#MeToo Backlash in the Financial Industry - What Do You Believe?

In response to the #MeToo movement, the media has reported that some men have become less willing to sponsor or mentor women employees or engage in one-on-one interactions with them in various settings. The media calls this “male backlash,” and says it occurs for various reasons.

Please take a few minutes to take this survey, sponsored by the Financial Women's Association of New York and the Security Trader’s Association of New York, to help us learn what is happening in the financial industry and why.

The questions are directed to both men and women.

The survey is non-judgmental and is strictly anonymous. It should take no more than a few minutes to complete.

Please submit by July 31st, 2019 to be part of this survey.
