NOVA HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATORS ANNOUNCES PARTNERSHIP WITH HEALTHJOY

CHICAGO -- Nova Healthcare Administrators, Inc. (Nova) announced its latest partnership with HealthJoy, the on-demand personalized healthcare navigation platform, to bring HealthJoy TPA+ to current clients and new business prospects.

HealthJoy TPA+ proactively connects members with a variety of services, including telemedicine, healthcare concierges, price transparency assistance, and more, to help them choose high-quality, lower-cost healthcare.

The platform leverages insurance verification and precertification data to get ahead of costly healthcare decisions and guide members to alternatives. HealthJoy's virtual AI assistant, JOY, is at the center of the experience to educate and engage with clients year-round.

"Our healthcare system has become increasingly complex, and more than ever, employees need support and tools to guide decisions about their health," said Dave Mallen, Executive Vice President, TPA+ National Practice Leader at HealthJoy.

"We're proud to bring that guidance to Nova's members by linking their innovative and holistic approach to plan management with HealthJoy's connected navigation platform and personalized support."

Through HealthJoy TPA+, Nova's clients can also expect to see time savings for HR teams across all industries, along with an increase in employee benefits satisfaction.

"Controlling healthcare costs begins with consumer education and engagement," said Todd Martin, Chief Sales Officer, Nova Healthcare Administrators. "HealthJoy's connected healthcare platform provides an incredible consumer experience through navigation tools and proactive support. Our clients will have more control over their healthcare spend, their employees will have better healthcare outcomes, and ultimately, we'll begin to shift the way people experience healthcare."
