ALL STARS BOOK REVIEW CLUB

Program Description: This program is designed for 5th grade students who are ready to take their reading and writing skills to the next level. It is intended as an enrichment program to compliment the 5th grade curriculum. It serves to connect schools and students with their public library. The program runs for eight weeks beginning with a PowerPoint presentation that welcomes students, and provides them with an overview of the program. Also, in the first session students are given a folder containing a pencil, post-it notes, handouts and a bookmark. In the same week a second session is convened and the students use the computer lab for Internet access to go online and learn how to search the public library catalog for books. They visit websites that have examples of reviews written by other children. At the end of the second session they choose their book.

The second week begins with session three. Using a PowerPoint presentation the librarian outlines the components of how to write a book review (they take home a handout of the presentation and examples of book reviews written by other children to help them in writing their own review). At the end of the third session the books are passed out and the three-week break begins. Students should have finished reading their book at the end of the three weeks. After the three week break the students meet back for the fourth session, a group discussion, and a review of the components for writing a book review. There is a one-week break to allow the students time to write the rough draft of their review. The librarian meets back with the students for a fifth session and checks each student’s rough draft and allows the students time to make corrections. The students are given another week to type their final draft. The sixth session students are to turn in their final product, and then their work is posted on the schools website. They are then rewarded with a pizza party to celebrate their accomplishment.

Program Benefits: This program shows students how libraries can be a resource for everyday life. The process of reading and writing a book review will help to develop their critical thinking skills, while at the same time build their confidence for expressing their views about what they are reading. Past participants were eager to repeat the program because it gave them the opportunity to share their opinion about what they have read with their peers, and experience a sense of camaraderie with others who love to read.

The Roles the Librarian Plays:
- X Information Specialist
- X Instructor in Information Literacy/Inquiry Skills
- X Partner to Teachers/Instructors/Subject Experts
- X Program Advocate and Administrator

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Concepts</td>
<td>Students will learn how to use the online library catalog. They will learn how to write a book review, and they will participate in a group discussion.</td>
<td>Students will have an understanding of how the library can serve them in everyday life. They will improve their writing skills.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Practices</td>
<td>Students will be able to recognize a credible source of information. They will become accustomed to expressing their opinion orally in a group setting with peers, and also through the written word.</td>
<td>Students will increase their vocabulary. They will further develop their critical thinking and analytical skills. Refer to section 5.3.4 in the Grade 5 Academic Standards for Indiana.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>States of Being</td>
<td>Students will experience a sense of worthiness, and accomplishment through having their review published on the schools website.</td>
<td>Students will gain confidence in their ability to independently search for and share information.</td>

These objectives correlate with established State standards.
INSTRUCTIONAL GUIDE

This is a guide for the librarian, teacher, and/or subject expert to follow when replicating the program.

PROGRAM FORMAT:

The program is done in six sessions over a period of eight weeks. Each session runs approximately 30 to 45 minutes. Sessions one and two are done the first week. The second week is session 3 and the beginning of the three-week break. When the students meet back after the three-week break they have session four. The 7th week of the program is session five and the 8th week is session six. The program can be presented to 3 different groups of students, each group with 6 children (this can be modified). Although I conducted the program in a media center at an elementary school with 5th grade students as the participants, the program can be adapted to a library or classroom setting, and can be modified to suit students in grades 3 through 7. The presenter will have a list of five books that the readers can choose from. I used Young Hoosier Book Award nominees.
SESSION ONE:

The first session is a 30 minute session and will begin with students picking up their folders (details of content found on screen 5) from a table that is displayed with the 5 book choices. In addition, they pick up a nametag. The presenter will begin session with a verbal pre-test poll and a PowerPoint overview of the program. The students will learn the mission and objectives of the program. They will be given an agenda, a calendar and will be shown a preview of their book choices. Through the PowerPoint presentation they will be introduced to the websites they will be using as a resource. In wrapping this session up, the students will vote to name their book club.

SESSION TWO:

The second session is conducted in a computer laboratory and runs about 45 minutes. The participants log on to their computer and go to the Internet. First they go to our public library catalog, http://www.imcpl.org. They will search the library catalog for the five book titles. They will check for availability of books, learn how to place a hold on a book, and read summaries and reviews. They will be directed to the website http://www.spaghetticlub.com where they will read reviews written by other children. At the end of this session they will vote on which book they want to read as a group (majority rules).

*Hint: Each group should choose a different book so there is more than one book that is reviewed. It would be helpful to have an assistant for this session.

SESSION THREE:

This session runs approximately 30 minutes, but can run longer depending upon the level of participation. A PowerPoint presentation is given by the presenter to explain how to write a book review. Students will learn the components of a book review. They will critique one or more book reviews from the website http://www.spaghetticlub.com. They will have examples of book reviews where the reader liked and/or didn’t like the book they read. A copy of the PowerPoint presentation along with examples of book reviews will be handed out for them to use in helping to write their own review. At the end of this session the books will be distributed and the group will part for three weeks in order to have time to read their book.
SESSION FOUR:

Presenter facilitates a group discussion about the book the students read. Students share their feelings about the characters, and what meaning the book had for them. They have the opportunity to discuss what they liked and/or disliked about the book. After the group discussion, the presenter will remind the students of the key components to writing a book review.

*Hint: Some students may not finish reading their book, if they did not enjoy the book. If this is the case, it would be beneficial to have the student write a review about what they did not like about the book, and why they were not inclined to finish it.

SESSION FIVE:

This session is a 30 minute session where the presenter proofreads with each student the review they wrote. They are given time to make corrections and type their final draft using Microsoft Word. The paper is handed into their teacher for extra credit and their review is posted onto the schools media center website.

