FP-C[®] and CCP-C[®] Exam Review

As a strong supporter of the FP-C® and CCP-C® certifications, the IAFCCP believes proper preparation is key in the education process. Our focus is to provide a quality course to assist highly skilled paramedics in achieving their professional goals.

We are honored to offer this course developed by the late Corey Pittman, a well-known certified paramedic from North Carolina and a nationally-recognized educator.

FP-C® and CCP-C® Exam Review

- Two-day course covers advanced critical care concepts and patient management principles that follow the FP-C® and CCP-C® detail content outlines.
- Engaging, dynamic instructors carefully selected by the IAFCCP for their extensive transport experience and proven excellence in critical care transport.
- Course Study Guide

For Maximum Benefit students should have a mastery level knowledge of the following:

- Current trends and therapies in critical care transport medicine
- ACLS / PALS/ BTLS / ITLS
- Neonatal Resuscitation
- FP-C® exam candidates:
 - flight physiology
 - current CAMTS flight safety standards

This course meets the IBSC requirement for an approved 16-hour review course for certification renewal, and is approved for continuing education through CAPCE.

Corey Pittman was a well known certified flight paramedic from North Carolina and a nationally recognized educator/speaker whose review course yielded one of the highest first time pass rates in the nation. In 2016, Corey's sudden and untimely death stunned the industry and devastated his wife and two young children. The IAFCCP is deeply honored to be awarded the privilege to continue Corey's legacy through this course. A portion of the proceeds from every course will be provided to the Pittman family. Additionally the IAFCCP will contribute to the Corey Pittman Scholarship Fund, which will be awarded annually through the Association.
