A More Diverse Publishing Industry!

Every page in this catalog represents a $40 donation to We Need Diverse Books’ Internship Grant Program

The Independent Book Publishers Association (IBPA) is proud to partner with We Need Diverse Books (WNDB) to help create a world in which all children can see themselves in the pages of a book. At 52 pages, this winter 2021–2022 IBPA “Indie Titles for Your Consideration” Bookstore Catalog raised $2,080 on behalf of IBPA member publishers to be donated to WNDB’s Internship Grant program. It’s an initiative that aims to diversify the publishing industry by providing supplemental grants to interns from marginalized backgrounds.

As WNDB explains, “In addition to receiving the grant, our Internship Grantees are also expected to attend various events throughout the summer including an introductory Internship Grant Bootcamp, various professional development and networking events, publishing panels, organized partner mentor/mentee meetings, and an exit interview/testimonial of the program.” Since 2015, 75% of WNDB grantees have continued their work in publishing, with five already acquiring books of their own.

By changing who is at the publishing table, WNDB’s goals align with IBPA’s DEI commitment which acknowledges that the legacy of the book publishing industry is one of privilege, bias, and exclusion, which has significantly affected the books that are traditionally published.

We hope you’ll take some time to explore the books featured in these pages. With over 130 titles to choose from, there’s something for every reader!

With respect and appreciation for all you do,

Ed Davis

Ed Davis began writing in boxcars and in hobo jungles to capture the rhythms of the rails as he caught trains around the Pacific Northwest.

Illustrated by Colin Elgie
First volume of a series of art instruction books for children ages 6 to adult. The series walks the student through the relationship between art and geometry. Lessons consistently show that art is the best place to begin learning the process of logic.

Art is the ‘study of Universal Form’. If you want to draw the forms of the Universe, you have to understand ‘how they are actually formed’ and simply copy the same movements. There is no magic to art. It is simply seeking a clearer view of how the Universe really works.

“That’s very statistical—he’s talking about generative modeling! … The book is really interesting!”

—Andrew Gelman, PhD, professor of statistics and political science at Columbia University

James Watt

James Watt has taught children’s art classes for over 25 years. His method is unique, showing the relationship between art and logic.
“All children could relate to and connect with a family from this story about diversity and inclusion of all different types. Many extensions at the end of the book create strong conversation starters for topics with children today.”
—Sarah Gregory, Educator

“They write and illustrate the most wonderful children’s books designed to help both caregivers and children navigate life’s struggles in a healthy way. The books help caregivers engage children in conversations about what they’ve learned and how they can apply the main message to their lives.”

Something strange is happening in Seabrook. The town’s lighthouse—dormant for over thirty years and famously haunted—has inexplicably started shining, and its mysterious glow is sparking feverish gossip throughout the spooked community.

Readers say: “…a heartwarming and wholesome novel that speaks on lost connections, and the healing power of love. Deeply romantic and hopeful to the highest frequency…” and “It is so perfectly crafted. It made my heart ache, and made me believe that in the end things fall to where they belong.”
