

ISTH Nursing Forum Workshop 2015

The ISTH Nursing Forum is offering nurses and allied health staff the opportunity to participate in an interactive workshop during the Toronto congress. This workshop will be facilitated by Professor Fiona Newall*.

This opportunity is open to any ISTH Conference attendee confident in reading and writing in English. Participant numbers are limited, so an expression of interest process has been chosen to manage interest in this initiative. There is the possibility of having 2 working groups – one investigating thrombosis and the other haemostasis.

Nurses are invited to submit an Expression of Interest to participate in a workshop that aims to:

1. Build international networks
2. Identify gaps in current knowledge regarding a practice issue in thrombosis and/or haemostasis
3. Develop skill in literature searching and critiquing
4. Prepare a literature review of the identified topic/s for submission to a peer-reviewed journal on behalf of the ISTH Nursing committee.

Expectations of participation are outlined below:

1. Submit a completed Expression of Interest application to by March 1st 2015
2. Contribute to email correspondence with workshop participants prior to the June congress
3. Attend and participate in the workshop to be held during the ISTH Nursing forum
4. Collaboratively develop a timeline for task arising from the workshop that focus on completing the literature review and submitting it for publication

Anticipated Outcomes of Workshop Participation

1. Development of international collaborative links
2. Growth in skills related to framing a research question, finding relevant literature and conducted a critical appraisal of the literature
3. Co-authorship on a collaborative review article with the goal of submitting it to a peer-reviewed journal
