Let's do this! That's what the NAIW Legacy Foundation Task Force decided at their first meeting for the 2019-2020 term. Under the leadership of co-chairs Roz Horton and Rachel Shubert, they have hit the ground running and making plans to help strengthen our Foundation and in turn, help strengthen our educational opportunities, our members and our industry!

The purpose, mission and vision of the NAIW Legacy Foundation is dedicated to the development and funding of educational programs for insurance professionals.

Did you know you can set up recurring monthly payments or split a donation into a set number of monthly payments? Does your employer match your charitable donations? This would be a great way to add to your personal donation and get your employer involved. The NAIW Legacy Foundation is a 501(c)(3) charity allowing your gifts to the Foundation to be tax deductible. You can check out these options and more on the IAIP site. Foundation donations are an investment in the strength of our insurance community. What better reason to give than to know that you’re making our industry stronger?

I hope you will consider contributing to your NAIW Legacy Foundation today!

The World of Contracts

Contracts are used as a legally enforceable agreement between two or more parties. As insurance professionals, we see contracts on a usual, if not weekly, basis. These agreements outline the terms, conditions, insurance coverages, indemnification and litigation requirements that are to be upheld. In this webinar, we will look at the reasoning behind the development and use of construction contracts. Additionally, the session will dive into the current changes to one of the most commonly used contracts, the American Institute of Architects (AIA) A201 contract.

Date: Wednesday, August 21
