Independent Publishers Support You
and Make a Difference!

At the Independent Book Publishers Association (IBPA), we’re feeling the optimism. Over 100 independent publishers, hybrid publishers, author publishers, and mission-driven organizations have come together in these pages to present their books to you. It’s our largest catalog ever, and at 64 pages, IBPA is proud to be able to donate $2,560 to Binc on behalf of the publishers featured here.

This is the IBPA community’s fifth sizable donation to the Binc Foundation since the pandemic began in Spring 2020, adding up to more than $9,500 to help bookstore owners, booksellers, and comic store employees and owners with unforeseen financial needs.

We hope you feel the support, and the love.

And, of course, we hope you’ll take some time to explore the books listed here. With so many titles to choose from, there’s something for every reader!

With respect and appreciation for all you do,

Angela Bole

Publisher mission: We want all the books we publish to be unputdownable and produce more engaged readers by partnering with authors to help create stories that inform, entertain, and inspire.
Drawing vivid lessons from urban classrooms, the author shows how to open new avenues to help Black and Brown students become expert learners who are honored and loved. The key? Blending antiracist principles with a proven framework for inclusive teaching and learning.

“Fritzgerald offers very practical suggestions for making inclusion, antiracism, and the acceptance of differences the first and most important step in lesson planning. … This book gives me hope that in education we can begin to eliminate the violence of academic and social prejudice that kills the spirit of our babies and belittles the needs and experiences of people of color.” — From the Foreword by Samaria Rice

Andratesha Fritzgerald, EdS, serves as Director of Teaching, Learning, and Innovation for the East Cleveland (OH) City School District and has been a teacher and leader in urban schools for nearly 20 years.
It’s a holiday season that both Isaac, whose family is Jewish, and Teresa, whose family is Christian, have looked forward to for months! They enjoy all the things they share, as well as the things that make them different.

But when Isaac’s window is smashed in the middle of the night, it seems like maybe not everyone appreciates “difference.”

Inspired by a true story, this is a tale of a community that banded together to spread light.

“Zelinsky’s illustrations evoke movement, warmth, and friendship. Wind’s storytelling is poetic and relatable, and together they show young readers how a town can come together to support in the face of hate. Not just one for a holiday display, but for hope and amity.” —Tildy Lutts, Belmont Books, posted on Edelweiss

Lee Wind
Lee Wind, MEd is the author of the MG nonfiction No Way, They Were Gay?: Hidden Lives and Secret Loves and the YA novel Queer as a Five-Dollar Bill. This is his debut picture book.

The First Robot President is science fiction with a healthy dose of political satire, making fun of Democrats and Republicans in equal measure. The novel centers around Thomas Jenkins, a lobbyist, and his robot wife whose political ambitions land her on the Green Party’s 2520 Presidential ticket.

“…an entertaining science fiction satire made fascinating because of its behind-the-scenes looks at the bruising world of modern politics.” —Foreword Clarion Reviews

“…a perfect combination of science fiction and politics. The author seamlessly blends lessons about economics and political science into the storyline…I recommend this story to people who enjoy futuristic tales. I would also recommend it to students who are studying economics and political science.” —Paige Loveitt for Reader Views

Art Studio, Volume 1, Basic Drawing I is the first book in a series of art instruction books for children. It shows the relation between art and geometry and uses cartoon human figures as the basis for learning how geometry is used to create all works of art.

Art Studio, Volume 3, Scaling and Perspective, explains the complex art of perspective drawing, starting with scaling the size of objects in landscapes and then using that knowledge to construct ‘3-D’ exteriors and interior of houses and vehicles. 4th grade and above.

Art Studio, Volume 2, Basic Drawing II, continues from Basic Drawing I, showing how geometry is used to ‘turn the figures’ to the side and in-between views. It also goes over detailing figures and introducing landscapes into full drawings. 1st grade and above.

If lifelong clairvoyant Tipsy Collins learned one thing from her divorce, it’s that everyone in Charleston is a little crazy—even if they’re already dead. When Tipsy and her three children move into the house on Bennett Street, she realizes some ghosts won’t be ignored.

Polished and charming, Nate is at first able to hide from his friends that his dad is a suspect in several major crimes. But as the shocking truth unfolds, the loyal friends are forced into some life-altering decisions.

The 1970s brought the rise of feminism and the start of the “fitness revolution.” This is the improbable story of a young artist with a disability who created the world’s first sports bra and leveled the playing field for women across the globe.

Someone who knows every foot of the backcountry is stalking visitors attempting to run the Gorge. Rafting guide and veteran criminologist Richard Carlyle must track the ecoterrorist before he kills again.

The Starbreakers went their separate ways after they failed a whole city. Seven years later, everything they love is being threatened, and they must choose between hanging onto their past grudges or working together to save the day.

A mathematically brilliant but awkward teen must impersonate her alter-ego as a resistance leader against dimension-hopping enemies, or else lose all hope of returning to her own world.

Justice Kasric, her siblings, and her parents are locked in combat on both sides of the Human-Faerie War. Forced to make dangerous pacts with more than one unpredictable ally, only Justice can decide how far she’ll go to save London.

When an unsettling event occurs in the Queendom of Frea, Jacs, an inventor’s apprentice from the Lower Realm, participates in the Contest of Queens to prove that a Queendom is strongest when united.
