IBPA’s core values include Independence and Inclusivity. As a nonprofit association, we are committed to independent points of view and a publishing industry where everyone can tell their story and find themselves in the content they read.

Please note that a listing in this IBPA catalog does not constitute an endorsement of any particular book, author, or publisher by IBPA, its employees, or board members.
As Our World Opens Up,
Independent Publishers Continue to Support You!

Every page in this catalog represents a $40 donation to BINC, the Book Industry Charitable Foundation.

At the Independent Book Publishers Association (IBPA), we believe the world of ideas and stories is best served when more than just the largest corporate voices are heard. This happens when independent publishers, independent booksellers, and readers come together through the power of partnership and community.

That’s why we’re honored to continue bringing you the independently published books featured in this quarterly catalog. Within these pages (virtual or physical!), you’ll find over 100 titles from IBPA members across a multitude of genres. In addition, you can expect a $1,440 donation to BINC on behalf of the publishers featured here. It’s the IBPA community’s fourth sizable donation to the Binc Foundation since the pandemic began over a year ago, adding up to a total of $7,000 to help bookstore owners, booksellers, and comic store employees and owners with unforeseen emergency financial needs.

We hope you feel the support, and the love.

And, of course, we hope you’ll take some time to explore the books listed here. With so many titles to choose from, there’s something for every reader!

With respect and appreciation for all you do,

Angela Bole

Beyond Extinction
THE ETERNAL OCEAN
Climate change & the continuity of life

“Not a book aimed at children but a book they will remember for starting them on a new path.”
—Paul Callomon, Academy of Natural Sciences of Drexel University

The ocean is the womb of all life on earth. It is beautiful and bizarre, violent and mysterious—a dystopian world where dragons are real, and monsters are commonplace. This book charts life’s ancient history of more than 500 million years and looks beyond the popular media focus on climate change and extinction to celebrate the continuity of life.

“I’ve seen firsthand my friend Lorena’s choice to come out of the darkness and into the light and to find forgiveness instead of grieve. Her journey is one we can all learn from and find inspiration in.”
—Camila Alves McConaughey, philanthropist and Women of Today founder

“In this beautifully written book, Lorena Junco Margain brings immense insight into teaching us about the practice of the injured becoming the healer. …a poignant reminder that people make mistakes, and that when we do, we must start again and try to do better. Surgeons like myself are reminded of our limitations as humans and our vocation to cure when able, but to heal always.”
—Nancy D. Perrier, MD, FACS, Chief of Surgical Endocrinology, Univ. of Texas

Lorena Junco Margain

After a surgeon’s catastrophic mistake left me with a lifetime of medical issues, I chose to embark on a quest for peace and healing—beginning by seeking space in my heart to forgive.
A wreck at sea lands a stranger at a coastal valley. Here survivors of a global apocalyptic event have sought refuge. He’s suspected of a local murder. He solves it to prove his innocence. Then he expands his new role to seize control of the valley’s warring factions.

“The writing rings true. You can smell redwoods and cannabis. The language is crisp, fresh, at times lyrical.” —Eric Weiner, author of The Socrates Express

THE HOTEL ON ST. JAMES PLACE
Growing Up in Atlantic City between the Boardwalk and the Holocaust
Molly Golubcow

Decades past its prime, Atlantic City in the 70s remained a destination for bargain vacationers, drug dealers, runaways, and others. It was vastly different than the Polish shtetel where Holocaust survivors Harry and Sonia Golubcow once lived, but the clientele of the Seacrest Hotel, a walk up hotel less than a block from the ocean, became a sort of family.

Observing all of this is their teenage daughter, Molly. Each person that passes by Harry’s front desk has a story to tell, leading Molly—and us—into a quirky, unforgettable world.
