Welcome to IBPA’s Spring 2023 catalog. Between my writing this and you receiving a copy, NABU will have opened the doors to the first US-based Creative Lab in the Miami-Dade County African Heritage Cultural Arts Center in Florida. Aimed at serving the vibrant Haitian community around the world, NABU will further its mission within the lab to train local artists and authors on how to create and publish authentic stories, thereby expanding its Haitian Creole mother tongue book collection.

At 48 pages, this catalog has raised an additional $1,920 on behalf of IBPA member publishers for NABU programs. (You’ll find four of NABU’s titles featured on page 27.) Together, we are helping to put culturally responsive stories into the hands of young people so that every child is afforded equal access to literacy. We are also helping to strengthen the relationship between independent publishers and indie bookstores.

IBPA members include independent publishers, hybrid publishers, author publishers (a.k.a. self-published authors), university presses, nonprofits, and association presses. We hope you’ll take some time to explore their titles highlighted in these pages. With more than 150 books to choose from, there’s something to surprise, delight, and educate everyone.

With respect and appreciation for all you do,

Andrea Fleck-Nisbet

As a college professor, I have seen what reading failure looks like. No parent expects their child to fail. But 1 in every 5 college freshmen has to take a remedial reading class. Don’t let that be your child’s story. Here’s how to succeed in reading from day 1.

“Ideal for parents seeking to develop within their children a fundamental and comprehensive understanding of reading, makes a highly serious and persuasive case…. shows how to discover the fun of learning to read, while building a solid foundation of comprehension…. TAKEAWAY: An inviting corrective on how to teach fundamental reading skills, for parents.”

During the sleep time ritual, children will learn that no matter where they are on the planet, Nature is right there.

Journey to a rainbow’s end and see what fantastical adventures await. This book challenges the very idea of rain boots!

Dash of romance, suspense, and a whole lot of fun await readers in the first book of the genre-blending Rocky Mountain Romances series.

Did someone say, “dance like no one is watching”? That’s the only way Tyler can dance in this fun and feisty second book of the series.

The Ghost in Her explores themes of class disparity and feminism against the backdrop of New York’s Bowery in the late 1800s.

Lady Lydia Clifton flees a forced marriage disguised as the mistress to the Romany King. What happens when she meets up with the real King?

Children learn they are in charge of safeguarding their physical and emotional space, and that strength and courage prevail in the face of uncomfortable matters.

With the help of the Animal Kingdom, a discovery is made, and a joyful celebration results. Nature does not disappoint.
Visually appealing, The Word Collector captivates a child’s interest as it blends learning and storytelling, a great complement to language arts lessons. Well-written, beautifully illustrated, the story entertains as it clarifies parts of speech. A brilliant concept!

Composition
Junious Ward
Poetry
Autobiography & Memoir

9781638340478 | $21.00 | Paperback

In his debut full-length collection, Charlotte, NC Poet Laureate Junious ‘Jay’ Ward dives deep into the formation of self. Composition interrogates the historical perceptions of Blackness and biracial identity as documented through a Southern Lens.

Ephemera
Sierra DeMulder
Poetry
LGBTQ

In these sometimes-brutal, always-beautiful poems, DeMulder brings to life a complicated truth: that what is most ephemeral, most fleeting, is ultimately all that lasts—in memory, in dream, in verse, in the rituals of love and family that we pass on.

Poetry by Chance: An Anthology of Poems Powered by Metaphor Dice
