

THE INSTITUTE OF CLEAN AIR
COMPANIES

CONNECTING MEMBERS TO NEW MARKETS

As new markets emerge, the stationary emissions control and measurement industry adapts. ICAC continues to serve as the go-to, unbiased technical resource, helping members navigate markets and regulations.

WHAT WE DO

Advocate for Industry

Meetings with Policymakers

Whitepapers and Comments

Industry and Market Analysis

Exclusive Networking

A Seat at the Table

When competitors work together, the entire industry benefits. A small investment in ICAC ensures your company's voice is heard in Washington D.C. and beyond.

Policymakers and technology developers rely on ICAC's unbiased expertise to craft smart policies and stable strategies that promote long-term market growth.

OUR MARKETS

- Industrial Processes
- Carbon Management
- Criteria Pollutants
- Maritime
- Power
- Oil and Gas
- Nexus of Air and Water

ICAC Technical Divisions

- Carbon Emissions Management
- Conventional Pollutants
- Emissions Measurement
- International Markets

Engage with regulators, policy makers, customers and industry leaders through ICAC Divisions. Contributing your technical expertise to unbiased white papers, technical briefings and meetings enhances your company's influence.

OUR NETWORK

ICAC's engagement with decision-makers helps open market opportunities for our members around the world.

ICAC meeting with EPA Administrator Andrew Wheeler

Our network spans federal, state, local and international.

DID YOU KNOW?

- ICAC was founded more than 60 years ago under the name the Industrial Gas Cleaning Institute.
- Our members serve customers in all 50 states and in 100+ countries.
- ICAC is a non-profit trade association, headquartered in Washington, D.C., with a presence in Sacramento, CA through our management firm, AJW, Inc.
- AJW, Inc. provides strategic advice and supports ICAC's objectives through its dedicated team of experts.

WHY JOIN?

Knowledge is key. Ensure your company's competitive advantage by utilizing the following ICAC member-only benefits.

- ✓ Clean Air Connection an exclusive newsletter for members
- ✓ Webinars with timely insight and analysis
- ✓ EPA Roundtable an annual flagship event with members and EPA staff
- ✓ Meetings with International Delegates to open new markets
- ✓ Breaking News up to date news alerts and market analysis
- ✓ Market Analysis from AJW staff and leading industry experts
- ✓ Leadership Opportunities for junior and mid-career professionals
- ✓ Whitepapers prepared in our technical divisions set standards for the industry

“Stationary emissions control and measurement companies need to have a seat at the table as the world adapts to new climate policies and markets. ICAC offers its members unrivaled access and information to navigate opportunities worldwide.”

–Johnson Matthey, ICAC Member

ICAC advocates on behalf of its members, making sure that the industry voice is heard at the federal, state, local and international levels. ICAC collaborates with policymakers and other stakeholders to provide them with needed technical information to find solutions to problems. ICAC does not lobby in direct support or opposition to legislation.