

Clint Woods

Executive Director, Association of Air Pollution Control Agencies (AAPCA)

Clint Woods is the Executive Director of the Association of Air Pollution Control Agencies (AAPCA), a non-profit organization of state and local air quality agencies located in Lexington, Kentucky and affiliated with the Council of State Governments.

Prior to joining AAPCA in August of 2014, Clint served as a professional staff member with the Committee on Science, Space, and Technology in the U.S. House of Representatives, the Energy, Environment, and Agriculture Task Force Director at the American Legislative Exchange Council, and Manager of Government Affairs with the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association. Clint currently serves on U.S.

EPA's National Advisory Council on Environmental Policy and Technology as well as the Keep Lexington Beautiful Commission. He holds an MA in International Commerce and Policy from George Mason University and a BA from the University of Mary Washington.