

Professional Health Care Unit

Did you know that as a dues paying member, you receive representation in matters of discipline, including grievances, and other contractual issues. Your membership may even include legal representation for arbitration and PERC appeal hearings. Arbitrations and PERC appeals are very expensive. Think about this – your annual dues covers one hour of an experienced attorney’s time! FNA also provides assistance with decision-making, problem solving, and conflict resolution strategies and is also available to discuss how to preserve your rights under federal and state laws. In addition to assisting members with workplace issues, FNA advocates for nurses in the workplace on issues related to workplace safety, work environment, professional role development, and leadership and governance in the work environment.
