IBPA’s core values include Independence and Inclusivity. As a nonprofit association, we are committed to independent points of view and a publishing industry where everyone can tell their story and find themselves in the content they read.

Please note that a listing in this IBPA catalog does not constitute an endorsement of any particular book, author, or publisher by IBPA, its employees, or board members.

OVER $4,000 TO FUND LITERACY AND BREAK THE CYCLE OF POVERTY

Every page in this catalog represents a $40 donation to the global literacy charity NABU.

As the newly appointed CEO of The Independent Book Publishers Association (IBPA), I am honored to serve our members and to share their featured books with you in our winter 2022-23 “Indie Titles for Your Consideration” catalog. In a rapidly evolving publishing landscape, the partnership between independent publishers and retailers is critical to building a richer, more inclusive community of authors, creators, readers, and educators.

To that end, IBPA is once again proud to partner with NABU to help solve the global literacy crisis by developing and providing free access to new children’s books in native languages. At 56 pages, this catalog has raised an additional $2,240 on behalf of IBPA member publishers for NABU programs. (You’ll find four of NABU’s titles featured on page 34 of this catalog.) Together, we are helping to put culturally responsive stories into the hands of young people so that every child is afforded equal access to literacy.

IBPA members include independent publishers, hybrid publishers, author publishers (a.k.a. self-published authors), university presses, nonprofit and association presses. Our members hail from varied locations, backgrounds, and cultures, and bring unique, fresh perspectives to readers. We hope you’ll take some time to explore their titles highlighted in these pages. With more than 150 books to choose from, there’s something to surprise, delight, and educate everyone.

As I learn and serve in this new capacity, I invite you to contact me directly to share your thoughts on IBPA’s work, and how we can best partner with your organization, so that we may all grow together.

With respect and appreciation for all you do,

Andrea Fleck-Nisbet
Chief Executive Officer, Independent Book Publishers Association

We Can't All Be Heroes (Libya, the Fezzan, 1942)

A German officer collaborates with a French Algerian priest and a Jewish Resistance leader to safeguard his munitions complex from the Free French in exchange for his protection of the inhabitants of their shared oasis from German and Italian authorities. A matter of opinion who is the boss.

She took his cigarettes, lighting two and offering him one. “Where are you from? Berlin? Do I know you? Should I? Come on. It’s not a difficult question, not even important. I just want to know.”

He hesitated. “I am Hauptmann Dieter Reineke. You do not know me.”

“You’re right, I don’t. I’ve never heard of you.” She lowered her rifle, cradling it in her arms like an infant. “I am Anna who knew Albert.”

“Albert.” He considered the Alberts he knew.

“Einstein.” She blew a thin stream of smoke from her lungs. “You know if you were young and handsome, Hauptmann, I might consider having sex with you.” She laughed as his eyes flew wide, a reassuring tap of her steel on his arm. “It’s all right, mein Liebchen, we’ll think of something else.” And so they did.

Dinosaurs Living in My Hair! offers a funny look at what happens when a child's imagination unfurls.

"To collaborate on this book helps to inspire children to love reading, celebrate diversity, share commonalities, and find strength in numbers." —Doris Velez

DLIMH!2 takes a look at what happens when five friends discover they have things in common: first grade challenges, curly hair, and...dinosaurs?! The fun begins when these “surprising similarities” help them find the courage to stand up to classroom bullies.

Oceans are the planet's most intriguing classrooms. They teach our children about biodiversity, eco-systems, & our responsibility to care for them. Four intrepid young explorers (plus their pint-size dinos) discover the impact mankind's waste is having on marine life.
