March 5-6, 2019 • 8:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m. ET • Registration at 8:00 a.m.
Four Points Miami Airport West, 3570 NW 74th Ave., Miami, FL 33122

Program Overview

This class is for the coder who understands the basics, and is ready to take their coding knowledge to the next level. In this 2-day session, we will work through common home health and hospice scenarios for each chapter and discuss the rationale behind each. Understand how coding can affect accurate reimbursement, outcomes, and how important coding will be under PDGM. Understand the interaction between face to face documentation, clinical notes from the provider, accurate coding, and an accurate comprehensive assessment, and why it is important to get it right the first time. We will also discuss the latest coding clinic guidance related to coding. Bring a current 2019 ICD-10 CM manual with you to class.

Objectives

The learner will be able to:

- Define ICD-10 purposes;
- Apply guidance and conventions while working through common scenarios;
- Identify resources for coding guidance; and,
- Identify legal and ethical considerations when selecting an ICD-10 code.
