leading music journals.