*Hint: It would be helpful to have an assistant.

SESSION SIX:

Students share their website with classmates and are then treated to a pizza party in celebration of their accomplishment.

  • Written by: Andrew Clements

First Paragraph

• Hook Line
• Introduce Main Character/s
• Give brief overview of story
5.5.1

STUDENT HANDOUT AND POWERPOINT SLIDES

Second Paragraph

• Tell what meaning you think the story had.

• Tell what you liked or did not like about the writing, and the story.

Last Paragraph

• Give your recommendation and tell why.
A boy named Stanley Yelnats is suffering at a torture camp where he has to dig holes five feet wide and five feet long. After he finds a gold tube, he has to dig even bigger holes. Now he knows they’re looking for something. His friend Zero ran away. Stanley went after him and found him underground in a boat drinking something called ‘sploosh’. The sploosh makes them sick and they won't be able to survive unless they find water. They climb a mountain and they find water and onions. Where will they go now, back to the camp, or will they keep on exploring?

I think this book is good because it's full of surprises and I could never stop reading it. It also has a very unexpected ending. My favorite part is when Stanley finds Zero in the boat. Zero is my favorite character. His real name is Hector Zeroni. He doesn't know how to read and write and Stanley helps him learn. I recommend this book to people who like surprises and long books.

Hatchet

Written by Gary Paulsen

Reviewed by Ted T. (age 11)

There once was a boy who couldn't stand a secret about his mother. When the pilot the boy was with had a heart attack, the boy was left all alone in the wilderness of Canada. He lived there for fifty-four days. He had many adventures. You have to read the book to find out how he survived.

I enjoyed this book because of the writing style of the author. He used a lot of descriptive words that made it seem like I was there in the wilderness. There was a character named Brian who changed when he started to live in the wilderness. This book is a part of a series. It is different from the others because it is the first in the series when all of the adventures first began. This book is like other books by Gary Paulsen because it is based on experiences.

I definitely and truly recommend this book because of the great way it was written. There is a well-defined plot that most readers will enjoy. I recommend this book for 5th and 6th grade boys because they are just the right age for enjoying a good book about adventures in the wilderness.

THE LIBRARIAN’S ROLE IN THE PROGRAM

The librarian is responsible for all aspects of the program. He/She will be the key person in coordinating schedules for the space, time and equipment needed in order to conduct the program. The librarian will provide the media specialist and the teachers with a program overview. He/She will provide copies of the rubrics and measurement formats that will be used to evaluate the program and the participants. The librarian will provide all the amenities needed for the program. The librarian is the presenter for each session of the program.
Materials from the Library’s Collection

The librarian will supply the books for display from the Library’s collection. If there is no money to purchase books for the participants to keep, then the books will be supplied from the library’s collection.

Program handouts will be printed by the librarian using the library’s printers. The library will supply the monies needed to purchase consumable materials for the participants in the program. The library will supply the librarian with either a floppy disc, or a CD for the PowerPoint presentations. The library will allow the librarian paid time to do this program.
Space/Equipment

A computer, Internet access, a large screen, and a media projector for the PowerPoint presentations will be required. A computer lab with approximately 10 computers and an instructional meeting room will be required. The schools’ media center is the perfect setting for this program (if available). The librarian can utilize the computers and instructional rooms with the equipment to run PowerPoint presentations that are usually part of a school’s media center.

PARTNERS ROLES/PROFILES

Partnering with an elementary school media specialist would be ideal for this program. He/She can bring to the program their technology skills and expertise in creating links to the school website for posting the reviews that the students write. The Media Specialist will also act as a liaison between the librarian and school administrators. The Media Specialist will provide the space/equipment needed to present the program, and will be partly responsible for set up.

The teachers will select students from their classroom whom they know will be the best suited for this program, giving the librarian a captive audience. The teachers will receive the completed measurements in order to determine what extra credit will be given to the student and what curriculum standards have been met through the program.

Although this program is traditional in nature, it can still be valuable in this new day and age of technology. Reading is one of the most important skills taught on the elementary school level. This program not only fulfills the academic reading comprehension requirements for the 5th grade academic standards for Indiana, but it offers learning in a way that is fun, and teaches other important life skills. For example, the group discussion is a way for children to learn to communicate their opinions and ideas verbally in a constructive way among their peers. This program also helps children to develop critical thinking skills, it is not just rote learning. The program offers a detour from the day to day structure of the classroom.

One of the selling points to this program is the use of technology for gathering credible information. The display of the participant’s knowledge product (their written review) on their school’s website promotes a sense of accomplishment for the learner. And, the presenter’s use of technology in presenting the program is a plus.

On a personal note, I had a great time doing this program and the students I worked with were enthusiastic and eager to do the program again. The teachers loved it because it gave their strong readers an opportunity to expand. Of course, the media specialist could do this program without a librarian, but one of the purposes of this program is to build a bridge between schools and libraries.

Dear _______, Media Specialist;

As a way to bridge the library with the public school, I would like to invite you to partner with me for the ALL STARS BOOK REVIEW CLUB program. I know that as the Media Specialist at an elementary school your responsibilities can be overwhelming leaving you little time to do the rewarding programs that you would like to do.

I would like to work with you and present a Book Review Club program. With the participation of your 5th grade teachers I hope to enlist 6 students from each of your three 5th grade classrooms. I will provide all the necessary materials for the program, and all I will need is your space, equipment and technological expertise.

The students will learn to conduct searches on the public library’s catalog. They will learn how to critique a book while reading it, and to write a book review that will be posted on their schools website for fellow students and parents to see.

If you are interested please contact me and we can discuss more details of the program and coordinate schedules.

Thank you for your time and consideration,

Jean Beck
