

Linda Krebs

Linda Krebs is an Associate Professor at the University of Colorado, College of Nursing. She works collaboratively with Native American Cancer Research and Native American Cancer Initiatives to enhance the quality of life of Native Americans and other medically un/underinsured individuals with cancer. She has extensive experience in oncology nursing and in oncology education for healthcare providers and the public, holding roles such as oncology clinical nurse specialist, cancer screening practitioner, and oncology nurse consultant/educator. Dr. Krebs is Principal Investigator or Co-Investigator on locally and federally funded cancer-related projects and currently is Co-Investigator for the NIH-funded "American Indian mHealth Smoking Dependence Study." Additionally, Dr. Krebs is a past national president of the Oncology Nursing Society and speaks nationally and internationally on cancer care.