Miami Media School Administrator Selected Member of Year for Outstanding Service to Career Schools

TALLAHASSEE, FL – Aug. 17, 2015 – The association representing Florida’s career colleges selected Nancy Rodriguez of Miami Media School as the 2015 Member of the Year for her outstanding service and dedication to postsecondary education and the students served by the state’s more than 1,000 private institutions.

The 2015 awards were presented recently at the Florida Association of Postsecondary Schools and Colleges (FAPSC) annual conference held recently in South Florida.

An active member of the Board of Directors who presently is the President-Elect, Rodriguez is a strong advocate on behalf of students and career schools. She has worked diligently and tirelessly to explain the critical role the sector maintains in the higher education world to countless people including. She has taken a universal message and localized it – creating connections of academics to employers; showcasing student capabilities and outcomes.

“Nancy is a true champion for postsecondary schools and colleges who has dedicated herself to student success,” said Curtis Austin, executive director of FAPSC. “Through her leadership, our sector continues to make strides to contribute to the Florida’s future by providing quality postsecondary education to students who choose our schools.”

FAPSC has been the voice of Florida’s career schools since 1956. The association of more than 250 members works on behalf of the more 1,000 licensed private career schools and colleges in Florida that prepare students each year for employment in more than 200 occupational fields by offering degree programs, certification and training.
